Palestine Re-peopling, and Signs of the Times.

At a moment when all eyes are turned to the East, it cannot be unimportant to learn that, after the slumber of ages, Palestine is awakening to new life, and Israel is actually returning to its shores in such numbers, and in such a way, as they have never been known to do. While in the former instances, whether under Pagan, Christian, or Moslem masters, they were equally the subjects of extortion, oppression and contumely; now they are beginning to hold a position of comfort, independence and power. This remarkable change is in itself significant, and the whole movement should surely be watched by the student of prophecy with eager and expectant attitude.

The great importance of the day in which we live arises from the very general agreement amongst commentators who take the historical view of prophecy, that the period of 1,260 years of Papal and Mohammedan temporal power is now fast expiring. At its termination the Jews are to return, before their conversion, to their own land, in very considerable numbers. (Dan. xii, 7; Rev. xi, 3, etc.)

It may be asked, are there any signs as yet of the commencement of this momentous event? A residence of some years in the Holy Land, and an intimate acquaintance with what is now passing there, leads me unhesitatingly to answer that such there are. The last four or five years have witnessed the return of the Jews to Palestine from all parts, but more especially from Russia, which has been altogether unprecedented. The Hebrew population of Jerusalem is now probably double what it was some ten years ago.

In 1872 and 1873 such numbers came to reside in Saphed, one of the four holy cities of the Jews in the mountains of Galilee, that there were no houses to receive them, and building was for a considerable length of time carried on all night, as well as all day—this, be it remembered, in the East, where "the night" is emphatically the time "in which no man can work!" Great accessions still continue daily; and whereas ten years ago the Jews were confined to their own quarter in Jerusalem, the poorest and worst, they now inhabit all parts of the city, and are always ready to rent any house that is to be let. Notwithstanding this happy change, want of accommodation still being felt, building societies have been formed, and many of their simple tenements are now rising outside the city to the north-west. Moreover, the Jews in Palestine are certainly acquiring possession of landed property in the villages and country districts. I believe the Hebrew population of Palestine proper must now be stated at 30,000, of whom more than half reside in Jerusalem. This is without reckoning the Jews of Sidon, Beyrout, and Damascus, all within the limits of the Land of Promise, probably some 7,000 or 8,000 more.

Three causes have, in the providence of God, mainly contributed to bring about this marked return to the Land of Promise: first, new land laws affecting Palestine; secondly, new laws of military service in Russia; thirdly, new civilization throughout the East.

1. As regards the new land laws in Turkey, formerly none but rayahs, or subjects of Turkey, could hold real property in any part of the Ottoman empire. Some nine years ago, however, a most important alteration took place. In June, 1867, an imperial rescript (Hattihumaiun) gave to all subjects of foreign powers a right to purchase landed property in their own name. It was a part of that marked improvement in the position of foreigners in Turkey which dates from the time of the Crimean war.

No sooner was the law passed than many began to purchase plots of ground for building in and around the principal towns of Palestine. At first men found it hard to believe that safe possession would be guaranteed, and that Jews, who but a few years before were greeted in the public streets with opprobrious names and shameful ill-treatment, would be allowed by the haughty Mohammedans to become in peace the lords of the soil. But as time wore on, and one villa and cottage after another arose outside the walls of Jerusalem where the owners lived in safety, new confidence was inspired, and more became desirous of possessing a portion of sacred ground. In the country districts whole villages, with lands around them to the extent of over 3,000 dunems, or acres, have been bought—lands which, though unmanured from year to year, unimproved in any way, and cultivated with the least possible amount of labor, are immensely productive, owing to the extraordinary fertility of the soil.

Already land in the neighborhood of several towns has enormously increased in value. To my knowledge, one plot of ground close to Jerusalem was sold three years ago for twenty times the sum which was paid for it some time previously, by the owner. This increase in value has arisen from the right of foreigners to purchase real property.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

AMERICAN AND AUSTRALIAN GIRLS. — I consider Australian girls some of the most beautiful in the world, not even excepting Americans. And nowhere will you find more beauty than during the season at Saratoga, Newport, or Long Branch (the latter place rather shoddy, no doubt), or in the late fall at four of the afternoon on the block between Madison and Union Squares. I really believe that Australian beauties are superior to American beauties in one respect; they show more like real, live, healthy flesh and blood. I am only judging of Victorians. I have heard that in New South Wales and Queensland ladies are thin, pale and indolent, as in India. But on the lawn, yesterday, there was beauty, youth, health, energy, vitality. An anatomist might have found the fault of their being often a little too fine drawn in the waist, but that, alas! is universal in civilized (?) countries.—Vagabond, in Melbourne (Australia) Argus.

WHAT'S THE MATTER? — Our planet would seem to be passing through an extraordinary state of disturbance. Abroad the winter climate is very much like our own. The London Telegraph says the first day of 1877 will long be memorable in England for a gale surpassing in its violence any tempest that has visited the English coasts since the hurricane of 1703, when the old Eddystone Lighthouse was washed away. Both lands seem to be passing through a sort of zone of whirlwind, hurricane and cyclone. If we look back over the records of past centuries we shall find that about once in every hundred years the whole surface of the world is swept by gales and tempests. As regards the damage caused in Lambeth, the extraordinary thing is that it should be possible for meteorologists to predict, as they did with the greatest accuracy, the occurrence of an inundation such as that which swept the southern banks of the Thames last month; yet no precautions were taken to guard against the emergency.—Ex.
