"A Square Meal."

We are sure our readers will thank us for calling their attention to the very handsome advertisement of the Excelsior Manufacturing Co., of St. Louis, as it would be useless for us to try to say anything in favor of their great Charter Oak Cooking Stove. The very word suggests the thought of a well cooked meal followed by easy digestion, vigorous health, and a desire to have and to do plenty of real work, to say nothing of the comfort of a happy, contented household d

It is the most delightful of all hair dressing—cooling the head, allaying irritation, curing headache and throbbing temples, making the hair strong, fragrant, glossy and obedient to control, so cleanly to use that it will not soil the finest fabric, causing the hair to grow luxuriantly and beautifully, removing dandruff and pimples. No man or woman can become bald who will use the Lyon's Kathairon properly.

Local and Other Matters.

THERMOMETER 80 degrees F. in the shade at 1 p.m. to-day. Fine, breezy.

Wheat.—Wheat is being bought in at seventy-five cents a bushel by dealers and retailed out at ninety cents.

Recreating. — The Twentieth Ward Sunday school excursion party left for Lake Side this morning in high glee.

Sericulture. — The Deseret Silk Association will hold a meeting at the Firemen's Hall, to-morrow (Wednesday), Sept. 6th, at 3. p.m.
R. SIMPSON, Secretary.

Windmills. — Grangers in some parts of Utah are bringing a considerable amount of land into use that would be otherwise uncultivated, by means of windmill power, for raising water for irrigation.

Being Reconstructed.—The National Bank building will soon be a thoroughly reconstructed building, a corps of workmen having been engaged some time in making a phenix of it.

Notice.—All persons interested in the North Bench Water Ditch are requested to meet on Wednesday, the 6th inst., at 7.30 p.m., on the Ellerbeck Block, three blocks east and four north of the 20th Ward store, to receive report of the committee and transact business pertaining to said ditch.
By order of committee,
HERBERT J. FOULGER,
Secretary.

Grasshoppers.—In their southerly march the grasshoppers have reached West Weber settlement, a few miles west of Ogden, in vast swarms. Harvest is too far advanced for them to do much present damage, excepting to corn, which the people are engaged in cutting as rapidly as possible, to get it beyond their reach.

Work on the Temple.—By tomorrow night five additional courses of rock will have been laid on a little over one-fourth of the walls of the temple, after which the hoisting apparatus will be removed and adjusted that the laying may be continued to the same extent around the whole of the building, which, with every additional course, increases in the beauty and grandeur of its form and proportions.

Sunday School Movement.—The regular monthly meeting of superintendents and teachers of Sunday schools, at the City Hall, last evening, was numerously attended, there being not a few who were unable to gain admittance. Elder George Q. Cannon, Superintendent of the Sunday School Union, was present, and delivered an eloquent, instructive and most telling address, which was listened to with the deepest attention.

The musical exercises were rendered efficiently by the 6th Ward choir.

The Social Evil.—The police authorities are taking active and determined measures with a view to the suppression of houses of prostitution, numerous cases having been before Justice Pyper during the last few days.

Not only are the lewd women being prosecuted, but the keepers of houses of ill fame, and also the proprietors of the premises who rent them to such parties. We understand the present raid has caused several women of the town to leave for other parts and others agree to leave shortly.

We hope yet to see the time when matters in this regard will be as they were formerly, before the influx of misnamed outside civilization, when such a thing as a house of prostitution had no existence in Utah. That condition will come again sooner or later.

Seasonable.—The following seasonable hints to orchardists and nurserymen are from the September, number of the American Agriculturist—

Peaches—Gather for market before they begin to soften, as one soft peach will spoil a basket or crate. See that they are carefully assorted, and handled as little as posible.

Pears.—Never shake the fruit from the trees, but hand-pick always. All pears are better when ripened off the tree. A little practice will enable one to pick at just the right time; so that they will be in eating condition soon after they reach the consumer. New half barrels, lined with white paper, are the best packages for choice selected pears.

Apples.—Assort and market only the good ones; poor apples will pay best in the form of vinegar.

Budding may still be done, as recommended last month. Label each sort carefully.

Drying.—Make ample provisions for drying the surplus fruits of all kinds; it is likely that only the best fruit will bring remunerative prices this season.

Cider and Vinegar.—See that all inferior fruit is gathered and made into cider, before it has a chance to decay, rejecting all that is partially decayed.

Seeds.—Gather stones of peaches and plums for raising stocks, and preserve in boxes of sand where they will be kept cool. Collect seeds of all trees which it is desirable to propagate, as fast as they ripen, and sow those sorts at once, which will not keep, and preserve the rest in a cool place until spring.

Planting.—All land intended for fall planting should be plowed and harrowed, and put into proper condition for setting out trees; if possible give a good dressing of ashes or ground bone. Stake out the ground ready for planting later in the fall. In northern localities it is better to plow the land, and allow it to remain until spring; purchase the trees this fall, and heel them in to be ready for setting in spring.

Seed-Beds of fruit and ornamental trees must be weeded often, or else the tenacious fall weeds will render the work almost impossible, without rooting out the young trees with the weeds.

The St. George Temple. — The following are the dimensions of the St. George Temple, now near its completion, according to a statement made by Brother E. L. Parry, chief builder—

"The St. George Temple is 141 feet 8 inches in length by 93 feet 4 inches wide; 84 feet high from grade of ground to top of parapet. Tower, 31 feet square and 138 feet high to top of vane. Depth of foundation 10 feet, 12 feet wide.

