

HERRERA HERE READY TO FIGHT

Little Mexican, Accompanied by His Manager and Brother.

WILL MEET JACK DOWNING.

The Party Likes the Town and Will Probably Remain Here for Several Days.

Aurelio Herrera, the little Mexican fighter, who is coming rapidly to the front in the featherweight division of the fighting game, arrived in the city this morning from Butte. He is accompanied by his manager, Biddy Bishop, and his brother, Mauro Herrera, who is also a fighter. The little boxer looks well and strong and says he never felt better in his life and he is anxious to arrange a match with Jack Downing, who has been in the city for a week or so.

"We have made no definite arrangements as yet," said Herrera, "but I expect a match with Downing will be arranged within the next 24 hours. I don't expect we will have any trouble about coming to an agreement as I think we will soon be able to settle the question of weight, which is one of the most important details to look after."

In speaking about his fight with Kid Broad in Butte, Herrera said: "It was a good fight while it lasted and Broad gave me plenty to do but I had the pleasure of putting him away all right. It is my purpose now to go after Young Corbett for the championship, and I think I am entitled to a match with him. There has been some talk about me fighting Eddie Hanlon here this summer and while nothing definite has been done toward arranging a match, you can say for me that I am perfectly willing to meet him."

Mauro Herrera's brother, beat Hoy and Opie in Butte recently, knocking him out in six rounds. He stated today that if Aurelio got a match here with Downing he would like to meet Tammy Markham in a preliminary on the night of the fight.

The party arrived this morning and tomorrow will move over to the Kenyon hotel, where they have engaged rooms. This afternoon they went out to Calder's and will take in the bicycle races.

this evening. Probably tomorrow morning, or possibly tonight, a meeting will be held at which steps will be taken toward clinching a match with Downing. Herrera would like to fight as soon after the Fourth as is convenient, but it is possible that the bout will not take place before the middle of next month.

WASHINGTON SCORED.

Defendant in Mining Suit Criticized
By the Court.

In an opinion handed down in the federal court yesterday afternoon in the case of the Austin Mining company against Allan C. Washington and Philo T. Farnsworth, the court indulged in a criticism of one of the defendants. The case, which involves nearly $100,000, has been in litigation for half a dozen years.

The court held that Washington indulged in some speculations and concealed them from the stockholders with the manifest intention of fraud. It was shown that Farnsworth did not share in the profits nor the deal and that Washington alone was responsible to the plaintiff for the sums involved.

The action was originally brought to obtain an accounting of secret profits by the defendants as agents and trustees of the plaintiff company. Anson Phelps Stokes of New York and persons associated with him, subscribed for some of the stock of the Austin Mining company, which proposed to invest in certain Nevada properties. Through an agreement with Farnsworth, Washington secured a controlling interest in the company. Later an option was secured on the property of the Manhattan

Mining & Reduction company in Nevada. Under the agreement the Austin Mining company was to forfeit its payments and all right and title to the stock and bonds of the company, if at any time it decided not to continue the payments, which were made in installments. It is alleged that Washington bought a note against the Manhattan company for less than its face value and at the same time secured an option on $50,000 of the stock on which he was to realize a share of profit if it were purchased by the Austin company. The note, the face value of which was $20,555.45, was secured in 1892 and the option on the stock in the year following. The court held that these speculations perpetrated a fraud.

MIDSUMMER DAY.

Scandinavians to Celebrate It at Liberty Park Tomorrow.

A great many of the Scandinavians of this city will celebrate Midsommer day tomorrow at Liberty Park. In order that the day may be made the more enjoyable, an excellent program of games and outdoor sports has been arranged for less than its face value and at the same time secured an option on $50,000 of the stock on which he was to realize a share of profit if it were purchased by the Austin company. The note, the face value of which was $20,555.45, was secured in 1892 and the option on the stock in the year following. The court held that these speculations perpetrated a fraud.

SMALLPOX THE SECOND TIME.

John Cardwell, residing at 1153 Downingtown avenue, is reported having the smallpox. The case was reported to the board of health today. Mr. Cardwell is 42 years of age and states that he had the smallpox in 1896, when he was five years of age. He was removed to the isolation hospital today by the health authorities.
