EVENING NEWS.

Monday - Oct. 4, 1886

SUNDAY SERVICES.

Religious services were held in the Tabernacle, Sunday, October 3d, commencing at 2 p.m., High Councilor H. P. Richards presiding.

The choir sang:

O say what is truth? 'Tis the fairest gem
That the riches of worlds can produce.

Prayer was offered by Elder Robert Campbell.

The choir sang:

Again we meet around the board
Of Jesus, our redeeming Lord.

The Priesthood of the First Ward officiated in the administration of the Sacrament.

Elder James T. Woods was the first speaker. He said that he had been a resident of these valleys for thirty-two years, but the present occasion was the first time he had been called to address a congregation in the Tabernacle. His mind reverted to the early history of Utah, when peace and love pervaded the hearts of the people, and he felt a desire of again experiencing the feelings of those days. Though there were some trials yet the people were in a position to know who were their friends. Since his first arrival in Utah, the speaker had passed through sufferings in common with his neighbors, in times of scarcity, and had also had the experience of a pioneer in Southern Utah and Arizona. In the latter Territory, which was his present residence, he had, with his brethren, been required to combat many difficulties, which at times seemed insurmountable. He had also experienced many pleasures, one of these being the privilege he had had of laboring in the St. George Temple. He realized that the greatest joy that could be felt by human beings was attained when they were storing up riches in heaven. In February, 1885, he had been called on a mission to England, where he went and labored with great satisfaction. There he found that there were many who believed the Gospel, but had not the moral stamina to obey it. On his return trip he accompanied the company of emigrants who were detained by the emigration commissioners at New York, because they were "Mormons." His experience there indicated to him that the whole world partook of the spirit of opposition to the Latter-day Saints.

Apostle Heber J. Grant next addressed the congregation. He said that there was nothing he desired more earnestly than that the Saints should receive salvation. The Lord had been good to them and had given them a knowledge that they were engaged in His work. There was no mere delightful labor than in doing the will of God with all the energy we possess. To the true Saint it made no difference what difficulties he had to meet; having the testimony of the truth, he would bear anything for its sake, and glorify God for His blessings. It was strange that individuals would try to rob people of the privilege of coming to Utah, when there was found so much to make good, honest people happy. There was nothing in the teachings of the Latter-day Saints that led persons to injure each other. What they taught and practiced was the Gospel of Christ. The Elders taught this to the world, and were hated and persecuted for it. The only fear that entered into the heart of a Saint was that possibly he might falter in his fidelity to the truth. Many who had testified of the truth had fallen away, through transgression. Those who had received a testimony of a principle and neglected it, were not worthy of respect. The Saints were charged with being ignorant because of their belief in a personal God. Yet how much more ignorance was manifested in asking reasonable men to believe in a God without body, parts or passions. The Saints realized that it was through acquiring knowledge that they could be saved. They knew that they were hated by the world, and that it was because they followed the teachings of the Lord Jesus. They were passing through some painful trials now, and it was doing them good. This chastisement would continue until they kept the commandments of God. The members of the Church would find that those who thought more of a glass of wine or their tobacco than of the Lord's will, would fall. Be they high or be they low, of those who sit on the stand or in the congregation, the result would be the same unless they repented. No man could tamper with iniquity and hold his place among the Latter-day Saints, no matter how great he may be. The day was fast approaching when the selfish, proud and haughty would fall. The Gospel taught men to be meek, pure and honorable. No man could be impure and receive the blessings of heaven. Those who have fallen commenced their downward course by disregarding some slight commandment. No law of God was so insignificant that it could be disregarded. Some had fallen because they oppressed their fellows. The Saints were accused by enemies of being impure. But those who were most bitter against the Saints had to confess that the latter were pure, and would not retain among them an impure man or woman. The Saints had been spoken of as priestridden, but no people were freer of this than they. No man who used his priesthood to oppress his fellows, or to gratify his ambition in any degree of righteousness, or to cover his sins, could hold his place under the law of God, as it was laid down in the Doctrine and Covenants, section 121, in which it was said:

Behold, there are many called, but few are chosen. And why are they not chosen?

Because their hearts are set so much upon the things of this world, and aspire to the honors of men, that they do not learn this one lesson—

That the rights of the Priesthood are inseparably connected with the powers of heaven, and that the powers of heaven cannot be controlled nor handled only upon the principles of righteousness.

That they may be conferred upon us, it is true; but when we undertake to cover our sins, or to gratify our pride, our vain ambition, or to exercise control, or dominion, or compulsion, upon the souls of the children of men, in any degree of unrighteousness, behold, the heavens withdraw themselves; the Spirit of the Lord is grieved; and when it is withdrawn, Amen to the Priesthood, or the authority of that man.

We have learned, by sad experience, that it is the nature and disposition of almost all men, as soon as they get a little authority, as they suppose, they will immediately begin to exercise unrighteous dominion.

Hence many are called, but few are chosen.

No power or influence can or ought to be maintained by virtue of the Priesthood, only by persuasion, by long suffering, by gentleness, and meekness, and by love unfeigned;

By kindness, and pure knowledge, which shall greatly enlarge the soul without hypocrisy, and without guile.

Let thy bowels also be full of charity towards all men, and to the household of faith, and let virtue garnish thy thoughts unceasingly, then shall thy confidence wax strong in the presence of God, and the doctrine of the Priesthood shall distill upon thy soul as the dews from heaven.

