

THE EVENING NEWS.

PUBLISHED DAILY, SUNDAYS RECEIVED AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

DAVID O. CALDER,
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Thursday, February 10, 1876.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

PEOPLE'S TICKET.

For Mayor:
PERAMORE LITTLE.

Almoners:

1ST WARD - ADAM SPIERS.
2ND HENRY DINWOODIE
3RD A. H. RALEIGH.
4TH JOHN SHARP.
5TH ALEX. C. PYPER.

Councillors:

BRIGHAM YOUNG,
JOHN HENRY SMITH,
NICHOLAS GROESBECK,
J. R. WINDER,
DAVID O. CALDER,
GEORGE REYNOLDS,
ELIAS MORRIS,
ELIJAH F. SHEETS,
HARRISON SPERRY.

Treasurer:

PAUL A. SCHETTER.
300,000.00
Received

JOHN T. CAINE.

Marshal:

AUDREW BURT.

they will give them a wide berth." Of course neither sheep nor goats can like to go to the dogs."

This is how the Albany (N. Y.) Argus illustrates the severity of the present hard times—Four positions remain at the disposal of the comptroller in his office. For these positions there are between seven and eight hundred applicants. There is probably not an undeserving person, not a case of imposture, among them. They present a most remarkable record of gentlemen too poor to beg and too poor to live. Nothing could more forcibly illustrate the severity of the times."

The Boston Transcript learns of a new way to reanimate suspended business. A concern began business a year ago with a capital of $15,000, recently failed, and now proposes to settle with its creditors in such a way as to leave $20,000 for the concern to start business with again.

Thirty or forty native Roman Catholics, residing at Taikidji, Yedo, propose to petition the Japanese government to remove all impediments to the free and open exercise of Christianity.

Gen. Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

By Telegraph.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Some appointments.

Postal rates signed with Japan—letters five cents, packages under two ounces two cents, after March 1.

Wigginson opposes R.R. subsidies.

Sure in Washington after his tunnel interests.

Pres. Grant is to testify at Washington on Saturday in the Babcock trial.

Congressional proceedings.

Some interesting talk in Congress over the Centennial and the diplomatic bills.

Corrected list of heavy losers by the New York fire.

Two suspensions in Canada.

The report of gunpowder packages among coal on an American steamer is denied.

P. S. Laurent, French author, is dead.

About the change of prefect of police in Paris.

Mr. Bowditch ninety million dollars.

Prince Bismarck wants re-introduction of stricken out clauses in the penal code. He says Germany is in profound peace, no wish for conquest, quite content, threatens nobody, but rumors will arise.

The late treasures of Dartmouth College compromises his deficiency for $15,000.

A failure at New Haven.

The insurance companies do not release the losses by fire.

Mr. Bowditch fifty million dollars.

A shocking story of Spanish lust, barbarity and murder from Cuba.

Supposed that 3,000 cavalry are requisite to patrol the Rio Grande, and quell lawlessness there.

In The States: Queen inquiry, the captain the first and third officers are slightly censured.

The bill for the admission of New Mexico will be reported favorably and unanimously.

Verdict for plaintiff in suit of First National Bank, Springfield, Ills.

Mrs. Baldwin, a wealthy lady, committed suicide at Carthage, O.

Something about the Mississippi state investigations.

The London Times thinks the Egyptian queen indicates the triumph of the French syndicate.

The New London (Conn.) bank closed at $25,500.

Two men arrested for murder near Malloway City, Pa.

A Florence and Leghorn suspension.

A $75,000 fire at Holyoke, Mass.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Now Moody and Sankey are going to try to convert New York—not before it is needed. Let's hopefully hope that the converted will not prove two-fold more the children of—than they were before.

Schuyler, the smiler, has been as still as a "dead duck" of late.

But now there is another word about him. His quadrant friend, the Springfield (Mass.) Republican says—"Oakes Ames says of the statement that the executors of Oakes Ames have found papers vindicating Schuyler Colfax: 'As an executer of the late Hon. Oakes Ames I pronounce the above statement to be untrue.' On the contrary, all the information in my possession, both as an executor and as individual, convinces me that the payments which Mr. Ames claimed to have made to Mr. Colfax and others were made at the time, in the manner, and for the purpose stated by him."

The morning of Feb 5 disclosed the first real snowstorm of the winter to New Yorkers."

The Philadelphia Times thinks the best thing that could possibly happen to either of the parties just now would be a discrediting mortality among its leaders with a rapid succession of fine-class funerals, etc. The Springfield Republican thinks it is nearly for the interest of the parties as well as of the country that some of these little great men should be set down hard on their seats, and admonished to stay there.

The little bill for compensating the last riots in the vicinity of Hazelton, Pa., amounted to $106,748.44, and, which is worse, the more decent portion of the community have to pay it.

The Virginians who have the dog subject before them, and are wrestling with it. The Richmond Times says "Well, 'the father of the mouse,' thinks the dog tax will not pass, because the dogs, destructive as they have been to sheep in the past, have yet slaughtered more statesmen, and you may be certain in the future

they will give them a wide berth." Of course neither sheep nor goats can like to go to the dogs."

This is how the Albany (N. Y.) Argus illustrates the severity of the present hard times—Four positions remain at the disposal of the comptroller in his office. For these positions there are between seven and eight hundred applicants. There is probably not an undeserving person, not a case of imposture, among them. They present a most remarkable record of gentlemen too poor to beg and too poor to live. Nothing could more forcibly illustrate the severity of the times."

The Boston Transcript learns of a new way to reanimate suspended business. A concern began business a year ago with a capital of $15,000, recently failed, and now proposes to settle with its creditors in such a way as to leave $20,000 for the concern to start business with again.

Thirty or forty native Roman Catholics, residing at Taikidji, Yedo, propose to petition the Japanese government to remove all impediments to the free and open exercise of Christianity.

Gen. Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of President before any convention of the people. He thinks Gov. Hayes, or Ohio, a fine officer and a gentleman in every sense, but Gen. Sherman does not presume to advise in the choice of the man.

John Sherman says he never has been, is not now, and never shall be a candidate for the high office of