"Prehistoric Nations."

We are indebted to Mr. Dwyer, bookseller, for a copy of the above named work, by John D. Baldwin, a member of the American Oriental Society, to which the work is inscribed. The volume treats of nations and races whose names are now almost forgotten, and the meagre glimpse of whose deeds and greatness now obtainable is due to the labors of the archeologist in deciphering hieroglyphics representing languages dead and forgotten thousands of years ago.

The work contains over four hundred pages, separated into nine chapters, devoted respectively to the following subjects—one, "Introductory Generalities;" two, "Preliminary suggestions relative to the current chronologies, and the relation of Hellas (ancient Greece) to civilization;" three, to the "Prehistoric Greatness of Arabia;" four, to "The Phenicians;" five, to "The Cushite or Arabian origin of Chaldeans;" six, to "India, Sanskrit and ante-Sanskrit;" seven, to "Egypt previous to Menes;" eight, to "Africa and the Arabian Cushites;" nine, to "Western Europe in pre-historic times," including ancient civilization in that part of the world, the age of bronze and the race contemporaneous with it, the ancient history of Italy; Western Europe anciently called Africa; ancient communication with America, etc.

From the preceding a general idea of the character of the work may be gained, and it can scarcely fail to be read with pleasure and profit by all interested in the labors and researches of the archeologist and antiquarian. It can be obtained at Dwyer's book store, and will be sent by post to any part of the Territory for two dollars.

AN EXPERT.—Dr. Price is well known as an expert in the study of Culinary Chemistry, and all of the manufactures of Steele & Price are the result of his researches. One of these discoveries is the Cream Baking Powder, by the use of which light, sweet biscuits, cakes, &c., at all times are a certainty. The market is flooded with cheap inferior baking powders, and adulteration is so extensively practised, that the Cream Baking Powder does the work with two-thirds of the quantity required of any other kind. In view of such cheap impositions, the public are advised to ask for these pure and excellent articles, if they cannot be obtained of one grocer may be of another. The purer the articles that compose our daily food the better they are for health. Dr. Price's True Flavoring Extracts are really delicious.

Local and Other Matters.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, MAY 3.

Kain.—Didn't it try to rain yesterday morning, and wasn't it a failure, like most of the attempts the last two or three weeks?

Busy Streets.—The breaking of the railroad blockade has made the streets assume an unusually lively appearance. Wagons laden with all kinds of goods passing to and fro, boxes of merchandise piled up in front of the stores in the business part of the City and other indications make an agreeable change from the comparatively dull monotony that lately prevailed.

Seize the Flippers.—Yesterday some one among the flipper imps that play so many disagreeable pranks flipped a pebble through the front window of Mr. Claude Clive's establishment, First South Street, and we agree with him that the police officers should take peremptory possession of every flipper found in the hands of boys. Those little implements are the means of a great deal of broken glass and many runaways.

Bad Accident.—Yesterday morning a five year old son of Edward Middlemas, 6th Ward, let a dog loose that he might frolic around the premises with him. While indulging in some antics the rope that was attached to the dog got entangled around the boy's leg, which caused him to be thrown over and dragged so that his thigh was broken.

Dr. Anderson was sent for and set the injured limb.

Third District Court.—The regular May term of the Third District Court opened at eleven o'clock to-day, Hon. David P. Lowe, C. J., presiding; William Carey, U. S. District Attorney; A. K. Smith, Dep. U. S. Marshal; Ed. B. McKean, Clerk; Bowman Cannon, L. Sprague, and J. P. Cross, Bailiffs; R. C. Dennison, Crier.

The venire for a petit jury was returned by the Marshal, all who had been served answering to their names excepting three, and three others had not been served.

A nolle prosequi was entered in the case of the U. S. vs. Elizabeth Gordon, indicted for illegal voting.

James Dunn indicted conjointly with John Beegan, for larceny from the person, was arraigned and pleaded not guilty, and J. C. Hemingway was appointed as counsel for him. Subsequently after consulting with his attorney, he withdrew the plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty and the court sentenced him to imprisonment in the Territorial penitentiary for one year, and to pay the costs of the prosecution.

