

and in both cases she collected insurance money from the fire underwriters. Today it is even intimated that the woman herself may not be dead—that she procured a female corpse, set fire to her own house and then fled, leaving the world to believe she had perished in the flames.

The first body dug up was that of Andrew Helgelein, a wealthy bachelor of Aberdeen, who came here in January and disappeared about Feb. 1. The limbs and head had been saved off and placed in gunny sacks, which then had been sewn up. The body was nude. In a second excavation a skeleton was found, that of Jennie Olsen, an adopted daughter of Mrs. Guinness, who disappeared in September, 1905, was discovered.

The girl was nearly 17 years of age at the time and was reported by Mrs. Guinness to have gone to Los Angeles, Cal., to attend college.

DIGGING UP BODIES.

Continuous digging brought the searchers two more sacks which contained the dismembered body of a large man.

Decomposition had reduced the body to such a state that the only features recognizable as such were a dark moustache and dark hair.

Beneath this body was another layer of earth, under which were found the bodies of two children, apparently about 12 years of age.

There are several more suspected places in the grounds about the ruins and the authorities resumed the search this morning with the hope of finding more bodies.

Sheriff A. F. Smutner has advanced the theory that some of the bodies may have been sent here from Chicago in an effort to cover up crime in that city. He has asked the Chicago police to investigate the antecedents of the Guinness woman, who having lived in that city prior to her appearance here in 1905.

But if these bodies are really the victims of a series of murders, the puzzle remains as to how the bodies were transported to this city. The bodies were found in the ruins of a house which was burned, when Mrs. Guinness and her children met their deaths. Two of these children, Myrtle, aged 11, and Lucy, four years her junior, bore the patronymic "Sorenson," born to Mrs. Guinness' first husband. The third child was Philip, aged four years. His father was said to have been killed by a sausage machine falling on his head four years ago. Sorenson died suddenly in Chicago prior to 1900.

That the fire which caused the deaths of these children and their mother was of incendiary origin is the firm belief of the local authorities. Also they have the suspicion that Ray Lamphere, driven by jealousy, was the man who started the fatal blaze.

THE FARM.

The gruesome developments in the pretty farm have set the entire country agog. Numerous stories regarding the history of the place have been revived and the tragic death of a former owner has been the subject of evocative recollections. Long before Mrs. Guinness acquired the place it belonged to Mattie Altie, known as a resort; it became an eyesore to the citizens of Laporte.

But just as steps were about to be taken to have the place cleaned, Mattie Altie dropped dead of heart disease in the doorway after a night of revelry. After Mrs. Guinness bought the farm it was improved considerably. A fine driveway leading from the road to the house which stood on a hill, surrounded by trees, well kept lawns, dotted with shrubbery and flower plots, sloped away towards the fields on three sides, and in the rear was the great barn within which were stabled four horses, a pony for the children and several highly bred cows.

There was an orchard, a truck garden and a meadow. Nothing about the place suggested that it was an abode of mystery and death. Yet, because of the previous character of the place, it was shunned by the neighbors, and when the great death mystery which it held had developed there were no friends of the woman the authorities could turn to for information save Ray Lamphere, former man of all work at the farm, and Joseph Maxon, whose short service had given him no inkling of the mysteries which enveloped the place. Maxon gave a graphic description of his attempts to save Mrs. Guinness and her children from the fire, this being corroborated by neighbors of undoubted integrity. Lamphere spent the night of April 27 at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, a negroess in Laporte. Whether he had time to reach the Guinnesses before the fire started is a question which has not yet been answered fully. On his reply depends a solution of the mystery.

The sheriff today began an investigation into the disappearance of Ole Budsberg, of Iowa. Wm. Budsberg left Laporte in March, 1907. He was acquainted with Mrs. Guinness and in company with her visited the Lamphere Savings bank where he deposited a note for $1,000. The note was paid a few days later. Budsberg has never been seen since.

MAY NOT BE HELGELEIN.

There is today strong reason to believe that the identification of the dismembered body found yesterday as that of Andrew Helgelein was an error. A. K. Helgelein, a brother of Andrew, yesterday declared himself positive that the body was that of his brother, but that he says there are many discrepancies which make it almost positive that the body is that of another man and that his brother's disappearance is yet to be explained.

Dr. J. H. W. Sawyer, the coroner, here says today: "The body identified yesterday as that of Andrew Helgelein bears no resemblance whatever to him. The fragments of the body which were dug up yesterday are in excellent condition. The whole body looks to me to be in as excellent condition as if the man had died yesterday. Furthermore the dismemberment was not done by any carpenter. It was the work of an expert anatomist."

