BREVITIES.

Betray no trust.

A fall phrase never lacks friends.

Whatever you dislike in another take care to correct in yourself.

He that wants health wants everything.

"I have lost my watch overboard. Is there any way to recover it?" "Oh, yes, divers ways."

The Tomahawk, the satirical English paper and lampooner of royalty, is owned by Russell, a member of Parliament for Norwich.

Umbrellas, with windows in the sides, so that a man can look out and see when it has stopped raining, are the latest invention.

Drinking-glasses were made for men, and looking-glasses for women. Both make the head uneasy, one with liquor and the other with vanity.

An Illinois grave-digger, who buried a man named Button, sent a bill to the widows as follows:

"To making one Button-hole, $2.50."

A Wisconsin lover caught his bride carrying in a "back log," that he himself could not lift, and he concluded not to marry in that family.

Mr. Greeley thinks another year of income tax will make us "a nation of liars." It has made us a nation of tall swears already.

A young ladies' club is reported to have been organized with a real club house in Fifth Avenue, real cigars and champagne cocktails, and a real initiation fee of $200.

Boston church-goers, the Transcript says, complain that if their ministers keep on using such big words they will be compelled to carry dictionaries as well as prayer-books to meeting.

There is nothing in a man that a woman admires more than his redundancy and ability to smash another fellow and it is just so with a hen. When a rooster gets licked, the hens all march off with the other rooster if it ain't half so big and handsome.—Josh Billings.

A precocious but modest little lady of two summers, was shown some pictures including one of the Greek Slave.

"Mamma," inquired she, "is it a boy?"

"Well, you may call it a boy," was the reply. After another look at the nude figure, the young critic gravely said:

"Boy, you go and get on your drawers as quick as you can."

The following letter, which, according to sensationalists, "sparks volumes," was picked up in the streets of Bloomington, Ill., the other day:

"DEAREST C—Your boots are inside the garden fence, at the southeast corner, under a piece of old carpet. Don't come any more for Heaven's sake. The old man swears he will blow the top of your head off. Your affectionate R."

The Rev. Mr. Underwood, of the Congregational Church, in Somers, Connecticut, recently called on a family who never saw him, and bluntly introduced his mission as the door was opened, with the inquiry:

"Does Jesus Christ live here?"

Very naturally he received for reply:

"No, sir. Mr. Hiram Pease does."

A Chinese lady's foot is thus presented to the public gaze by a San Francisco correspondent:

"Walking along Dupont street, lately, I saw a Chinese lady at her toilet, and, though the sight was no novelty, as she was going to bathe her feet, curiosity impelled me to stop and try to catch a glimpse of them. A foot three inches in length is the ideal of a Chinaman, on which he will lavish every epithet nature and language can supply, but its beauties are altogether ideal, for as the woman unbound the bandages a piteous mass of lifeless integument revealed itself, resembling the skin of a washerwoman's hand after it has undergone a long maceration with soap and water. Thus my mentality lost another myth."

Baboo Keshub, Chunder Sen, a Hindu religious reformer, now in England, says there is much in the Bible with which the Indians (Hindoes) can sympathize and which they can accept, but he cannot say the same thing of the doctrines and dogmas which have been presented to India through various channels. There are so many churches into which Christianity has been divided, there are so many dogmas and ceremonies and rituals followed by so many nations calling themselves Christians, that India is really confused and perplexed, when asked to solve the great problem which is to be accepted. Each sect comes with its own doctrine and dogma, and when a man has settled down contentedly to one, another missionary will come from another Church and the man will not know what to do.

An exchange gives the following account of refreshments consumed by a legislative committee consisting of four members at three sessions, in all occupying about thirteen hours. "Their first session was a peculiarly exhausting one, from one o'clock to 7. In this time they consumed, made way with, or carried off bodily, the following gentle stimulants: Four hundred cigars, three and a half dozen champagne, eighteen bottles of brandy, nine ditto of whisky, three of claret. Their next session does not seem to have been so trying, being only from 11 o'clock a.m. to 4 p.m. On this occasion the waste was easily relieved by sixty-six bottles of wine and twenty-seven of brandy and whisky. Their last effort must have been mere play, as it occupied but two hours, and was relieved only by the trifling of three gallons of sherry wine and three hundred cigars."

NEW YORK.

Trying to defend herself—McFarland acquitted—Arrival of the survivors of the "Onondaga" disaster—Burned at sea—South American news.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Richardson, late McFarland, publishes in the Tribune a long defense of herself and friends, complaining of the deceit, brutality and drunkenness of her former husband.

McFarland is acquitted; the jury was out two hours.

The steamer Arizona has arrived and brought the survivors of the Onondaga.

The ship Sudmud, from Iquique, bound home, was burned at sea, March 31st. The second mate, carpenter, steward and six of the crew were drowned; the rest were saved.

The U. S. steamer Saranac has left Panama for Callao, intending to stop at Bombay (?) and adjust the difficulties between Consul Weir and the postmaster. The latter having refused to deliver the consular mails, Weir slapped his face; he was arrested, put in irons and taken to Hayti.

The steamer Neipic, of the Darien exploring expedition, has arrived at Aspinwall en route from Caledonia Bay, which being found impracticable the expedition moved up to the Gulf of San Blas and begun operations there, adopting the line of Moudug River, and intending to cross the Cordilleras and strike the head waters of the Chepo and Bayamo Rivers, which flows into the Bay of Panama.

The committee of ways and means are considering the Internal Revenue bill, which will soon be reported to the House.

The State department has sent to the Senate a correspondence relative to Davis Hath, an American citizen, who was condemned to death in San Domingo, on a charge of aiding the revolutionists, but pardoned and compelled to leave the country.

LONDON.—The Spanish ministers in France, Italy, Austria and Portugal have been summoned to Madrid; it is supposed to confer with the ministers on the question of the throne. Espartaco's chances improve, especially since Prim is supposed to succeed him as king.

Sixteen hundred emigrants have been booked for Canada, free, in a British troopship.

In a railroad disaster near Luxemburg twenty persons were killed.

It is officially stated that orders have been sent to Athens to insure a thorough investigation of the Marathon massacre. It is reported that England undertakes to clear Greece of brigands if the king withdraws, the ministry resigns and habeas corpus be suspended.
