

BEAR RIVER'S BIG FAIR DISPLAY.

Whole Valley Will Come in With Fine Showing of Fruit And Grain.

WEBER COUNTY LOOKS GOOD.

Proposes to Show as a Unit Rather Than on the Individual Exhibitor Plan.

An interesting development of the state fair preparations today was contained in the announcement that all the Bear river country is coming in with one big exhibit. This exhibit will comprise all of the products of the Bear river valley, than which there is no richer section of the state. It will include grain of all sorts, fruits, sugar and sugar beets and all the diversified good things that come from the soil of the Bear river country.

WEBER COUNTY'S MOVE.

In this connection it should be said that the fair directors are using every effort to encourage the various counties of the state to exhibit as counties, rather than leave the matter in the hands of individual exhibitors. Weber county, seeing the value of this plan in county advertising, has already declared its intention of coming in. Letters have been addressed to the county commissioners of Utah, Idaho, Salt Lake, Juab and other counties, calling their attention to the matter, and suggesting the advisability of making general displays.

For the best exhibits of this character three prizes of $75, $50 and $25 respectively will be awarded. The fair directors anticipate no difficulty in securing a large county representation.

FRUITS COMING IN.

At Seely, Cox's office this morning it was stated that the fruits are already coming in so fast for the horticultural and floriculture building, that the big cold storage warehouse, which has been engaged to take care of them, is crowded to nearly its full capacity. It has been necessary for the manager to engage another warehouse in which to store the surplus.

AUTOMOBILE DISPLAY.

An interesting feature of the fair this year will be the automobile exhibit. All the best dealers of automobiles in the city have joined in the request for space, and they have been allotted to them along the walk leading to the new manufactured building. Every type of automobile in the city will be represented in this section, and some of them will win handsome prizes.

IMPLEMENT SHOW.

The implement houses of the state are making special efforts this year to have their displays more attractive than ever. Considerable space will be taken up by the new machinery, and those who are interested in such matters will be able to post themselves thoroughly as to what is modern in farm implement lines.

KI KI BLITZ—A-HA!

Arrangements have been made today with Ki Ki Blitz, who will come from the trail of Portland to entertain fair visitors with his monkey impersonations. This is said to be the most remarkable performance of his character that has ever been given. Blitz looks and acts so much like a monkey that genuine denizens of the forest cheerfully hail him as brother.

SIX HUNDRED STUDENTS.

Registration at U. of U. Reached That Mark by Noon.

Registration at the University of Utah at noon today reached nearly the 600 mark, which is an increase of about 20 per cent on the figures for the same date last year. It is thought that the total will reach 1,000 before registration for the semester closes. A feature of the registration which causes general satisfaction is the comparative increase in the university proper. No new preparatory students are being received, so that the increase is to the university itself.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Last Week's Rain in Utah Improved Conditions Considerably.

The weekly crop bulletin, for week ending Monday, Sept. 18, 1905, shows the temperature was about normal for this time of the year and the minimum was below the freezing point in a great many districts, particularly in the higher agricultural sections. The crops are in good condition on a few nights, but, unfortunately, crops were already injured, or so far advanced that they could not be saved. Much of the state was without precipitation, and the regions more favored by the weather allowed grain harvest to progress unimpeded, and also other crops. The third growth of hay was well along, even cut in places, and the crop was reported as good. Fruit was receiving much attention, as the bulk of this crop was ripening and had to be cared for. In general, the yield was somewhat light, and slightly worse with the possible exception of peaches, which were reported from some orchards as very fine. The last of the summer grain crops of the season were being threshed, and usually the returns were quite satisfactory. Some fruit and shrubbery had, however, been injured by the frost. The crop in scattered localities. Farmers were in the ground to a great extent, but the growing of this staple now in progress, showed very good yield. Beets were being planted, and growers were expected to begin digging soon. Last week's rains resulted in quite an improvement in beets, garden truck and other crops. The grass was making a splendid showing, and the pastures for winter feeding were very good. Stock was in good condition, and the growth of the range put animals generally in good condition. The crop season for this year was one of the best ever experienced in the state, with very few exceptions.

SCULPTOR DALLIN RETURNS TO UTAH.

Is Here on a Ten Day Visit to See His Parents and Dear Old Mountain Home.

IS NOW A "WORLD ARTIST."