Prosecuting Atty. Smith said today he would cross-examine Lamphere in an endeavor to get a confession from him. He further said that a colored woman named Lizzie Smith, who killed the prominent attorney of Laporte, in his opinion, knows something of the murders.

EXPECT MORE BODIES.

That more bodies will be found is the firm belief of the officers. They have the mystery of five trunks shined from Chicago to the Guinness farm to solve. These trunks all arrived in Laporte during the last four months and it is very probable that they contained human bodies.

It is the opinion of the authorities that Mrs. Guinness had accomplices in Chicago and that after prospective victims had been lured to that city to be robbed and murdered, their bodies were shipped to this city in order to keep the Chicago police from gaining knowledge of the crime.

MAY EXHUME HUSBAND'S BODY.

Carson Hoffman has taken official cognizance of one phase of the Laporte murders and today said that if evidence of foul play should be advanced, he would exume the body of Max Sorenson, a former husband of Mrs. Bella Guinness, who died suddenly at his home in Austin, a suburb of Chicago, several years ago. Owing to suspicious circumstances surrounding the death of Sorenson, an investigation was made at the time but no definite evidence was found against anyone.

IDENTIFIED BY FATHER.

Anton Olsen of Highlands, Ind., father of Jennie Olson, who was adopted by Mrs. Guinness, today identified the body as that of his daughter. An autopsy of the bodies of two men, one girl and two children unearthed yesterday, showed that all had been murdered.

The sheriff has notified the Chicago police to be on the outlook for a gang in that city, believed to be in the wholesale murder business for purposes of collecting insurance.

The gang is believed to have disposed of parts of the bodies in Laporte.

MILITARY PRISONERS LEAVE.

Seven military convicts were taken over the Rio Grande last evening to the government prison at Fort Leavenworth for various terms of confinement. First Sergeant W. C. Company of the Fifteenth Infantry is in charge of the guard, and will pick up two more convicts at Fort Leavenworth. The prisoners from Fort Douglas are John J. Cassidy, two years and six months; George L. Blakely, four years; Harry Luttrell, two years and six months; McFadden, two years and six months; Charles Rhodes, two years and six months; Fred Sheffield, two years; and Robert J. Muscott, two years. The men from Fort Logan are Burgess Patt, two years, and John Stokes, two years and a half.

McFadden has been a very troublesome prisoner, so he was heavily guarded before being removed. He has tried several times to escape.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Misfortune Follows George Steen, Who Was Victim of Holdups Monday.

Misfortune seems to follow young George Steen, of 328 south West Temple street, who was held up Monday night by two armed men and robbed of a watch and chain and $1.90 in money. Yesterday morning he was asked by Chief of Police Pitt to come to the station today and go with officers in the hope of locating the two men who robbed him. Chief Pitt received word this morning that young Steen, while playing ball yesterday, had his leg broken, and will therefore be laid up for some months.

ROBBED BY WOMAN.

W. L. Brownson Relieved of $40 by Lady of Color in Alley.

A man giving the name of W. L. Brownson, who came to the police last night that he had been robbed of $40 by a negro woman back of the Manitou hotel on east Third south street. He said he was accosted by the woman and accompanied her to the rear of the hotel. While there she picked his pockets, taking a purse containing $40. He gave a description of the thief to the police and they are looking for her.

JOHN CLARK DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Former Mayor and Distinguished Citizen Suddenly Called By Death.

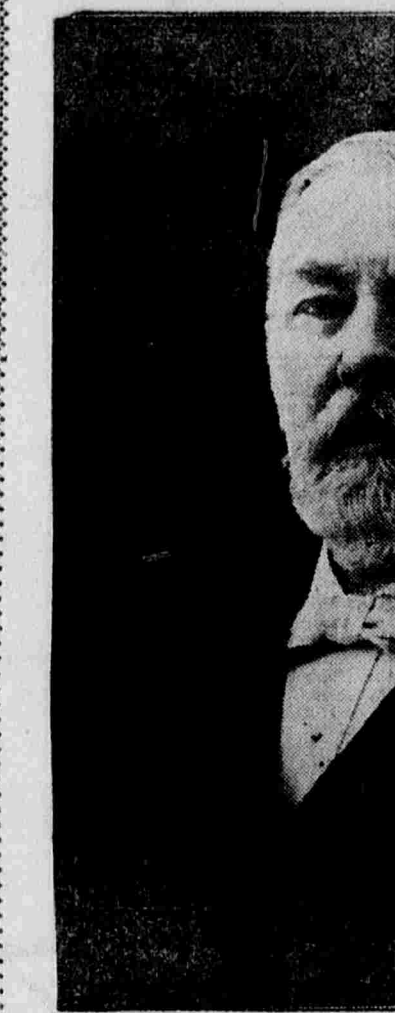

WALKED HOME LAST NIGHT

At That Time No Alarming Symptoms Were Apparent—Stricken Within Hour After Reaching Home.