The Holy Ghost shall be thy constant companion, and thy sceptre an unchanging sceptre of righteousness and truth, and thy dominion shall be an everlasting dominion, and without compulsory means it shall flow unto thee for ever and ever.

The choir sang the anthem:

Hark! Ten thousand voices.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Elias A. Smith.

HOW MATTERS ARE DOWN SOUTH.

ST. GEORGE, Utah, Sept. 26, 1886.

Editor Deseret News:

The weather in "Dixie" at the present time is very agreeable, in striking contrast with the excessive heat of the past summer. But little rain has fallen during the past summer, and what we had came mostly in August.

There has been considerable sickness among the juvenile portion of our population, and some deaths have occurred. We have been less afflicted in this regard, however, than have the people of Washington, six miles east of here. Many have been taken down with malarial fever, and at times here have been hardly enough free from illness to take care of the sick.

The Temple is open again, and the work for the dead continues unabated. Notwithstanding the persecutions through which the people are compelled to pass, they still remember their duty to their friends who have passed away.

It has been the desire of the people here to establish an academy at St. George, where our youth might secure the advantages of a higher education without going so far away from home. Though we have not as yet succeded in establishing an academy, we have been enabled to secure the services of Prof. Joseph M. Romney, a graduate of Cornell University, as principal of our central schools. Under his able management, we hope to build up a school that may some day grow into an academy.

The crops this year are only moderately good. The grain crop is light, and the hay crop is much below the average, owing to the fact that the dame in the Rio Virgen are out, and there has been no water for a large portion of the land. The fruit crop is good, but the price of dried fruit is so low that the farmers look gloomy over the prospect of such small returns for their labor.

Respectfully, W.

PRIESTHOOD MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Priesthood of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion convened in the Assembly Hall at 11 a. m. to day. All the Wards of the Stake were properly represented, excepting the Third Ward of this city. The usual business being dispatched, several speakers addressed the meeting.

The importance of teaching the youth of Zion to properly appreciate the Priesthood and the blessings of the House of the Lord was touched upon, that they might not esteem sacred things lightly. The too frequent use of title, such as Bishop, Apostle, etc., when the word Elder was sufficient, was deprecated. The use of correct forms in the administration of ordinances was also referred to, and the importance of teaching young Elders to be accurate in this respect. Mistakes of a ridiculous character were sometimes made, as well as serious omissions. Many a convert had not been properly baptized or confirmed, and ordinations had been faultily performed, owing to lack of knowledge or care on the part of those officiating. Practical methods of teaching these duties should be adopted. Brevity, plainness and simplicity should be observed. A patriarchal blessing need not be given, when the object was simply to pronounce a confirmation. The forms laid down in the Doctrine and Covenants were correct, and should not be deviated from, neither by adding to or taking away.

The necessity for the preaching of the first principles of the Gospel among the youth of Zion, was dwelt upon. Returned Elders, especially young men, should be set to work in this direction, with the same zeal as manifested by them in the world. The President of one of the Stakes of Zion had lately made the remark that at least one half of the young people in his stake were not converted. Preach the Gospel among the Saints, and do not dwell too much upon temporal matters, the persecutions, advanced doctrines, and the religions of the world. As to the work in the world, the methods should be used which will spread the Gospel, not shut it out and cause people to form erroneous ideas concerning us as a people. Missionaries should act with uprightness and propriety in all their ministrations.

Presidents of quorums should remember that they are put in office to preside, not to preach all the time. Call out the talent that exists everywhere. The same advice would apply to Bishops and all presiding officers. Too much of any one thing, no matter how good, was tiresome. There was a great work to be done inside the Church, and it behooved all to be up and doing.

The meeting adjourned till the first Saturday in November, 1886.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Strange to say, there has never been a book written giving a complete and authoritative account of the professional criminals of America, although the want of such a one has been long felt. It is met now, however, by the very best man for the purpose—Thos. Byrnes, Inspector of Police and Chief of Detectives, of New York City.

This important volume will be published on or about the 10th of October by Messrs. Cassell & Company, and contains the Portraits, Pedigree and Records of a large number of Celebrated Professional Criminals who are plying their vocation in all parts of the United States. The portraits are heliotype copies of the original photographs, and they will be of great volue to Banks, Judges, District Attorneys, Sheriffs, Chiefs of Police, Detective Officers, Constables, Marshals, Hotel and Boarding-house Keepers, Large Commercial Houses, Newspaper Offices, and, in fact, to any person who may be liable to come in contact with the criminal classes. Indeed, with the use of this book, every man may be his own detective.

Inspector Byrnes has facts at his command that would make the fortune of a writer of sensational stories. His experience of twenty-three years has been particularly fruitful, and he may be said to have an intimate acquaintance with the "ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain." The book is filled with stories of famous bank burglars, murderers, sneak thieves, confidence men and others, so that the general reader will find much entertainment in its pages. In looking over the portraits, the reader will be struck by the respectable appearance of some of these criminals. There are bank burglars who look more like bank presidents, and sneak thieves who might be taken for Sunday school superintendents. Inspector Byrnes speaks highly of the ingenuity and nerve of some of these rascals, but there are few of them who cannot be outwitted by the lynx-eyed detective.

Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequaled in the world—unsurpassed in the world.

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota.