His Latest Effort, Now in Hand, His Greatest Creation—"The Appeal of the Great Spirit"

C. E. Dallin, whose parents reside in Springville, Utah, and who is the first of Utah's sons to be famous given to the world of sculpture, returned to Salt Lake this morning from a brief visit. He is now a resident of Boston, where in addition to his art work, he is a member of the faculty of the Boston Normal Art school. The purpose of his present visit to Utah is as he puts it, to see once again his beloved mountain valleys, and to enjoy a brief visit with his parents and his own people, before going back to his work in the east. Dallin and his last known work as one of the great American sculptors, and he carried to his work not only a philosopher's disposition but a knowledge of the art of sculpture. In Utah the most famous creation, in the figure of the Angel on the highest Temple tower, and the Pioneer monument at the head of Temple street, are his best known works. In the city and county building stands a cast of his great work "The Signal of Peace," while smaller copies of the same work are in other public buildings.

OTHER BIG EFFORTS.

But with these exceptions the efforts of Mr. Dallin are found in the greater art centers of the country. The original of his "Signal of Peace" is at Chicago. At Philadelphia is perhaps his most famous work—"The Modest Man." It was executed in 1890 and was exhibited at the Paris exposition, where it received a silver medal. The City of Vienna attempted to purchase it, but it was finally secured by the city of New York and is now at Fairmount park. In the Congressional library at Washington Mr. Dallin has a statue of Sir Isaac Newton executed upon the order of the government. At Woburn, Mass., there is a "Soldier's Monument" done by him, and at Hanover, Pa., there is soon to be unveiled a statue of a cavalryman, ordered by Gov. Pennypacker as a memorial of a commission, provided for by the legislature.

"THE PROTEST."

At the St. Louis exposition Mr. Dallin secured a gold medal, the highest award given on a colossal statue of a Sioux chief. The statue was entitled "The Protest" and the subject was the Indian, his primitive pride still dominant, protesting against the encroachments of the white race, which were typified in the exhibits of the fair.

WORK IN HAND.

When asked by the "News" this morning as to the work he has in hand, Mr. Dallin stated that he was making a group, which he considered his most serious effort. It was an attempt to portray in stone something of the feelings of the North American Indians, realizing that final destruction inevitably stares them in the face. "I have called it," he said, "The Protest against the Great Spirit," and it shows a group of Indians surrounding their medicine man, who is on horseback, praying to the Great Spirit. It is intended to epitomize the relation of the Indian to the white man in America, as it now exists, and the plea of the Indians to the last court of appeal, in the full realization of the fact that all their powers are working for their destruction."

Mr. Dallin will remain in Utah for about 10 days, when he will return to Boston. He is due there Oct. 1, to begin work in the art school.

ONE JUROR IS STILL REQUIRED.

With eleven jurors already accepted and nine more veniremen examined in the Shookley case today the number required is not yet obtained. One more juror is necessary before the rehearing can take place and for the purpose of obtaining this one man a special venire of 20 has been called for. The venire is made returnable forthwith, and with these it is hoped that the jury box will be filled at the next session of the court. The nine men examined today were all accepted. The last three accepted were John K. Nicholson, J. S. Lindsay and A. A. Abegg, all being accepted Monday afternoon.

AMUSEMENTS.

The third performance of "The Jolly Musketeer" at the Theater last night drew another big audience, and almost as large as that which witnessed the initial performance Saturday evening. The applause and enthusiasm were no less marked than on the opening night. Tonight the cast was the same of the company and the last appearance here of Miss Emma Lucy Gates probably for several years.

INDIAN SCHOOL IN SOUTHERN UTAH.

Condition in Which It Was Found By Senator Smoot and Party.

MATRON TALKS OF ITS NEEDS

New Building Will be Erected Soon As Sewerage Matter Can be Disposed of by Congress.

Special Correspondence.

Panguitch, Utah, Sept. 14.—The Senator Smoot and Congressman Howell party proceeded this far without any particular incident, viewing prosperity on every hand, as evidenced by bounteous crops now being garnered. The season is not so far advanced as in northern counties.

The first official business was at the Indian school and farm, located three miles north of Panguitch. Appropriations of $25,000 for a new school building and $5,000 for a hospital are lying in the United States treasury awaiting action for the required improvements, owing to a difference in the proposed plans with the sentiment of the people in regard to the disposal of the sewage of the building.

