

ROSTER OF THE AMERICAN LEAGUE

Players That Have Been Signed By Johnson's Organization.

ENGAGED FOR NEXT SEASON

Shows List of Some of the Best Players in the United States - Baltimore Dropped for New York.

Now that the American league has dropped Baltimore from the circuit, eastern fans may look for lively times in the baseball world of New York. The city referred to was dropped for the purpose of taking in New York, as stated in a dispatch published by the "News" during the week. It has been said by those who professed to know, that once the American got a foothold in New York, it would mean death to the National league. But he that as it may a merry war may be looked for between the two great organizations during the winter.

But that the American is wide awake there can be no doubt, for already the organization has secured for next season some of the very best players in the United States. Following is a roster of American league players signed for the season of 1903:

TURF MILLIONAIRES.

Those of America Have Done Much For the Great Sport.

Millionaires connected with the American turf have done much, and are striving gallantly for its welfare and prosperity. With August Belmont the taste is a family heritage, as it were, handed down to him from his father. He runs an immense breeding establishment, the actual money amount represented in his unrivaled long list of brood mares and stallions being not far short of $2,000,000. This family interest dates from 1856, just after the war, when the elder Belmont, D. D. Withers, Leonard Jerome, John Hunter, William A. Travers and others founded the American Jockey club, and initiated racing in the position it had occupied prior to the disastrous civil war. As in the case of most other rich owners, this year racing has been a disappointment to Mr. Belmont.

This year Mr. William C. Whitney has cut but an insignificant figure among the winning owners, yet last year he stood at the head of the winning list, with over $100,000 to his credit. He corralled every likely horse that could be bought, and then Yankee, Blue Girl, Goldsmith, Nasarim, Endurance by Right, all went on the sick list, and none of them has done anything to speak of this season.

His luck seems to have been transferred to his son, Harry Payne Whitney, who, with Herman G. Duryea, bought a single horse from John E. Madden—Irish Lad—and won four straight races with him. Their only other horse is Acedul, winner of the $15,000 First Special, Sept. 15.

James A. Keene, the multi-millionaire, is another important factor on the American turf, although this year his stable has been disappointing.

The Fleischmanns of Cincinnati are also strong supporters of racing, owning many good horses and racing consistently. This year Hurlstbourne appears to have been their standard bearer.

Clarence H. Mackay was a prominent turf figure until the death of his father caused his retirement.

Arthur Featherstone is the many times millionaire owning Reina and Arsenal, the winners of the Metropolitan and Brooklyn handicaps of this year. He owned the mighty Mesmerist, and a number of high class horses, and is credited with running the most expensive stable for its size, in the country. He thinks himself lucky if his expenditures do not rise to more than $40,000 a year over his stable winnings.

J. B. Haggin, the Californian, has a ranch and stud farm which is an encyclopedia in itself, and enormous place which produces several hundred yearlings each year, which are sold round New York. His expenditure in brood mares and stallions is of world-wide renown and passes up into several millions. This year he has been prominent with a number of fairly good horses, but several of them went amiss, and none of them has won him the barrels which Watercolor, the handsomest horse of his day, did last year.

A western millionaire racing in the east this season is John A. Drake, whose colt, Savable, won the great Futurity.

Mr. Drake is very much annoyed by his winnings on the turf. He says they $20,000 JOCKEY.

Lucien Lyns, who is to ride for James R. Keene next season will receive a salary of $20,000 a year. Lyns is eighteen years old. A few years ago he was an obscure and unknown jockey and by sheer hard work has earned his right to the title of Premier jockey of America.

are greatly exaggerated, and put him in the light of a gambler.

RECORDS OF CRESCUS.

Won Fastest Five Heats and Two Heats Races.

Crescus now has to his credit the fastest two-heat race and the fastest five-heat race on record. The latter performance was made in the $20,000 stalling race at Boston in 1900. Charley Herr being his principal competitor and winning the first two heats. The average time of the five heats was 2:07. Crescus trotted the fastest race on record when he defeated the Abbot, 2:04. On this occasion, also, he trotted the fastest three consecutive miles ever seen, for, after beating The Abbot in 2:05 1/2 and 2:06 1/2, he went a third mile in 2:05. The announcement was made at the time that these three miles constituted the fastest three-heat race on record, and it so appears in the official Year Book, but this was a palpable mistake, as the third mile was merely an exhibition and not a part of the race. Crescus having distanced his only competitor and ended the contest in the second heat.

