

HE management of the Salt Lake Symphony Orphestra was considerably agitated when the announcement was made that the Orpheum would commence daily matinees this week. As eight or 10 of Prof. Shepherd's instrumentalists are in the Orpheum orchestra, the Symphony people were in a dilemma over their next concert billed for the afternoon of the 16th, when Hekking is to be the star performer. Manager Spencer laid the trouble frankly before the Orpheum people, and a concession was generously made by which the orchestra will be excused in time to take part in the symphony orchestra concert, which begins at 4 o'clock Not only this, but the Orpheum management tendered the use of their house for a Symphony orchestra concert at any time that it might be needed.

Salt Lake is to lose a promising young Salt Lake is to lose a promising young plants in Joseph Truella of Parts, ida., who has been studying under Prof. Mcciellan for the last three years. Mr. Truella has made rapid and satisfactory progress, so that he feels able to return to his home and open a studio on his own account and devote all of his time to teaching and further study. He has been assistant instructor with his time to teaching and turrier study. He has been assistant instructor with Prof. McCleilan, and goes to his new field of labor with the best wishes of many friends, and the reputation a had and enthusiastic worker in the surfact vineyard. musical vineyard.

In view of the MacDowell benefit concerts to be held here as well as in many other parts of the Union, it may be of interest to note that a Columbia raduate who recited to him for two rears, and took her highest stand in his department, lives in this city, in Mus Emily C. Jessup, mezzo soprano. Miss Emily C. Jessup, mezzo soprano.

Emilio Gogorza, the baritone who receive sang in this city, expresses he liking for western audiences who desire to get the most possible out of what the singer has to give. They are hungry for music, and he says, you can't fool them, for they are intensely human and desire to be appealed to.

The new Methodist organ is practi-cally completed, and will be dedicated Dec. 7, with the artist from Kansas City officiating.

Mme. Nordica is "eported as having one to southern England to find relief m influenza.

Applications for membersship in the estival chorus are coming in rapidly, and from present indications the rewred number of singers will have be obtained long before rehearsals commence. Those in charge of the Fedval believe this chorus will be one of the best organizations of its kind wreotten tegether in this city. Great Sagers have been invited from the smeas vocal organizations of the city mi all our leading vocal teachers are ommending their best pupils.
of singers will be published last scores have been ordered, and rehearsal will be held, Monday

The instrumentation of Leoncavallo's mastra consisted of eight first vioha, eight second violins, three violas, three cellos, three stringed basses (it call have stood a fourth very well), seconet, two trumpets, four French bons, three valve trombones, two lates, two oboes, two clarinets, three lassons, one harp, and three men in massis, one marp, and three men in the percussion battery. It has been botteed that foreign bands and orchestes. While it is claimed that foreign bonds where. While it is claimed that foreign bonds on players do not "catch onto" is intricacies of the slide, they claim to be able to get a better tone out of waive instrument. There are Americal valve instrument. There are Amera players who will scoff at such a localists are said to be the easiest more sensitive the vocal cords, more frequent and severe do the ids become. It is, however, claimed that cold can be entirely avoided by sking these precautions, viz., On rising the morning, bathe the neck, shoulars and arms in cold water, and rub for vigorously with a crash towel; radise calisthenics daily, bundle up sam, and carry a muffler or skull cap le don when obliged to sit in a draft; tho, see that the features and the state of the see to, see that the feet are entirely pro-leted from damp and kept warm, likethe wear warm gloves. These pre-mations are easily observed, and will estably prove efficacious.

in the San Francisco fire, the musi-lian of the Metropolitan Opera House supany lost their instruments. Many the violins were old and impossible the violins were old and impossible triplace. There were lost it violins, he violas, three celles and four bassa. Fepresenting with the bows, a value fabout $11,000. Mine Sembrich has arranged to distribute the money which he raised by special benefit last year 13 a week or so.

