BOURKE COCHRAN'S VIEWS.

BOURKE COUHRAN'S VIEWS. Mr. Cochran (N. Y.) inquired if there could be any such thing as a makeshift currency. He recalled a former speech on the currency question, and said that an emergency was the failure of banks to meet their obligations, their incapa-eity to pay their bills over the coun-ter. Such incapacity in individuals, he said, would be called bankrupter, which would necessitate the immediate surrender of such capital as the indi-vidual placed in the hand of creditors and their exclusion from the ranks of ridual placed in the hand of creditors ind their exclusion from the ranks of netive business. But when that confil-on overtaak a bank, he said, "it is not o be considered a failure or bankrupt-y, but an 'emergency,' and the gov-rnment is to step in and relieve it." Mr. Cockran put the question to Mr. Barton whether the conference meas-ire was not intended to enable banks o discharge in an omergency currency. discharge in an emergency currency ligations contracted in ordinary ies, and required a categorical anligations

No," replied Mr. Burion, emphatic ally. The proposition covered by the bill of the conferees, Mr. Cockran said, "narowed down to the fact that banks whose business was that of discount should take money from their deposit-ors and hold it and enter the field into which no bank ever yet entered with profit to its depositors or with safety to a commercial system, and that was to engage in the business of invest-ment."

WILLIAMS TALKS.

WILLIAMS TALKS. The minority leader, Mr. Williams, took the floor for three minutes. Ad-dressing the speaker, he said that that gentleman never was so highly hon-ored in all his life as he was today. The bill, he said, ought to have been entitled "the Cannon-Aldrich political emergency bill." Recently, he said, the bouse had held up the Aldrich bill as altogether wicked, and would have none of it. The Republican senate had said that the Vreeland bill was alto-gether interests of the country and would gether iniquitors and destructive of the best interests of the country and would have none of it. It had been long be-fore the sepaker offered up the prayer "anything. O God, anything. It makes no difference what it is, just so I can do something before the house an-journs. It will not do for the Republi-can party to go to the country with ab-solutely nothing. I must nave some-thing that can be called something by somebody, somewhere." Mr. Williams read from some recent remarks by Mr. Burton, the purpose of which was that he was opposed to the Aldrich bill. Facing that gentleman, he said:

e sald:

"Now you bring back the Aldrich bill. I repeat to you that nobody wanted the miserable makeshift that passed the house, and told you that you merely wanted to go into conference so you could get back with the Aldrich." BURTON CLOSES DEBATE.

cial institutions to rock as if they would fail. The wheels of industry and commerce were clogged and hundreds and thousands were thrown out of em-ployment, he said. Men who had walk-ed with heads erect, and who were proud, were compelled to beg in the streets for bread. Much of the cause of that distressing condition he laid at the door of the rigidity and insuffi-clency of the currency system of the country. He declared that the Repub-licans, against the solid opposition of the Democratic party, were determined to do something so that such a calamity might not occur again. If the Demo-crats had been in power and had gone home doing nothing, he said, they might better have called on the rocks and hills to fall on them for their in-ability to take care of the people. "And yet," he said, "they fill the ait with cries that this is a political emer-gency; that a this is a political emer-gency; that this is a neutrism matter." Replying to Mr. Cockran, he said that if that gentleman had been in New York or even in a small manufacturing down last fall he would have got a lesson of what is an emergency that would have sunk deep and which he never would have forgoiten. Mr. Burton fiquired of the Demo-crats why it was they had not said one

"They will put their money away in safe deposit companies. Large crops may require a large sum of money. The treasury will no longer have a reservoir from which it can sup-ply the needs of banks." The vote was taken and the confer-ence report was adopted, le6 to 140. ## LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS.

Delegates to Convention Think $7 a Day Without Expenses Too Little.

