FRAGMENTS.

CITY COUNCIL in regular session to-night.

LARGE HORSE-STRAYED. See advertisement.

THE CASE of the United States vs. Rudger Clawson comes up to-morrow.

JOHN SHEPHERD was yesterday made a citizen. He was formerly of Scotland.

THE FOURTH QUARTER of Seventies will meet in the 21st Ward Meeting-house this evening at 7.30.

ALFRED CASE, tried in the District Court yesterday for embezzlement, was acquitted, the jury returning a verdict of not guilty.

THE CASE of O. E. Trojan for attempting to shoot Sylvester, the Tribune foreman, is going on in the District Court.

T. M. JOHNSON, one of the men indicted for forging D. & R. G. time checks and attempting to pass them, was today, on a plea of guilty, sentenced to one year in the Penitentiary in one case, and sentence was suspended in another. Kershaw, his "pal," pleads not guilty.

WE are requested to state that the Baptist Association of Utah will meet in this city to-morrow (Wednesday), at 2 p.m. It will be opened by an address of welcome by Dr. DeWitt, and a response by Rev. Richard Hartley, of Ogden. The annual sermon will be preached by Rev. Dwight Spencer. A meeting in the interest of education will be held at 7.30 p.m.

JUDGE TWISS is sitting in chambers, assisting Chief Justice Zane with the business of the Third District Court. Yesterday, in the case of G. W. Belgel et al. vs. U. J. Wenner, the demurrer to the complaint was argued and submitted; and in the two cases of John Coulam et al. vs. Ann Doull, the demurrer to the complaint and the demurrer to the answer was argued in the respective cases and submitted.

LOCAL NEWS.

RUN BY ELECTRICITY.—The Rocky Mountain Electric Light Company will exhibit a sewing machine, run by electricity, in Auerbach's window to-night. Admission to Main Street, free. Standing room only.

SUBPOENAED.—Presidents John Taylor and George C. Cannon were yesterday subpoenaed by U.S. Deputy Marshal Fergus Ferguson, to appear as witnesses before the District Court in the Chawson polygamy case, which is set to come up before Judge Zane on Wednesday.

MAMMOTH TUBERS.—To-day Bro. Henry Bowden, of Mill Creek, this county, exhibited in our office some samples of Early Rose potatoes from his farm. The largest one of the tubers weighed four pounds, while the others were almost as ponderous. He says they are excellent in quality in proportion to their bulk. He got forty bushels from a couple of rows thirty rods long.

DEATH OF SISTER ELIZABETH ROMNEY.—Last evening Brother George Romney, of this city, received a telegram from St. George, notifying him of the death, at that place, on the 12th inst., of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Romney, relict of the late Elder Miles Romney, who died there in 1877. The deceased lady was one of the old members of the Church, having embraced the Gospel in Preston, England, in July, 1837, and arrived from that country in Nauvoo in April, 1841. She endured, in common with the Saints, all the persecutions to which the Church was subjected in the earlier stages of its history, and remained true and faithful to the end. At the time of her death she was in her 70th year, and was universally esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She leaves a large number of children, grand children and great grandchildren, many of whom are conspicuous members of the community and much respected. The funeral was to take place at 2 p. m. to-day.

ROSE EYTINGE.—The first performance of "Felicita" at the Opera House last evening, was witnessed and enjoyed by an audience which, though not large, when the merit of the entertainment is considered, was nevertheless a fair-sized house. Miss Eytinge has an excellent company to support her, and as to the lady herself, it goes without saying that Salt Lake has seldom if ever seen a higher grade of emotional acting. Miss Eytinge is no stranger here, so we are not making any startling announcement, saying that how ever flattering it may seem to those who have not yet had the pleasure of seeing her.

"Felicita" is another name, and the original one, for "Coralle," a drama which has been presented here on one or more occasions. But "Felicita" is far superior to it in every way, and this is the most talented company, as a whole, that has yet produced it in Salt Lake. The play will be repeated to-night when a larger audience ought to be present to show their appreciation for such excellent acting. The playing of Hockley must not escape mention, nor that of May Wilkes and Logan Paul. Mr. Paul, an old Salt Lake acquaintance, has greatly improved in his profession.