Local musicians posted as to why Resenthal failed to appear in concert at Los Angeles, will "wink a knowing sink" at the following explanation from a Washington letter relative to a similar failure to appear recently at the national capital:

"All sorts of rumors are afloat in Washington over the failure of Moritz Rosenthal to give his recital at the New National theater yesterday aftersoon. It was officially announced that Rosethal was suffering from an injury to his thumb, but there are those who moless to believe that there was someling besides an injured thumb that the him from keeping his Washington inagement. Just what this "someling" was no one wanted to youchals, but there were knowing winks hat seemed to speak volumes."

The bopular demand for "Cold storige rausic continues so that the local leaiers are experiencing a strenuous ame of it in filling orders. There is larily any telling when the manufacmers will catch up on their back orleas, One taking machine company les sot out the entire opera of "Il hovatore," and the discs are now in he racks of a prominent local music less. They include overture, chorusmerything from the opening strain to he last bar of the regular score, and he lime required for the entire pertrance is about two hours.

The Orpheus cut.

The Orpheus club is practising dili-tanty every Tuesday evening, in its harters over the Godbe-Pitts drug fore, preparatory to launching out for he season, after the holidays.

The First Regiment band is rehears-

Prof. Wetzell is enlisting the musical interests of the public schools in a new direction, that of orchestra work, and has found enough pupils in the advanced grades who know something of instrumentation to start orchestral organizations. The professor has in consequence organized small orchestras in the Webster and Franklin schools, and will follow these with similar ones in other schools. The development of this scheme will prove of market advantage. other schools. The development of the scheme will prove of marked advantage to both pupils and the schools, as it will improve musical talents so that they will be of practical value later, and it will provide the schools, each with its own orchestra, and give pleasure to all the pupils.

The altitude of Sait Lake had a The altitude of Sait Lake had a rather embarrassing influence on Mme. Shanna Cumming, on the occasion of her appearance here, in that it shortened her breath, and made it diffiction her to sing; this was intensively being obliged to sit up for two A is prior to her arrival. Then she has been used to singing with a large orchestra. Considering the difficulties the singer was laboring under, her yields here consider that she did very rell.

SHARPS and FLATS.

A new Tivoli theater, to be the home of comic opera, is to be built in San Francisco, on Van Ness avenue.

"Arianna," an opera by Legrand Howland, an American composer, is to be performed in several Italian cities in the course of the coming win-new opera by Vincent d'Indy "Phaedra and Hippolyte," to the text of Jules Bois, will be produced at the Opera Comique, Paris, early this sea-

Camille Erlanger's opera, "The Po-

time are so great that he has been compelled to give up the position of "Studiendirector" of the Lelpsic conservatory. He will continue, however, to teach conducting and score-reading at that institution

Rita Newman, one of the Brunn-hildes in Henry W. Savage's English production of "Die Walkure" last sea-son, has been engaged by Heinrich Conriect as one of the principal prima donias of the Metropolitan grand opera company this season. Miss Newman will be billed by Herr Con-ried as Rita Fornia.

Every now and then one hears of Kubelik assalling the critics of this or that town. Prague is the latest instance; the violinist thinks he was nstance; the violinist thinks he was not treated there with sufficient consideration, and has threatened never to play in that eity again! It is said that he is not drawing such large audiences as he used to; but as he has already earned some $400,000, he need not worry as to the future.

The king of Spain has accepted the dedication of the memoirs of Manuel Garcia, now being written by Malcolm Sterling Mackinlay, and has forwarded portraits of himself and Queen Ena for insertion in the book. Mr. Hermann Klein, of New York, has supplied the written with content of the plied the author with copies of the letters he received from the great mas-ter during a period of thirty years, as well as a sketch of Garcia's life during the time he taught at his parents'

It is settled definitely that the famous Vienna male chorus will visit the United States in April, 1907. The itinerary at present is projected to clude New York, Boston, Chicago, I fale, Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, and Indianapolis. The proceeds of the concerts to be given in those cities will be donated to local Australian and other charties. cities will be donated to local Austro-Hungarian and other charities. Two hundred singers will make up the chorus, which pays its own expenses

Greatly as Saint-Saens admires the operas of Gounod, he holds them to be interior to his church music. "When, interior to his church music. "When in the fatal lapse of time, in the distan

WESTERN ACTRESS STAR'S UNDERSTUDY.