"On the very bottom small volcanic rock were driven in with horse power and 900 lb. hammer, extemporized from Bro. Crosby's old cannon, shod with cottonwood and heavily banded with iron. On top of these were laid large flat rocks, from 7 to 12 feet long, and 3 to 4 feet wide, 12 to 14 inches thick, weighing from 40 to 75 hundred lbs., diminishing the thickness of the walls gradually to the top of the ground. From there to the water-table they are 3 feet 8 inches, and 2 feet 8 inches under the roof timber.

"The form of building is modern gothic, square tower, with octagon dome on top.

"The quality of the rock is volcanic in the foundation, and the balance red sandstone. Quantity, 1,900 cords (17,000 tons) volcanic rocks, weighing 160 lbs to the cubic foot, red sandstone 126 lbs.

"There are eleven rooms in the basement. The size of the main rooms above is 99 feet by 78 feet and 27 feet high in the centre. There are eight small rooms on each side, eighteen from main floor. Their size is 13 feet 4 inches, with a passage in front of them from one end to the other. The number of windows is 116; 48 of them are circular; 60 long, 12 feet; and 8 extra long, 23 feet."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

—Discussing the many artificial aids to feminine beauty an eastern exchange springs the question, "What are big girls made of?" and seems to think they are largely composed of that very common article known as fraud.

—If you want good shooting go to Maryland, the eastern shore of which is said to be literally alive with partridges.

—In Howe's London Circus a public illustration of the manner in which boys are taught to ride is given, which the Chicago Tribune speaks of in this way—"The subject of instruction is tightly strapped in a leather jerkin, and by means of a revolving cane is kept in pretty close proximity to the galloping horse. The sight of one of those boys sprawling in the air, with all his extremities moving at once, vainly clutching at the flying steed, is not to be soon forgotten."

—It is said that infantile veal and diseased pork are not uncommon in the San Francisco markets.

—Moncure D. Conway writes to the Cincinnati Commercial from Paris, "It has been for some time a prevalent belief among the geographical and anthropological savans of both London and Paris that the white Americans have underrated the difficulties of their Indian problem. The hostile Indians are said to be only a few hundred thousand in number, but even so many are declared by some good judges to be too numerous for extermination, when their ferocity exceeds their love of life, and when they are intrenched in wild regions difficult of access."

—The following is from an English magazine — "Scattered about the earth there are supposed to be 10,000,000 or 11,000,000 of Jews alive. Thousands of these people are rich, some of them own colossal fortunes. Rothschild could buy up the fee simple of Palestine. Goldsmid might rebuild the temple of Herod. Montefiore has money enough to cast a golden statue of King Solomon. But of these wealthy Hebrews, not one is willing to go back."

—The New York Herald says, "Colonel Gawler, Captain Warren and other gentlemen have formed a society for colonizing Palestine. Military and engineering science will not be wanting in the committee of management. Their purpose is to transfer the dominion of Palestine from the Turk and Arab to the Jew."

A Letter from Sweden.

BOBERG, July 30, 1876.

From Philadelphia, I embarked for Liverpool in the American line's steamer Illinois, a fine looking vessel, but by no means a fast one, and she did roll fearfully. The discipline on board her was most excellent, almost too severe and strict for a mere merchantman. I had bought a steerage ticket, but one look into the hole called "the steerage" completely cured me of the cheap mode. A little judicious sprinkling of the "root of all evil" soon opened a snug berth for me in the "intermediate" department. Here it was as comfortable in every way as I could desire. I do not know if it is from a desire to save, or some other cause, that the crew were so terribly overworked. The crew, so I heard, consisted of sixty-one men—such vessels usually have one hundred and nine men; and the way those poor fellows were obliged to work was simply horrible. One man, the second baker, fell down and died from over-exertion on the 5th day out. But these companies are losing money every trip, and cannot afford to pay for so much help. Emigration is slowly but surely turning toward Europe again. English, Irish, Swedes, Danes, Germans and Frenchmen were on board this vessel bound for fatherland, and all having hard tales to tell of America. In eleven days and a half we accomplished the distance from Philadelphia to Liverpool, some 3,500 miles. The White Star steamers usually accomplish it in nine days. Travelers will please make a note of this.

England, merry England, was reached at last. I like England and the English people, and English institutions. There is something so solid and substantial about them, and it all inspires confidence at once, and during my short stay there I made the acquaintance and secured the warm friendship of more than one real Englishman. But I must further on. From Hull I embarked in one of the Kilson steamers, model vessels in every respect, and a pleasant run of two days brought us in sight of our "dear, native land," Sweden. There are times when even the choicest of pens fail to do justice to a time, a scene, an incident, a place. Such is the case with me now, therefore I will let the reader imagine my feelings when I again, after an absence of seventeen years, saw my native land, although I am an American, so far as an American education—in the school of adversity—and a lifetime spent there can make me such. Yet, I must confess there is something attractive about the land of my nativity—the land in which my forefathers lived and died. Yes, now we are in Sweden; poor, little, insignificant Sweden. Such is not my idea, but the idea of the uninitiated. Sweden is far from poor; is by no means little, and let Germany and Russia say whether she is insignificant or not. But that she is fifty years behind America in almost all the great industries is a deplorable fact; so is England for that matter, and Sweden looks upon her as a paragon of perfection and apes and imitates her as far as she can. The financial condition of this country is very good indeed. The money is small, and, in America, not worth much; but it is good—worth its face value every time—and no difference in paper and gold, and there is plenty of it. That is where the beauty of it lies. Even a laborer of the commonest kind can make from four to five "pronor" per day, and that is equal to as many dollars in America. I would therefore advise all competent mechanics who have emigrated to America and there learned to work, when times become hard there, to come direct to Sweden; here is employment and good wages for you all.