The original plans of the government architect proposed disposing of the sewage by emptying it into the Sevier river. While this stream flows the name of river on the map which guided the architect in his work, it is only during the spring freshets or a cloud-burst on the rim of the Great Basin where the stream comes down to the valley. In other seasons so large as to merit in any sense the title of river. Ordinarily the Sevier is no more than a mere creek. During the summer months, it has hardly a second flow for a large part of the season, and at times is entirely drained for irrigation purposes. The water finds its way back again by percolation into the main channel lower down.

It was into this small stream that the sewage system of the Indian school was to empty, if the plans as drawn had been executed, and certainly the settlers along the Sevier below the school objected to the proposed contamination of the water, largely used for domestic purposes. The matter was forwarded to the interior department against the proposed sewage system, but not against the school, which were returned to Senator Smoot for investigation. Last July 15, he called public meetings in Panguitch and Garfield counties and sent his private secretary and Postmaster Glover to ascertain the sentiment of the people. The meetings were held at Panguitch and at Panguitch, at which resolutions were unanimously adopted at each meeting protesting against emptying the sewage into the Sevier. At the meetings were also to transmit important business in regard to forest reserves, Mr. Potter of Washington, D. C., making the trip at the same time. The meetings were largely attended.

The sentiment of the people, as observed above, had the effect of holding up the appropriations, but both Senators Smoot and Congressman Howell say it will be only temporarily. The interior department has advised them that antiseptic tanks will be used in the disposal of the sewage. The conditions were investigated on this trip with a view to recommending that sort of a system. A further appropriation will be required for the construction of the tanks, but doubt be obtained at the coming session of Congress.

There is naturally some disappointment on the part of the school workers, as the delay in the needed improvements. They had hoped this year to have been using at least a part of the new school building, which is a very fine building, but better than a barn, is used for school purposes. But Miss L. B. Work, who is in charge of the school, is not discouraged. She says the school is a good one, and that the state where all are hopeful. For seven years and a half she has been working among the despised Pioneers. Though stonemasons, and sculptors, the lowest tribes, Miss Work says their children make bright pupils. She draws her students from two bands of the Panguitch school of Washington county and the Kaibabs of Kane county.

Miss Work called Senator Smoot's attention to the poverty-stricken condition of the Kaibabs. That band has from time immemorial hunted on the Buckskin mountains. Their hunting grounds have in recent years been converted to a forest reserve and now it is proposed to make them a national game preserve, entirely excluding the Indians. Miss Work thinks some recompense should be made them, either by a small reservation on the San Juan river, comprising part of the San Juan county, or that they should be settled on small pieces of land as are the Shivwits in Washington county. This point will be further investigated by a congressional party as it proceeds to Kane county.

Miss Work and one assistant, Mr. C. G. Chase of Minnesota, as industrial school teacher are conducting the school and farm, which latter comprises of about 150 acres. Last season Miss Work says that the average attendance at the school was 40. The government also allows the school $15 per capita on the average attendance of last year. At present there are only 13 pupils at the school. The Shivwits children being homesick for their parents, "drawn to the farm." The teachers say they are writing that they are anxious to come back to school.

DEATH WAS SUDDEN.

Cyrus Hancock of Panguitch Passes Away Without Warning in Salt Lake.

Cyrus Hancock, aged 44, a prominent citizen of Panguitch, Garfield county, died suddenly last night, from heart failure, at the residence of a relative, 125 North Sixth West street, in this city. He was on his way home from a trip to Garland in Boxelder county, and stopped over in this city on route. The remains will be shipped home for burial. Mr. Hancock leaves a wife and several children.

SMOOT PARTY AT KANAB.

Citizens Give Them a Rousing Reception in Southeastern Utah.

Kanab, Utah, Sept. 18.—Senator Smoot and Congressman Howell were received here last evening by a large delegation of citizens and public school children, in strong. The children sang patriotic songs. Brief remarks were made by the senator and congressman, after which a reception was held in the evening. After visiting the public schools this forenoon, the party proceeded to Fredonia, where a meeting will be held. All citizens on the trip are favoring annexation to this state. A barbecue will be given this evening. All in the party are enjoying good health.

NO FREEDOM FOR SAVAGE.

Man Who Robbed Postoffice Re-arrested On Release from Long Sent-nce.