Laura Nelson Hall, well remembered in Salt Lake, recently made her New York debut as understudy to Carlotta Nillson in the star role of "The Three of Us," a new play of western life now being presented in New York. Miss Hall is now appearing at the matinee performances of the piece in Miss Nill-musical setting.

George Warren Purdy, one of Colonel Savage's managers and for a while a husband of Fanny Rice, has married Mrs. Margaret White, said to be a wealthy widow

Colonel Savage has booked "Madam Butterfly" for a western tour, but the wise ones say that it will not be al-lowed to leave New York until the end

What is said to be one of the best comic operas since the days of Gilbert and Sullivan has been produced in London under the title of "Amasis." The libretto is by Frederick Fenn, and the music by P. M. Faraday. The scene is laid in Egypt.

lish Jew," will be included in the sea-son's productions in Vienna. Thus the story of "The Bells" will be given a tuary of libraries, known only to scholars, there will remain the Messe de ars, there will remain the measure the Sainte-Cecile, the 'Redemption,' the 'Mors et Vita,' to proclaim to future generations what a great musician shed honor on France in the nineteenth century.'

The destructive effects of the great The destructive effects of the great fire affected no member of the Conried forces more seriously than Lionel Mapleson, the librarian, who has had to rearrange the scores of the twenty-six operas burned up in the west. There are few of this number sung as they were written. There are cuts and changes in many places, and the work of adapting these hundreds of bars for performance is not easy. It was made especially difficult in the case of the Metropolitan's music as no records of cuts were to be found.

IN LONDON THEATERS.

ONDON. Nov. 14.-David Bispham's experiment in light ro-mantic opera-of which some of us caught a glimpse at the dress rehearsal yesterday-has much significance. If the enterprising American singer's production of "The Vicar of Wakefield" succeeds, it is likely to result in a big change in the future of opera, for it is along the line that has been so often recommended of late, but that no manager has dared to follow. viz., a plot almost as definite and comviz., a plot almost as definite and complete as an ordinary play, music that is throughout worthy of serious consideration, lyries that in almost every case grow directly out of the dialogue, and last and best of all, plenty of real humor without a funny man or any low comedy. If it succeeds, the public will at last have popular opera in English that fills part of the vast gap between grand opera and musical comedy.

"The Vicar of Wakefield" will not be this notable experiment must be post-poned till then. Suffice it to say that at the dress rehearsal it gave high promise, and that it will doubtless be much benefited by the preliminary provincial tour it is to make before its first night in London.

Bispham himself, of course, takes the role of the Vicar, and is also his own Bispham himself, of course, takes the role of the Vicar, and is also his own manager. It was his own idea and book and music were written on commission from him. There was a queer coincidence about the writing of the music. He decided that Liza Lehmann, whose "Persian Garden" he had sung the way the United States.

whose "Persian Garden" he had sung all over the United States, was just the person to write the music, and he went up to her London flat to see her about it. This is the rest of the story, as Bispham told it to me yesterday: "Before I got around to the subject of my call, she suddenly exclaimed to me, 'David, I've got a great idea. I think I shall borrow Sir Henry Irving's version of "The Vicar of Wakefield," and set it to music. It is exactly suited to the purpose."

to the purpose.'
"'Yes,' said I, 'that is a good idea.

pulled out of my pocket and gave to her the outline of the plan I had come to talk to her about.