Previous to Nutbarger's performance at Providence the credit of having trotted the fastest heat race on record belonged to Crescus. Though the average time of his winning heats was a fraction of a second slower than Nutbarger's, his performance was in reality far greater because it was made when the present king of trotters was only three years old. The race took place at Fort Wayne, Ind., in 1897, twelve aged horses starting against George H. Ketcham's green colt.

Among them were The Monk, 2:05 1/2, and Eagle Flanagan, 2:07 1/2, two of the best trotters in their class to be found in the country at that time. Eagle Flanagan won the first and third heats in 2:15 1/2 and 2:12 1/2. Shadland Norwood took the second heat in 2:13 1/2, and The Monk the fourth and fifth in 2:12 1/2 and 2:14 1/2. Crescus had finished second three times in the first five heats, while Mr. Ketcham's little boy sat up in the grand stand and said: "Mamma, what makes papa lean back so hard when he drives Crescus today?" In the sixth heat Mr. Ketcham gave the great 3-year-old his head, and he out-trotted both The Monk and Eagle Flanagan in the most impressive style, stepping off the sixth, seventh and eighth heats in 2:12 1/2, 2:11 1/2 and 2:11 1/2. The time of the last heat has never been equaled by any trotter in the eighth heat of a race.

SMITH AFTER CHRISTIE.

Would Like a Chance at Salt Lake's Favorite Boxer.

Jimmy Burns announced during the week that he was going to take Kid Smith in hand and challenge Jack Christie for a 20-round bout with Smith. Burns believes he can put Smith in condition to defeat Salt Lake's favorite boxer, Smith met Christie in a preliminary last winter and Christie was unable to put him out. It should be stated, however, that at the time Christie was in no shape for a ring contest. Later Smith met young Barney at Payson and was knocked out before the fight got started.

Sam Clark is still making preparations for the opening of the Salt Lake Athletic club, and promises if he has control of the sport that the game will flourish this winter and that none but good men will be allowed to take part in the contests.

HART'S NEW NAME.

Hereafter He Will Probably be Known as "I" Marvin.

In future the Louisville plumber ought to sign his name "I. Marvin Hart." It's a shame that he has not done so before. His recent utterances since his return to Louisville entitle him to the "I" beyond a doubt. Here is the real gem of conversation: "I can beat Carter. In fact, I did beat him. I will now prepare for my bout with O'Brien, and I am certain I can lick him. I will go after Kid McCoy, and I don't believe I will have any trouble in putting him out. I will then be ready for all comers. I am confident I am the best man of my weight in the country and I mean to prove it. I am going to rest for a week and then I think I will be better than ever."

If Marvin don't think pretty well of himself after the above expressions we would like to see the fighter that does.

BASEBALL ENGLISH.

An Account of a Ball Game Played in Kansas City.

Following is part of an account of a baseball game played in Kansas City. The account is from the independent of that city:

"Four wide ones in the third and Hogan paraded! Dooley tilted the pellet to the outermost port pinct for a baserock and invested second citadel through Groggin's insane heave. Jones' agile mit engulfed Smith's tower to left garden, but failed to ferry it in before Hogan's extremities soiled the rubber. Donovan jabbed a solitaire to left pasture, stabbing Dooley, but met his death purloining a bag. Huggins made three frantic lunges at the leather, but Guff's saffron muff let him amble down the trail to the initial roost. Duffy's steam-grasser to right meadow incinerated Guff's fingers. Doyle dunked safely to larboard, but Brown's swift return of the globe contributed to Huggins' demise at that plate."

JEFFRIES FOR CORBETT.

Jim Will Not Consider Any but the Big Boiler Maker.

According to a dispatch from San Francisco James J. Corbett will not consider the challenge issued to him by George Gardner. Harry Corbett telegraphed to Jim about Gardner's deli, and this was the ex-champion's reply: "I will not consider second raters. Will fight nobody but the champion." After this had been received Alec Groggins made a strong appeal to Harry Corbett to get his brother to meet Gardner.