Suddenly and almost without warning death came last evening to Hon. John Clark, one of Salt Lake's most respected citizens. Stricken with an attack of heart failure shortly after partaking of dinner, he lapsed into unconsciousness, and before Dr. Joseph S. Richards, who lives next door, could reach the home, Mr. Clark was dead. The physician stated that his patient continued to breathe several minutes after heart action ceased to be perceptible.

shocking to his family. For some time he had not been in the best of health, but of late his condition had greatly improved. There was no thought but that his life would be prolonged yet many years. About six o'clock he had walked to his home from the South Temple street car in company with Major Richard W. Young, and there was nothing at that time that gave indication of the quick dissolution to follow, except that his step was somewhat slower than usual. After dinner was over Mr. Clark suffered a slight hemorrhage of the lungs, sank into a chair, and, as stated, was beyond help when a physician arrived.

ACTIVE IN MANY CIRCLES.

Than John Clark, few men in this city had been more prominent in financial and social circles, and religiously he had been quite as active as in the directions indicated. In every phase of life he was noted for honesty, integrity and a general course of religiousness. He was successful in business, in public service and ecclesiastically, and personally he was honored and respected not only by those who knew him, but by many who knew of him.

Mr. Clark arrived in Utah, Aug. 24, 1852, and resided in this city practically since that time. He was then 23 years of age and an orphan, his mother, Jane Wallace Clark, dying when he was little more than a baby and his father, William Clark, following when he was 15. John was born April 3, 1834, in Chilton, England, and the family came to America the next year. After the death of his mother, he was taken care of by his father, who was a member of the Church and went to Nauvoo. In that city John was baptized when he was 10 years old.

IN INDIAN WARS.

Among John Clark's first activities in Utah were his services as a militiaman in early Indian campaigns and in the Echo canyon war. He was a member of the Nauvoo Legion, with the rank of major. He was possessed of much business acumen and his attention was for the most part given to merchandizing. His first experience in that line was at St. Louis, where he entered the employ of William Nixon, in 1850, and three years later, when Mr. Nixon had started in business in Salt Lake, Mr. Clark again became his clerk, and he was with him until 1858, when he was elected mayor of Salt Lake, holding an independent ticket, and his term was noted for conservatism, economy and safety.

AN ENGLISH MISSION.

Mr. Clark performed one mission abroad for his church, namely, to England, where he went in 1859. There he was president of the Sheffield conference, and was subsequently associated with the Liverpool office under the direction of President Joseph F. Smith. At home he was active in religious duties, serving for 20 years as clerk of the Third ward, as alternate high counselor in the old Salt Lake stake, and subsequently occupying the position of high counselor in the Knesen stake.

Nov. 22, 1858, Mr. Clark married Miss Emma M. Empey, who died Oct. 31, 1897, just a day or two before her husband was elected mayor. The names

CHARGED WITH BEATING A CHILD

Officers Are at Garfield Searching for Nick Pass, Said to Be Brother-in-Law.

MISTREATED 2-YEAR OLD BOY

Almost Tore Ears from Baby's Head, And Beat Him Until He Was Black and Blue.

Deputy Sheriffs Steele and Emery are today at Garfield looking for Nick Pass, said to be a brother-in-law of little 2-year-old Joseph Stella, residing at 69 Roberts court, who it is alleged has so mistreated and beaten the little fellow as to cause the neighborhood in which he lives to rise up in a body against him.

A warrant was last evening issued from Justice Dana T. Smith's court charging Pass with beating the child. The complaining witness was P. J. Ryan, who lives in the same neighborhood, and the tale he tells of the mistreatment of the boy would make the blood run cold. It is alleged that Pass, while the boy's mother lay sick in bed and the father away, would pick the child up by the ears, almost tearing them from his head, and throwing him violently upon the ground, and beating him until the child is covered with black and blue welts all over the lower portion of his body. Other neighbors corroborated the story and the officers of the juvenile court made an investigation and found the child to be in the condition described.

"THEY WILL KILL HIM."

When the officers wished to take action Monday evening the sick mother pleaded with them not to do anything that night. "If you do, they will kill the boy," she pleaded, and the officers decided to do nothing until next day.

Yesterday the child was produced in court and Officer Guardello Brown swore to an affidavit charging mistreatment, against Pass, who is said to be a brother-in-law of the child, but lives in the same house. The baby will be taken away from the place today and given into the custody of the orphanage, and when Pass is brought in by the officers, he will be called upon to answer for the brutal treatment of the child.