"Of course, after such an astonishing coincidence as that, it would have seemed like flying in the face of Providence for us not to come to an agreement then and there. But we didn't use Sir Heury's version of Goldsmith's story-'Olivia, as it was called by the adapter, Wills-because Sir Henry wouldn't consent; and consequently the opera in America, but I wanted to bring it out here in its native setting, so to speak, first, before taking it to my own country, although I had several American offers for it last summer when I was there. Of course, if this experiment in light romantic opera succeeds, I shall produce a number of others-perhaps, for instance, Verdi's 'Falstaff,' which has never been done in English."

It is interesting to note that Hous-Laurence Hausman has written the book and the lyrics—with other lyrics borrowed from Goldsmith himself, Shakespeare and Herrick.

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce"

"I've had the plan in my head for two years, and shall doubtless produce in the lyrics, is the author of "An English woman's Love Letters," which made such a sensation when published anonymously some time and two years, and shall doubtless produce in the lyrics, is the author of "An English woman's Love Letters," which made such a sensation when years are two years, and the lyrics is the author of "An English" in GEORGIA CAYVAN AT REST.

Special Correspondence.

EW YORK, Nov. 26.-Without doubt the dispatches ere this have told you that the once gifted Georgia Cayvan is no more. Salt Lake theater lovers will not need to be reminded of the brilliant successes of this beautiful actress, how she created the leading roles in such plays as "The Wife," "The Charity Ball," "Sweet Lavender," "Squire Half way across the continent her backer, suffering from heavy losses, deserted her, and left her to get home as best she could. She returned to New York at once, paid the company's debts out of what she had saved, and then was forced to go abroad in 1835 and 1836 for her health. On her return from this trip she played 10 nights in her last play, "A Woman's Silence," and then left the stage forever.

For awhile after that she lived at home very quietly. She had bought the house at 351 west One Hundred Kate" and "The Amazons," and of the and Twenty-second street in 1890, and furors the great Lyceum company created all over the land, when Miss Cayvan, Kelcey, Miller, Wheatcroft, Le Moyne and the others were associated together under Dan Frohman's mantogether under Dan Fronman's man-agement. Those plays and players marked an epoch in the history of the American drama such as it has not since known and it is fitting that more than a passing mention should be made of the woman who more than any other one of her associates, lent lustre to the Lyceum name.

THE LATE GEORGIA CAYVAN.

to the Lyceum name.

As most of her old friends know, Miss Cayvan for several years has been confined in a sanitarium, her mind shat-tered, waiting for the inevitable end. The pathetic story of how she was stricken, the scoundrelly way in which her fair name was smirched, and much f her pathetic career are contained in of her pathetic career are contained in the following well written account, compiled by a close friend, after she had been committed to the sanitarium. Miss Cayvan is dying of love—love of her good name. In her palmiest days she was called "the proudest woman on the stage." The phrase seemed to fit her. Her individuality was noticeable, and her personality, a far more subtle unality, with its magnetism, strength.

and her personality, a far more subtle reality, with its magnetism, strength, oolheadedness and warmheartedness, nade her a favorite with the public and those of her own profession.

But with this strong personality Miss Cayvan always kept about herself and it of reserve, an atmosphere of independence, that did not detract from her charms but served to keep her. her charms but served to keep her name for years free from the many ittle rumors, reports and gossip that eputation of women in public life. She aid once to a friend in Chicago—in the very heyday of her fame: "I care more about my good name

It seemed most singular then that after two decades of strenuous stage life her name should be the first to be singled out in one of the many notorious New York divorce suits, and that she should be accused in the proceedings that separated Oliver Summer Teall from his wife, formerly Miss Florence Bissell of Orange, N. J. The testimony offered by the counsel for Mrs. Teall and against Miss Cayvan never had support. A discharged col-ored servant of Mr. Teall's pretended to tell a great many things against her which are now known to have been a mass of lies. At first Miss Cayvan did not even know of the charges against her. When she did hear them the harm was done. Her name and honor were doubted—that which she held dearest. She could not enter the courts to defend herself, but the newspapers came to her aid.