Charles Savage, whose sensational robbery three and a half years ago of postoffice money orders from the rear of the Salt Lake postoffice is well remembered, is about to begin a second installment of jail life. His sentence of three and one half years expired today in the Utah state penitentiary, and he was released from prison upon the order of United States Commissioner Charles Baldwin. His freedom, however, was not long enjoyed, for he was arrested at a stop watch, as Chief Deputy Marshal Smyth was waiting for him at the prison, and escorted him to the county jail. He was not sent to Portland, Or., to face an indictment for mail robbery at that place, and as the evidence against him is considered to be strong, he will probably serve a term in the Oregon state prison in addition to his Utah term. Savage is alleged to have stolen a mail pouch from a truck while a mail car was being unloaded at Portland, and rifling it for valuables. Papers are now being made out for his removal to Portland.

THREE FIRE AFARMS.

Burning Grass and a Defective Flue Eying Out the Department.

Three fire alarms were turned in this afternoon, two of them being occasioned by grass burning in the north-west part of the city, and the third for a small blaze at 520 South Third East street, occasioned by a defective flue. The damage amounted to about $10.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Today's local bank clearings amounted to $5,043.25 against $49,375.99 for the same day last year.

George T. Odell returned this morning from a business trip to Montpelier, where he went to attend a meeting of the directors of the First National bank. The meeting was to take official action on the proposition to erect a three-story two-story bank building at 100 South Main street. The building will be completed this winter, and construction begun in the spring. Mr. Odell reports the general business outlook as very favorable in that section of the country.

BUSINESS PORTION OF HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 18.—A speech to the Post-Intelligencer from Nome, Alaska, says that the fire which took place on Sept. 16 totally destroyed the business section of the city, extending from Laceyway to the east to Division street on the west, a distance of two blocks.

This section comprises, in the main, saloons, restaurants, small mercantile establishments and several butcher shops. The loss is variously estimated at from $150,000 to $250,000, with no insurance. Coming at the close of the year when the freeze-up is due, the loss will be keenly felt. The streets in the burned section are narrow and the flames had little trouble in extending to the north side. No details as to how the fire started or as to the probable loss of life are at hand. The burned section was the most thickly populated in the city.

A number of cheap lodging houses were located above the saloons and mercantile property. This is the first large fire that has taken place in Nome since the camp was established in 1899. Among the structures burned was the new city hall.

Following are among probable losses as the result of the fire: F. S. Safford and Gibson, saloon, $1,000; Columbia Clothing company, $4,000; Old Monte Carlo theater and saloon, $10,000; Hunter's saloon, $10,000; Reid's machine shop, $10,000; other small buildings on north side of street, $15,000; 30 small houses, $14,000; Sutter jewelry store, $22,500; M. T. Atkins' grocery store, $10,000.

COLLATERAL GIVEN BY JOHN W. YOUNG

Salt Lake and Eastern Railroad Stock And Other Utah Securities Figure In Investigation.

New York, Sept. 19.—That the Equitable Life Assurance society paid out $218,264 to the mercantile trust company in connection with certain loans known as the "Turner loans" and that these payments were without authority so far as the records of the society disclose, became known today when Paul Morton, president of the society, made public a report on the subject submitted by him to the society's directors.

These transactions occurred in what Mr. Morton refers to as the "Turner loans" and the "K. W. A. No. 3 account," with the Mercantile Trust company. The "Turner loan," Mr. Morton's report sets forth, was carried in 1894 by the Western National bank, which was controlled by the Equitable Life Insurance society. The collateral for the loans was obtained by a bank examiner and Henry B. Hyde, then agreed to transfer the loan and collateral to the Mercantile Trust company. At that time apparently the loans amounted to $50,421. George V. Turner, in whose name the loan stood, as secretary to Louis Fitzgerald, then the president of the Mercantile Trust company and a close business associate of Henry B. Hyde. The loan was guaranteed by Marcus Hartley, John N. Seearie, Louis Fitzgerald, W. N. Cole, Jr., and H. B. Hyde. On March 21, 1896, the same guarantors renewed their guaranty, the loan having grown to $125,478, the increase being due to attempts to develop the property on which the collateral for the loan was made. Part of this collateral was given by John W. Young and consisted of Salt Lake & Eastern railroad stock and other Salt Lake stocks. This collateral proved to be of little value. Other collateral consisted of contracts of the Kentucky Mineral and Timber company and the Amity Land and Irrigation company of Colorado.

Attempts were made to develop the Kentucky property and the Colorado property and large sums were expended for that purpose and by July 1, 1905, the cost of the Kentucky property stood at $819,067 and the Colorado property at $250,553. The Equitable Life Assurance society paid the Mercantile Trust company $218,264 on these loans on Jan. 31, 1905.