HAMMER EMBEZZLING CASE.

The case of the state vs. Henry Hammer, charged with embezzling about $2,000 from Salt Lake Hardware company several months ago, was to have been before Judge Diehl this morning in preliminary hearing, but owing to the fact that Judge Diehl was out of town the case went over until this afternoon after the regular city call.

ANOTHER SMELTER SUIT.

Albert Swenson this morning filed suit against the Utah Consolidated Mining company in the city court for $25,000 damages, alleged to have been suffered by Magnus Swenson by reason of the poisonous fumes emanating from the smelter belonging to defendant, which were alleged to have caused the death of Magnus Swenson in the summer named. The claim of Magnus Swenson was turned over to plaintiff, who brought the action in Judge Whitaker's court, Nov. 15, 1907. They were married Jan. 3, 1907, and a child was born to them April 23, 1908. She claims Grimm has failed to provide for her, and asks for $30 per month during the pendency of the suit and $100 suit money and attorney's fees.

IN DIVORCE CIRCUIT.

Mary G. Grimm brought suit in the Third district court for a decree of separate maintenance from Martin Grimm, Jr., who deserted her, according to the allegations of her complaint, Nov. 15, 1907. They were married Jan. 3, 1907, and a child was born to them April 23, 1908. She claims Grimm has failed to provide for her, and asks for $30 per month during the pendency of the suit and $100 suit money and attorney's fees.

FIVE MONTHS FOR CAREY.

In Justice Dana T. Smith's court this morning, E. G. Carey was arraigned on the charge of grand larceny. By agreement of her husband, Eva Carey, pleaded guilty to the charge of petit larceny and take five months in the county jail.

Carey is the young railroad man arrested several days ago for stealing jewelry from Mrs. Parks. The property was recovered this morning by Deputy Sheriffs Burbridge and Sharp. It consisted of four rings, a chain and a pair of earrings. Carey pleaded guilty and will spend the next five months in the county jail.

GREEKS ESTABLISH ALIBI.

At 5:45 this morning the police arrested Bill Pappas and Gios Dures, two Greeks on suspicion of being the men who robbed the store of S. Lavinsky on west Second South street a few nights ago. The men were able to establish an alibi and were released.

ROCKWELLS HAVE PARTED.

Hannah E. Rockwell filed suit for divorce in the Third district court this morning. Mrs. Rockwell charged that her husband, R. B. Rockwell, deserted her three months ago, and although he earns $40 per month, he has utterly failed to support her and to provide her with the necessities of life. She asks for divorce, $10 alimony and $25 attorney's fees. The unhappy couple were wedded in this city Nov. 20, 1907.

FIND NO CLUES.

Detectives are still at work on the Gray Bros. robbery but have so far failed to obtain a clue which will lead to the apprehension of the robbers. Chief Pitt has received a report from Night Watchman Houghton to the effect that on the night of the robbery, and until an early hour yesterday morning, he examined the premises and found nothing to create suspicion. The back window was not broken open and undisturbed. The thieves crept themselves in the cellar.

PARK CITY JUBILANT

Opening of Ontario Drain Tunnel to Be Made Object of Great Celebration On May 13.

(Special to the "News.")

Park City, Utah, May 6.—This town will hold the sort of celebration the state has not seen for years. Wednesday, May 3. The occasion will be the opening of the Ontario drain tunnel, a happening which means a lot to the community and promises the resumption of operation throughout the district on a scale not possible with the big tunnel chocked up. Development has been in progress for three years as a result of leaving in the drain tunnel, but this important bore has now been reopened and the camp is jubilant naturally. To show its gratitude and "whoop em up a little," big "doughs" are planned for a week from today, as explained. A meeting held last night saw no end of enthusiasm, everybody voting for a celebration of the old-time style. During the evening, Mayor C. M. Wilson, who acted as chairman, appointed a committee on arrangements, comprising Sherman Fargo, Julius Frankel, Ed. Perry, M. J. Dalley and Henry Welsh. This committee begins its work at once. Support and aid were pledged the moment.

All stores will be closed May 13 and the entire town will be covered with American colors. A program of special trains will be run from Salt Lake and perhaps other camps, desirous of joining in the fun.

OPEN BIDS TODAY.

State Board of Education in Session On Text Book Matter.

The state board of education is in session at the office of State Superintendent A. C. Nelson today, for the purpose of opening bids for furnishing $250,000 worth of text books for the schools during the next five years. There are 80 members of the board present, including the superintendent of schools for each county in the state. Bids from about 30 different houses were opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and 45 agents were present. It is expected several days will be required to properly tabulate the bids and secure action on the same, and the next week or so promises strenuous times for the teachers of the state superintendent's office.