Columbus, May 27 .- Seven dollars a day, without expenses is small pay for an engineer, in the opinion of many delegates to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' convention in session here, so an effort will likely be made today to have the convention reconsider its action of yes-terday, when it changed its methods of paying the per diem of the dele-gates.

It has been the plan for each subit has been the plan for each sub-division to pay its own representa-tive, fixing the compensation any-where from $5 to $8 a day, usually with expenses. This threw an extra burden on sub-divisions having but 20 or 25 members, as compared with and divisions having surged sub-divisions having several hundred

The convention, therefore, adopted The convention, therefore, adopted a plan of prorating the cost among the members at large and having all expenses paid through the general of-fices, fixing compensation at $7 with-out expenses. The convention now costs the order, it is figured, about $8,000 a day, or $14 a minute, during working hours. The new plan, if allowed to stand, will reduce this at least one-third.

The conference repost was read and, after the reading had been concluded, Mr. Aldrich announced that tomorrow, after routine business, he would move to take up the report and continue its consideration until it was disposed of. In reply to a question by Mr. Culber-son, Mr. Aldrich stated that the Demo-cratic conference of the senate and house had not concurred in the conference an drich that the whole bill is more than half "failh cure," and that, he added, is just what the country needs. "The temper of the senate seems to be better now than when the senate passed the bill in the first place," said Mr, Aldrich. "Even Democratic senators who are disposed to vote against the bill are anxious to get home, and it may be possible to adjourn on Friday." The conference report on the com-promise currency bill was reported to the house at 2:35 p. m. Mr. Vreeland immediately moved to suspend the rules and agree to the report, the motion limiting the debate to 20 minutes. Ollie James of Kentucky asked if it would not be in order for the report to go over until tomorrow in order that mem-bers might be provided with copies. With a resounding whack of his gavel the speaker only replied: "The clerk will proceed with the reading." The reading of the report was concluded at 3 o'clock. VREELAND DISCUSSES BLLL.

Practically the only point remaining unsettled is when the vote will be taken. No one doubts that the report will be adopted and the bill carried. VREELAND DISCUSSES BILL.

He was in consultation with Dem-ocratic leaders at different times dur-oratic leaders at different times dur-ing the day, and his hearing was such ing the day, and his bearing was such as to lead to the conclusion that if the Democrats would agree to fight the measure he would assist them.

ALDRICH'S POSITION.

Senator Aldrich does not expect to speak on the bill beyond making a brief statement. Some of the Democratic senators are preparing to charge him with having abandoned his opposition to asset cur-rency, and he said today that he might make some announcement of his posi-tion in that respect. "As a matter of fact," he said, "this bill comes nearer have ever had. The government is to have ever had. The government is to issue it upon securities it approves, and the power of the treasury efficials is absolut."

A PARTISAN PRETENSE. "This is a partisan pretense," de-clared Mr. Glass (Va.), another minori-ty conferee, and he added that Mr. Vreeland had never undertaken to dis-guise the fact that he had considered the matter from a partisan standpoint. Discussing the report. Mr. Glass said that it enjoyed the unique distinction of having been sgnied by every one of the Republican conferees and not ap-proved by a single one of them. "Fifty per cent of you," he declared, "is house infamy, thereby making the whole bill bad." The bill, he said, was one which every Republican would vote for and which no one believed in. It was the most extraordingry bill ever presented to the house. He maintained that the Vreciand bill did not figure in it at all. 2,000,000 IDLE MEN.

Mr. Burton inquired of the Demo-crats why it was they had not said one word about the fact that the basic prin-ciple of the Williams bill was the Al-drich bill. "Not only did you make municipal and state bonds the basis for currency," he said, "but you out-Aldriched Aldrich in your bill." He trusted the people would not hear from the Democrats in the next campaign about the Aldrich bill, unless that fact was explained. Making reference to Mr. Williams' quotations of some remarks of his, Mr. Burton admitted that he did say he would not vote for the Aldrich bill, and he said, "I have not voted for it, and I am not going to vote for it."
