The judiciary I said, that perhaps the father committee will also, to-morrow, recollection of a remark of Mrs. Bowers, that if I sent the money to the father, it belonged to her and she would get it anyway. I cer-tainly had some understanding then or subsequently, with her or him, for when the next payment due and came I sent one half to the Secretary of War, and have continned substantially, from that day I reduced the amount to $6,000 per annum; the reason of this reduction was partly because of combined complaints on the part of Evans and his partner, and partly, so far as I now remember, in consequence of an article in the newspapers about that time reflecting on the injustice done to soldiers at this fort, caused by the exorbitant charges made necessary on the part of the trader by reason of the payment of this bonus. To the best of my knowledge and belief, the above is a true statement of all the facts in the case, and is as complete as I can remember occurrences of so many years ago. The money was sent according to the instructions of the Secretary of War, sometimes in bank notes by the Adams Express, and I think on one or more oceasions by certificates of deposit on the National Bank of America in New York. Sometimes I have paid him in New York in person. Q. "Can you statefthe sum in the aggregate received by you under the contract with Evans, and what portion thereof you have paid the Secretary of War, including the first and last payments which you have stated were not paid to him?" A. "The first payment to me by Evans was made in the fall of 1870, at the rate of $12,000 a year. He secretary Robeson Acting Secretary paid at that rate about a year and a tary of War, by the following orhalf or two years, and since then at the rate of $5,000 a year. It would aggregate about $40,000. When I sent money by express I would send him a receipt of the company, which he would either return marked 'O K,' or otherwise acknowledge the receipt of the same. When sent by express I always dethe telegraph subpoens, and asked him what it meant. He said he supposed it was to state before the committee what I knew about our transactions together. I said I did not like to appear, because thought my testimony would be damaging to or would implicate him, or give him trouble. He said he thought not, and advised me to stay and meet the committee. During that evening my conversation was chiefly with his wife, he being present part of the time and understanding the general tenor of our conversation. She suggested that I could make a statement which would satisfy the committee and exculpate the Secretary. She wanted me to go before the committee, and represent that she and I had had business transactions together for many years, and that all this money I had sent the Secretary was money she had from time to time deposited with me as a kind of banker, and that she had instructed me to send it to the Secretary for her. I told her that statement would not hold water before the committee, and I could not make it. At the same time I was so wrought up, and had such an anxiety, she pressing and pressing me about it, and having slept little since the receipt of the subpoena, and sympathising with their con-dition, I did not give them a po-litive answer that night. They said they would breakfast about nine o'clock. I came down and met the Secretary alone, and I told him that I thought I had better leave the country, for I