Through them she denied the charges made. The Professional Woman's League, the Mary Arden Shakespeare club, Sorosis, the West End club, the Woman's Republican club, all of New Woman's Republican club, all of New York, defended her with as deep a sincerity and earnestness as though they thomselves had been accused. Mrs. William Tod Helmuth, Mrs. A. M. Palmer, Miss Viola Allen and others publicly declared their belief in the innocence of Miss Cayvan.

"It will be almost laughable," she said to them, "when the truth is known."

She held her courage. No matter what she suffered inwardly, she held her head high in the first hours of her trouble. So great was the feeling aroused over the accusations brought against her that court was finally con-vened that she might tell her story—a vened that see might tell her story—a thing never before permitted to a woman in her position. She came into court. The charges against her were shown to be false. It was proved that Mr. and Mrs. Teall had arranged two years prior to get a divorce, and that Mr. Teall had been ignorant of the use of Miss Cayvan's name in the suit until too late to have it withdrawn without her knowledge.

At the end of the trial Mrs. Teall's attorney publicly apologized for having permitted Miss Cayvan's name to be used. Everything possible was done to give her back the honorable place sine had held in the past.

"I want it all forgotten as soon as possible—forgotten by the public. I myself can never forget it," she said, and her eyes filled with tears. Meanand her eyes filled with tears. Mean-while she had formed a company of her own and was starring through the states. A New England manager had offered to back her, and she hoped to recover her health, forget her troubles, regain her old place and make enough money to give herself a nest egg for a rainy day. But it was too late. Her heart was not in the work. She had to ill she was removed to Sanford hall in the hope that rest and quiet might Georgie Cayvan was born in Maine in 1858. When no more than 6 years old she showed marked dramatic tal-ent. She was fond of reading out as a child people enjoyed listening to her. She was graduated from the Boston School of Oratory when a mere girl, and her first appearance on the stage was as Hebe in the first "Pina-

From the time she was 14 years old she supported her sister and mother, and at the time the Teall scandal overand at the time the Teall scandal over-whelmed her had saved enough money to be protected from the needs of old age. This her terrible experience took away from her. Prior to the Teall trouble she was known as one of the purest women on the stage. Her pri-vate life was as blameless as her pub-

She appeared first in New York as bolly Dutton in "Hazel Kirke" and scored a success. Her next success, in "May Blosson," gave her courage to make the stage her profession. Until 1896 her dramatic progress was one succession of triumphs. She was acting at the Lyceum in 1892 when she met Oliver Summer Teall, the man to her present condition.

Mr. Teall was introduced to her behind the scenes by an actor after the hind the scenes by an actor after the blay, and it is natural to believe that he admired the actress who charmed everyone by her manner. Teall was rich and popular. He had graduated from Yale and then gone west and roughed it. At one time he was a porter in a San Francisco store. He went to New Mexico, became a cowboy, organized a cattle and mining company, sold the bonds in New York and became wealthy. He was a lawyer by profession, but did not have to practise.

After his introduction to Miss Caying years as other men did. He was invited to her home, he dined with her family, and was treated with the same genial unaffectedness that al-ways marked Miss Cayvan's manner. As for him, there has never been a scintilla of evidence that he at any time conducted himself toward her time conducted himself toward her differently than any gentlemanly and admiring acquaintance would.

Miss Cayvan continued with her stage work. Frohman made her his leading lady. It is that the stage work of it is leading lady. It is that the stage work of it is leading lady. It is that the stage work of it is leading lady. It is that the stage work of it is the leading lady. It is that the stage work of it is the leading lady. It is that the stage work of it is that the stage work of it is the stage with the stage work of the lives of other people. In London, where she played, she was as much thought of as in her own home, and nothing touched her more than to hear a stranger say, "Why there's Georgia Cayvan," when she was in Paris one day. day.

