WHAT SUBMARINES COST.

Uncle sam Paid $255,000 for Crafts He Says May Have Been Worth About $100,000.

Washington, March 20.-in support of his essention that more than $1,000,-000 of unnecessary profit hud been paid by the United States government 10

by the United States government 10 the Electric Boat company in the jun-dat similar high profils were contem-plated in sending contracts proposed is be awarded to that company, Rep-resentative Lilley of Connecticut has prepared for submission to the special submarine investigation committee of the bouse certain statements, compari-cons and conclusions. The statements include extracts from the hearings before the house havan frains committee in 1601 and 1902, when frains committee in 1601 and 1902, when from Admirals. Melville, O'Nell and Bowles were examined as to the cost of construction of submarine torpedo boats. In his statement Admiral O'Nell wide that from his own observation he though sti00,000 each would be a very libring til00,000 each would be a very libring til00 each would be a very libring til00,000 each woul

COST COMPARATIVELY LOW.

Admiral Melville testified that the probable cost of the manufacture of a Holland boat was between $50,000 and $70,600. This statement was made in 1901 when the Holland was 54 feet long, and it was proposed to increase this langth to 80 feet. These new boats said Admiral Melville, would also have a greater storage baitery and would naturally cost more money, probably as much as $90,000.

Admirally cost more money, probably as much as $20,000. Admiral Bowles explained that the department had estimated $125,000 per boat as a proper appropriation on ac-count of the probable cost of conduct-ing experiments to satisfy the depart-ment of the efficiency of the boats be-fore acceptance. In a note accompanying these quota-tions, Mr. Lifley says: "At the time Rear Admiral Bowles made the forgoing statements he was chief of the bureau of construction and repairs of the navy department, and neceessarily had much to do with the construction of craft of this charac-ter."

HUGE PROFITS SHOWN.

Continuing, Mr. Lilley says: "There fore, basing calculations upon the fig-ures of Admiral Boyles, which he says fore, basing calculations upon the figures of Admiral Bowles, which he says would give a handsome profit to the builders of the Holland boats—namely, $8,456 for a 121-ton boat, or $745,45 per ton—it will readily be seen by compar-ative statements that there has been an extra handsome profit of $1,519,738 since the United States contracted for the first Holland boat, the Plunger, in March, 1899; and it will be seen that the excessive profits to be made on the eight boats which it is now proposed to buy from the Electric Boat company. "I submit a comparative statement of the bids submitted by the Electric Boat company and the Lake Torpedo Roat company for the construction of submarines on April 30, 1907, from which it appears the submarines to be constructed by the Electric Boat com-pany are to cost on an average about $20 per ton more than the prices of-pany department and subjected to the performance preserbed prior to ac-ceptance. By this time it will also be seen that the lowest price of the Lake orpedo Boat company is $200 per ton, which approaches very closely to the price given by Admiral BoatS NO GOOD ANYWAY.