AN EVENING WITH JOSEPHY.—There is sure to be a good house at the Theatre to-night. The occasion is the grand concert given by Rafael Josephy, the celebrated pianist, assisted by Mr. Van Fraug, the accomplished cellist, Miss Olsen, the popular soprano, and Mr. Krouse, the efficient and talented accompanist. Here are some press comments on Josephy and his playing:

"If there are any doubts as to Josephy's position among the world's few eminent players, there is no question that he possesses a power of fascination in his performance which is irresistible."

JOSEPHY is able to vary the degree of sound from the loudest tone to the faintest whisper. His versatility enables him to play with grace, passion, or vivacity according to the spirit of the composition.—N. Y. Tribune.

The beauty of Josephy's playing has become a twice told tale, but one never tires of it, for he is constantly developing and maturing, and each new performance discloses some charm which we had not felt before.—N. Y. Tribune.

Josephy's performance of the Lieke Concerto was characterized as even and finished throughout, expressive and complete in every way, and the crowning glory of his efforts. Taken all in all, his concert was played in the style of one master interpreting another.—N. Y. Herald.

Josephy's faultless technique, his marvelous staccato, the otherworldly beauty of his most startling difficulties, the perfect pianissimo, the clearness of his phrasing and the exquisite delicacy of his touch, all combined to fully justify the wonderful enthusiasm of the audience.—Boston Herald.

FATAL MISHAP.

JOHN DUNN CRUSHED TO DEATH BY AN UPSWEEPING WAGON.

Late yesterday afternoon word was received by Coroner Taylor, per telephone from the Brewery at the mouth of Emigration Canon, that a man had been found dead in the canon about three miles from the Brewery. The body, it was afterwards learned, was discovered in the creek by two men coming down the canon, who, after pulling it out of the water, in which it was partly immersed, and lifting off an upset wagon, loaded with wood, by which it was evident life had been crushed out, went on to the Brewery and telephoned the news to the city Sexton's office, and to the Coroner, as above stated.

Daniel Johnson, who works for Section Taylor, started for the scene of the accident, for accident it proved to be, and after interviewing the two men who sent the word brought the body to town and an inquest was held upon it about half past seven o'clock last evening, at the office of the Sexton. Messrs. Jeter Clifton, J. W. Bart and W. G. Workman were sworn as jurors, and Phineas H. Young, of Dr. Young's Asylum, and Daniel Johnson were summoned as witnesses. The men who discovered the body were not known, and could not be readily found, as the circumstances of the case were so clear, all going to show that the cause of death was accidental, it was deemed unnecessary to get their testimony direct, as Mr. Johnson's account would tally with it in all essential particulars.

Phineas A. Young, being sworn, testified to being well acquainted with the deceased, whose name was John Dunn, aged twenty years, and a native of Salt Lake City. He was of dark complexion, five feet eight inches in height, had grey eyes and brown hair, was unmarried and had a father and several half-sisters, living on the bench, not far from the Young Asylum. He left home with a horse team, between five and six a.m. (Monday) and went up the canon after green wood. It was a gentle, old team, but the roads were very narrow and slippery, after rain, and sliding in the canon. About sundown witness was notified by the father of the deceased of his son's death, and requested him to go with him and help get the body. The sexton's man had already got there and brought the body down. Witness met him on the way and saw the face of the deceased. He then then lay dead about two hours. He had no enemies that witness knew of, and there were no witnesses on him to tempt anyone to kill him for robbery. He had no property in his own name. Witness thought his death was caused by the wagon rolling over on him.

Daniel Johnson, being sworn, testified to the scene of the fatality about 5 p.m., and the corpse was then laid out on the bank of the creek, about a mile above the second house. The wheel marks indicated that the wheels had slipped down three or four feet, struck a stump, and upset.