The embodiment of health, natural grace, refined tastes, she influenced all who met her. It was largely through her that the Lyceum became a stock company and increased its importance. In the midst of this deserved happiness and good fortune fell the blow that wrecked her life. When depositions were being taken Teall went into court with a blacksnake whip and defed Mrs. Teall's attempt to mention court with a blacksnake whip and defied Mrs. Teall's attorney to mention Miss Cayvan's name. Every affort was made to shield her honor.

But this was not to be. A wife struck at her and the blow told. Her punishment has been vicarious. Her story is one of the most pitiful of the many known to what we are pleased to call "the stage." The cup of sor-row was filled to o'er brimining for Georgia Cayvan.

MUSICIANS'—≈ DIRECTORY.

MRS ANNIE SPENCER-MILNE,

Elecution and Dramatic Expression. Pupil of Alfred Ayers, S. H. Clark, Bertha Kunz-Baker, Maud May Bab-cock, Henry Gains-Hawn, Mary A. Blood. Home Studio 1017 E. 3 So. Bell 2515-y.

EFFIE DEAN KNAPPEN. Voice Building and Physical Development.

Studio, 605 Templeton Building.

L. A. ENGBERG, Teacher of Clarinet.

Pupil of Mons. Lefebvre, Paris. Studio, 8 Engdahl Court, Second East Between Second and Third South.

MARY OLIVE GRAY, Pianist and Teacher.

Recent Pupil of GODOWSKY in Berlin. Studio 445 South Main St. 'Phone 753-z.

J. J. TORONTO. Piano and Pipe Organ Tuner. 34 A St. Bell 'Phone 1611-y. Graduate of New England Conservatory of Music. Boston. Mass.

GEO. CARELESS.

Professor of Music, Lessons in Voice Training, Violis. Plano Cabinet Organ. Harmony and Sight Read ing. Orders may be left at Fergus Coal-ter's Music Store.

MRS. H. G. MAESER. Planoforte Instructor. Residence and Studio. 2441 So. 8th East. Tel. 2611-k.

MISS MATTIE READ Planist and Teacher.

Pupil of Godowsky and Teacher of Godowsky method. Studio at 760 East 1st So.

MISS NORA GLEASON. ORGANIST AND DIRECTOR.
ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL CHOIR.
Studio. 131 E. First South St.
Bell 'Phone 1632-2; Ind. 'Phone 1291.

GEORGE E. SHELTON Teacher of Violin. (Graduate from Trinity College, London) References and Studio: Room 5, Board of Trade Building.

JOHN J. McCLELLAN. Pupil of Xaver Scharwenka, Alberto Jonas and Ernst Jedliczka. ORGANIST OF THE TABERNACLE. Piano, Theory and Pipe Organ. Both telephones.—Studio, Clayton Hall. Pupils should apply mornings before 10.

MISS CECIL COWDIN. Pupil and Assistant of Willard Weihe.
VIOLIN
INSTRUCTION. Constitution Building. 524.

WEIHE. 644 Constitution Building. Concerts and Pupils.

Dramatic Soprano. Pupil of Corelli, Berlin and Archainbaud Faris 60 West 1st North, 'Phone 2698-x.

ANTON PEDERSEN Studio of Piano, Violin and Harmony, 260 Commercial Club Bldg., Tel. 2021-z Bell.

HUGH W. DOUGALL.

Teacher of Voice Building and Artistic Singing, Pupil of Heinemann, Berlin, and Bouhy, Paris, 612 Templeton Bldg, Bell phone 4372.

C. F. STAYNER,

Voice and Piano. Best known methods. Lessons at pupil's residence. Address Beesley Music Co.

Cello Pupil of Anton Hekking and Jacques Van Lier, Berlin, Soloist at Nuremberg and New York
Conventions, Instructor of Cello, Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo.