"I don't think you need bother yourself with Jim," said Harry. "He is now filling an engagement of forty-two weeks at $1,000 a week as the star attraction of a vaudeville show. His contract will carry him along until the last of April, when he will go into training for the expected battle with Jeffries for the championship of the world."

"Well, if I can't get Corbett I'll have to look after Fitzsimmons," responded Groggins. "I spoke to him some time ago, and he promised to give Gardner a battle. Fitz will be on the road for some time, however, and I suppose I will have to wait with pleasure. I am willing to make a match with McCoy, but I think he is not sincere in his talk."

There is a storm ahead for the Yosemite club, which has made all necessary arrangements for bringing off the "Erie-Britt" fight in November. The "storm" is Alec Groggins, who is laying his wires with the supervisors to sneak the permit for that month for the San Francisco Athletic club. Last week Jimmy Britt made the Yosemite club pull out of $1,000 that it would pull off its fight in November. Someone must have tipped it off to Britt that Groggins was scheming to "burr" in, and thereby protect himself with a forfeit. After the Yosemite has gone to all this trouble and expense, having sent Ernie his transportation money and posted its forfeit and selected its date, other clubs, it is thought, should stand aside until the show is over.

MORALLAH IN DENVER.

Terrible Turk No. 2 Seeking a Match Here but Finds None.

Denver is to be invaded by another "Terrible Turk." This time the representative from the sultan's domain travels under the cognomen of Morallah, and his interests are being looked after by Mardios Charlson. It is hoped by the management that some aspiring wrestler can be induced to try conclusions with the foreigner. The offer made by Morallah is that he will agree to throw any wrestler now in Denver four times an hour or forfeit a hundred dollars. Just at the present time, however, wrestlers seem to be a scarcity on the market so far as this city is concerned. If a bout is arranged there is no doubt that a pretty fair crowd will witness the sport.—Denver Post.

It will be observed that the Turk is making no such proposition in Denver as he made here, namely, to meet any four men in one hour and throw them or forfeit $100. Now he wants to throw any one man four times in one hour. He has changed his proposition somewhat.

CROOKS AFTER TERRY.

Little Fighter Was Pulled Off a Street Car and "Touched."

The "pinching" of Terry McGovern's watch at Chicago a few days ago brings to the mind of local sports an instance which occurred last year when Sam Harris brought Sadie S to Fort Erie to run in the Derby, and Charley White brought his sprinter, The Referee, here. McGovern went to the track to see the race.

After it was over a crowd of New York sporting men including the trio in question, attempted to take a Niagara car, McGovern in the lead. As he was about to step aboard one of the men took him by the coat sleeve and pulled him off. McGovern turned around rather peevishly and again tried to get aboard, and again was jerked off the car by his friend.

"That will do now," said McGovern. "What's the matter with you? Don't you want to get upstewn?" "Yes, but not on that car," said the friend, rather mysteriously.

"Why not that car as well as any other?" "I'll explain in a minute." By this time the car was half way up the block, when two men were seen to jump off. They walked back to Ferry street, where the party were standing, and each had a gold watch in his hand, which they triumphantly showed to the "friend" in question.

"It wasn't bad after all, was it?" said one of the crooks as he walked down the street.

"That's why I pulled you off the car," said the man. "They would have nipped your watch as quick as they did the two they landed only for me. They are two of the most expert pickpockets in America."

"Young Corbett" is "It."

Young Corbett demonstrated beyond a doubt this week in Philadelphia that he is pretty nearly the cock of the walk in the featherweight division. The manner in which he handled young

Ernie after the showing the latter made against Tim Callahan and Eddie Lopez, makes the Denver boy stand forth in the brightest colors. Ernie was on the floor no less than 34 times in six rounds. Of course, all this was not the result of punches, or he would certainly have taken a trip to dreamland. But the slightest feat on the part of a champion would cause the Philadelphia wonder (?) to seek the ma. wonder where else but in Philadelphia would they have stood for this kind of fighting. Reports state that the champion was in excellent shape and fast as the wind. Corbett was evidently made up his mind to take on all comers and finish them up one after the other. As he states himself: "I am going to be the fighting champion instead of the talking champion."