Other business, mostly ex parte, was also disposed of during the day.

Another Suicide.—About four o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. Fisher, wife of Thomas Fisher, of the 6th Ward, committed suicide by taking strychnine. It appears that she had been predisposed to that kind of thing, having attempted to destroy herself in a similar manner once before, in Swansea, Wales. Some time since her husband discovered that she had a bottle of strychnine by her and he managed to get it away from her, but she had hid another away in the clock.

When she took the poison yesterday afternoon, she did so in the presence of another woman, who, being lame, however, could not get along fast enough to bring timely assistance. Some of the neighbors entered the house and on hearing what had happened sent immediately for Dr. Davis, who soon arrived, but was too late to render any assistance, and Mrs. Fisher expired in a little over half an hour after taking the poison. She retained her senses almost to the last, although, as is always the effect of strychnine, she was afflicted with severe spasms.

Deceased had been heavily afflicted, we might say bedridden, with rheumatism for the past ten years, and had been a great sufferer also from a catarrhal affection. She was 57 years of age and was a native of Devonshire, England.

Since the foregoing was written we learn that Coroner Taylor and a jury held an inquest over the body. The evidence given showed that after she took the poison she appeared anxious to recover, and took readily whatever was given her by Dr. Davis, but the poison had diffused itself through her system before his arrival.

The verdict was to the effect that she died from the effects of strychnine.

nine, self-administered, while she was laboring under temporary insanity.

From Dixie.—We had a call this morning from Brother B. F. Pendleton, of St. George, who reached this City last evening. He left St. George on the 20th of April, and reports that the prospects for fruit, the coming season, in the Utah Dixie are not very flattering, late frosts having entirely killed the peaches, apricots, plums and almonds, and partly killed the pears. The grapes and apples were looking promising when he left. He also informed us that the brethren, under the direction of Bishop R. Gardner, are busily engaged at Mt. Trumbull, in getting timber and making lumber for the temple roof, and it is now expected that all that is needed will be ready in time. The prospects of the Grand Gulch Mining Company are excellent; they have one furnace up and two more in course of erection, and in a short time they expect to be freighting bullion to the railway terminus. They calculate to get out twenty-five tons of bullion per day, and it is the opinion of experienced miners that the ore now in sight will require five years to extract.

Brother Pendleton returned from this city to St. George last June, and during his trip hither, just completed, he says he noticed many new fields fenced and under cultivation, indicating that much more grain than usual will be raised the coming season. Stock generally, looks poor, and the condition of the animals north of Dixie is much inferior to the stock there. The health of the settlers there is also good, and taking all things together, Brother Pendleton says, Dixie for ever!

An Attempted Escape of Prisoners.—Yesterday a young fellow named Robert Charles was the only person in the shape of a guard at the County jail. He felt rather sick yesterday, or, to use his own words, he felt very strange. In the afternoon he took off his boots, went outside of the Court House and sat upon a window sill on the west side of the building. He had been there but a short time when he heard a peculiar sound, as if somebody was scratching and digging into the wall of the jail underneath, then he saw a hand protrude through a small opening.

Without waiting for further developments he started off for assistance. He went to the house of Mr. N. V. Jones, who lives near by, and that gentleman seized his revolver and ran to the Court House, and was joined on the way by Mr. Samuel Russell, who was supplied by Charles with a shot gun. Charles was then sent off to bring the Sheriff, while Messrs. Jones and Russell stood guard, the one at the North-west and the other at the south-west corner of the building. Shortly afterwards the regular jailor arrived, and finally the hole that was being made by the prisoners was large enough to admit of the body of a man passing through, and the notorious "Bob" McCausland emerged from it. When he had got fairly out the gentlemen already named stepped into sight and Mr. Jones said, "Crawl back," and, without more ado, McCausland crawled back.

While Mr. Russell stood guard over the hole the others went down stairs into the jail and removed the prisoners from the day cell, from which they had attempted to break, and placed them in the night cell, and while this was being done one of them was exceedingly abusive, especially to Mr. Jones.