Pupil of Godowsky and Busoni. Piano, "Coaching in Vocal Repertoire." Studio Deseret National Bank Bids., Rooms 15 and 16.

had always kept house there for the fun of it. At first ner friends were only too glad to go and see her and congratulate her on taking a rest. But gradually they saw that something was the matter beyond the physical disease (a tumor) that had been troubling her. Day and night she was thinking of the strange fate that had spoiled life for her. She gradually became restore her.

She has been there a year, and now it is said that the end is very near; that, broken in body and heart, she is about to die. The man in the case is still alive, a prosperous factor in New York business life. The divorced wife has gone her way. What they think about this tragedy may not be known.

Georgic Cayyan was born in Maine aloud, and so much feeling and action did she throw into the work that even fore" company organized in the United met Oliver Sumner Teall, the man to whose divorced wife she is said to owe

Big double-header basket hall game,

EMMA RAMSEY MORRIS,

Baritone.

C. D. SCHETTLER,

SQUIRE COOP.

MME. AMANDA SWENSON Teacher Vocal Music

The Old Italian School.
The GARCIA Method.
Studio, Clayton Music Store 100 Main St. MRS. GRAHAM F. PUTNAM.

upil of MacDowell, Oberlin University

Miss Edna Edwards, Assistant.
Studio, 135 E. First South Street.
Bell Phone 4479-red. C. F. STAYNER.

Voice and Piano. Best known methods. Lessons at pu-pli's residence. Address 1021 East Brig-ham Street.

Q. BERKHOEL'S ORCHESTRA Furnishes music for dances and entertainment. Violin lessons, reasonable terms. East Jordan P. O., care of W. Cox, Jr. Tel. 145-x Bell.

MR. FRED MIDGLEY, Violinist, MR. ALFRED BEST, Tenor, will receive pupils for violin and voice at studios over Beesley's Music Store. MISS ESTELLE JENSEN Teacher of Piano Pupil of Mr. Carl Faciten of Boston. Studio at 240 E. South Temple Street.

ARTHUR SHEPHERD. DIRECTOR SALT LAKE THEATRE Orchestra. Teacher of Plane and Har-mony. Studio Room No. 3 Hooper & Eld-redge Block. 49 Main Street. WM. C. CLIVE. TEACHER OF VIOLIN AND PIANO.
Studio 610 Templeton Building.
Res. 363 First St., Tel. 1554-x.

The Story & Clark

PIANO stands high with all the LEADING MUSICIANS in

The Tone is Perfect.

The Workmanship First Class.
The Prices Right. Fergus Coalter, Sole Agent

Salt Lake City.

Next door Z.

LYRIC THEATRE

Week Commencing Nov. 2d "The best of all plays."

"THE LITTLE MINISTER" Dramatized from J. M. Barries Beautiful Story. No increase in prices. Night 10c, 20c, 30c. Matinee 10c, 20c

Ladies' Souvenir Matinee Wed-nesday. Children's Candy

THE COST CONSIDERATION IN PIANO BUYING

Matinee Saturday.

OST-CONSIDERATION should be an afterthought. The paramount consideration should be

'Am I getting the best?" The best piano means one of perfect parts, the materials must be the choicest that money can buy; the workmanship must be the finest that skilled hands and keen eyes and great brains can produce:

the tone must range from the soft and sweet to the fullestand most powerful; the action must be the perfection of elasticity and responsiveness; the finish must be elegant and worthy of beautiful surroundings. Such an assembling forms a perfect piano-the

KNABE

We are sole agents and igvite your inspection of our handsome display.

BEESLEY MUSIC CO.,

46 South Main,

CLAYTON Utah's MUSIC Leading Music COMP'NY House 109-11-13 MAIN STREET.

J. H. KNICKERBOCKER. OPTICIAN.

Scientific Eye Testing, Glass Properly Fitted, pert Watch R pairing, Removed to No. 227 South Main Street.