It was about a rod and a half from the road to the bed of the creek where the body was found. Witness thought the wagon must have bounced from the stump to the creek without touching the intervening ground, and it was the body, which was found doubled up under it, with the face down and partly in the water, with the head out. The wheels were up. One of the men who found the body was of sandy complexion, about 30 years old, and the other about 18 years. They were about 100 yards behind the deceased when the load upset. Witness was notified about 2.35 p.m., and thought the accident must have occurred about 2 o'clock, as they had to get him out of the water and then go about three miles to the telephone.

The jury, when the evidence was all in, agreed upon the following verdict: That the deceased died in Emigration Canon, about seven miles east of Main Street, Salt Lake City, about 2 p. m. of October 13, 1884, "from the effects of a wagon loaded with wood accidentally upsetting upon him and crushing his body."

The deceased was the son of Robert Dunn, who is overwhelmed with grief at the sad event, in which he and his family have the sympathy of all.

THE DRY CANON WATER AGAIN.

ACTUAL EXPERIENCE BEARS OUT THE SCIENTIFIC TEST.

SALT LAKE CITY, October 13, 1884.

Editor Deseret News:

Referring to the analysis made by Professor Kingsbury of the Dry Canon water, I thought it might be worth mentioning that since last fall, and for a period of six or seven months, two men who were working with me on a mining prospect in that canon, drank the water very freely every day. They were located on the left fork, and used that water exclusively without experiencing any detrimental results, or even so much as supposing that the water was in any degree unwholesome. It was this fact and the general talk about the water which led the Professor and myself to secure the samples of water for the analysis.

Persons of all ages, and until the evidence of unwholesomeness was more apparent, I see no reason for rejecting it.

The men to whom I refer soon at the idea of the water being so prominent in the analysis, and the fact that the water, and they certainly gave it a thorough and entirely unprejudiced test.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGERS.]

—Quite an extensive prairie fire was raging in the Crow reservation on last Saturday and Sunday.

—John Brown, a section hand, who was run over while attempting to board a train at Ogden on the U. P. Monday evening, has had his left leg amputated between the knee and ankle.

—A terrific bear fight occurred in Green Canon, Cache Valley, recently, but not till Brula lay dead at the feet of his pursuers, five men, a small boy and two big dogs, were discovered.

—The first stage to the Black Hills, over the Medora route, was to leave the Northern Pacific station yesterday, and Marquis de Mores, one of the principal stockholders in the line invited several guests to make the trip.

All the eating and relay stations are up and in excellent shape. The Northern Pacific express will use the Medora route to the Hills.

—On the 1st ult., St. George had a frost that killed tender herbage, crops, etc., and since then the nights have been quite cool. Farmers are now working with all their might to gather the corn and cane, so as to save it. The case yield this season is very large, and the sorghum is of the best quality. Most kinds of fruit have gathered, except grapes and as the frost has done its work, wine making and raisins are the next labor in order for the gardener.

—There is an abundance of grapes this season and there will likely be a large quantity dried, as wine making is becoming unpopular. The dried grapes are considered more valuable and nutritious.

—George Morgan, a young man in the employ of the Fetterman hog ranch, Wyoming, was shot by the accidental discharge of his own revolver, on the night of Oct. 5th, while engaged in driving a team loaded with a barrel of beer for the Fetterman ranch.

The team and driver stopped the barrel into position, where it would ride more steadily on the wagon, when his revolver, a .44 calibre Colt, dropped from his pocket. He at once picked it up and hurriedly placed it in his pocket, the barrel pointing upwards. He then attempted to move the barrel which, coming in contact with the revolver in some manner, discharged it, the ball entering the left breast just above the heart and coming out at the shoulder blade, inflicting a dangerous if not a fatal wound.

—Bill Bean, a cowboy, who is under arrest at Ogden for playing his nefarious vocation. He came in contact with a cowboy on the U. C. train from Salt Lake Saturday morning, conversing with him until he found his boy had money. Bean finally hired the victim to drive his horse and wagon to Cheyenne, saying he would pay him $100 for the job.

The agreement was made, and during the day this cowboy spent from $10 to $15 in treating Bear, who became short of change in the afternoon, and offered to sell to the victim a $25.00 check on Walker Bros., Salt Lake City, for $30.00.

The check was purchased; but the cowboy, through some friendly hint of a barkeeper, was "up to the racket" and had the sharper arrested. Officers T. H. Ballantyne and James H. Brown did the work in accordance with his wish and placed their man in safe-keeping in the City Jail. They found on his person the money he got for the bogus check; also another check on Walker Bros., for $100, one for $50, and a large number of blanks to be filled up in amounts to suit the unsuspecting victim.

A. S. PATTERSON, official reporter of the Third District Court, is allowed $10 per day, the maximum rate, and 15 cents per folio for transcribing. All criminal cases tried will be reported.

The officers of the Deseret Hospital acknowledge with thanks a donation of beautiful flowers and a large number of papers from S. P. Teasdel, also a number of delicious peaches from Mrs. Maria Carrington.

OUR NAPHTHA AND RUSSIA'S.—A Russian paper writing on the subject of quality claims superiority for Russian oil on these grounds: "The Russian naphtha produces about 10 per cent. benzine, gasoline, etc., 70 per cent. petroleum, 5 per cent. kerosene, 10 per cent. heavy grease and paraffine oil, 4 per cent. tar and pitch, 3 per cent. coke and 1 per cent. gas; total, 100 per cent."

Whereas the Baku naphtha contains 5 per cent. benzine, gasoline, etc., 33 per cent. petroleum, 10 per cent. kerosene, 10 per cent. heavy grease and paraffine oil, 15 per cent. tar and pitch, and 4 per cent. coke and gas; total, 100 per cent."

Comparing the above analysis, the result would be that Pennsylvania naphtha contains a greater percentage of lighter substances while that of Baku a larger percentage of heavier substances. The value of the Pennsylvania naphtha represents only light oils, whilst that of Baku is of a heavier oil, of which, containing 33 per cent. and an increasing apt and at much higher prices than the Pennsylvania, which 70 per cent. is found in Pennsylvania against 33 per cent. in Baku.—Boston Herald.

FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR A BOY.—A girl pressed her nose against a glass pane and saw a boy who was very conspicuous and undoubtedly destructive of the beauty which her face would otherwise have possessed. She said that she had read about his straightening out and reforming a nose that was flattened and askew, and she wanted him to take a section out of her Roman features and transplant it into a Grecian one. She had a pretty clear notion, too, as to how the operation should be performed, and he had to admit that the plan was entirely feasible—that her masculine beak might be altered into a feminine line with only a scar across it to mark the point where some of the superfluous material had been removed. But he did not feel justified in carving human faces for such a purpose and had to decline the job, however tempting it was that she would find a surgeon to do it if it cost $5,000.—Chicago Tribune.

A CAT HER OWN SURGEON.—A New York cat displayed marvelous intelligence recently. She belongs to a surgeon, and has actually acquired the capacity of distinguishing between different surgical terms. Here is a clear proof. She got a swelling in her side lately, and her master said in her presence, "I'll have to cut you lanced, old girl," and then left the room to fetch a young surgeon. The cat evidently knew what lancing meant, for she at once jumped on the bed, bit at the swelling, and her master said, "and thus lanced herself. When her master returned with the young surgeon he saw what she had done, and he once instructed his friend to stitch the wound. His friend did so, but as soon as the cat got free she set her teeth to the stitches and tore them open. The strange thing was that the swelling disappeared, and the cat proved to her master's satisfaction that in undoing the stitches she had shown a more thorough knowledge of surgery than he had.—Ex.

SHE HAD TRIED IT.—"They say that fish makes brains," remarked a young man to his friend Mrs. Crimmonbeak, with whom she was dining the other day. "I don't believe it," replied the smart host, who generally liked to have her own way.

"Well, I do," said the visitor rather emphatically. "Well, I guess I ought to know," sharply retorted Mrs. Crimmonbeak, losing her temper. "I've been eating it for the last forty-six years!"—Yonkers Statesman.

ARCTIC SOCIETY.—The Arctic regions are not without their peculiarities. The Eskimau girls are very pretty, dance, sing, and in no way inferior to our own. They are very fond of their peculiar varieties, and seal-skins are much worn as a garment.

—A company called Commercial Gas, etc.
