Blind. Its purpose is to help the blind on their journey through life, and this praiseworthy effort will be accomplished by encouraging them to read and to do the various handicrafts for which they are fitted.

The board of directors has earnestly solicited and invited all the blind in the intermountain region to become members of this association. They hope at no distant day to obtain a building for permanent headquarters and to encourage the establishment of shops where the adult blind may be taught some useful trades, thus enabling them to become, at least, partially self-supporting.

The principal thing now with the association, is to learn the names of all blind persons in order to determine how many are in need of the benefits which this association may grant them in the future.

The Western Association of the Adult Blind, will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers on Wednesday, Oct. 7, at 2 p. m. in room 25, B. Y. Memorial building. At 2 p. m. the same day an entertainment will be given by the association in the lecture hall of the library on State street. All interested in the work are cordially invited to attend and meet all blind of the city whether resident or non-resident. The committee takes this opportunity of informing the public that one of the great features of the coming fair will be the exhibit of the various handicrafts of the blind which will be an astonishing and delight to all who view it.

Anyone desiring to contribute funds to the association may send them to the treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Snider, 976 First avenue, Salt Lake City, and any one knowing the addresses of blind people will confer a favor by notifying the secretary of the association, Mr. A. M. Talmage, 345 East Fourth North, Provo, Utah.

TAFT SAYING THINGS IN WEST

Complaints of Wind-Jamming and Misrepresentations of Samuel Gompers.

PAYS RESPECTS TO HASKELL

Appeals to Working Men to Know If Courts Shall be Weakened for Jury Trial in Contempt Cases.

Denver, Oct. 2.—In the same building—the Denver auditorium—in which William J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency last July, William H. Taft tonight addressed a tremendous throng, setting forth reasons and arguments why the Nebraskan should not be elected.

Mr. Taft's entry into Denver was under most inspiring political conditions. His stay in the city was but for three hours, and yet he managed to do the big street parade and his attending spectacular features had been most carefully arranged so that the Taft special pulled into the Union station the town had put on a particularly bright red glare. The streets were profusely illuminated and had not been so densely populated since the Democratic convention departed.

The candidate was at once made a part of the festivities. In an automobile he was given the place of honor in the parade and bowed his acknowledgments to shouts, and plaudits along the line of march, which included the principal business streets, and ending at the splendid auditorium, whose entire seating capacity had been thrown open.

Mr. Taft delivered the principal speech of the evening. His subjects ranged widely over the various issues of the campaign. He paid his respects to Bryan many times and received encouragement from the audience so doing. One new feature of his address was in handling the subject of the beet sugar industry, which he took as an illustration of Democratic proposals toward the trusts. Beet sugar he said, was a trust-made article. The Democrats proposed to put all such articles on the free list to punish the trusts. This would, he maintained, not only punish the trusts, but would also punish many innocent farmers and producers as well.

JUDGE TAFT SAYS THINGS.
Judge Taft has said things in the west today. His language particularly on the labor question has been decidedly vigorous and positive.

"This thing of Mr. Gompers having the labor vote in his pocket and of the labor men believing lies he tells, is something that I complain of."

"Laboring men ought to look at the record and see what the party has done in their behalf. If you will examine the legislative record you will find not a line in the federal statutes punishing the trusts, but there by the Democratic party. Not a line was put there by Mr. Bryan when he was twice a member of Congress in Grover Cleveland's administration, did he attempt to have any passed."

"Mr. Gompers attacked me on the ground that I am an enemy of labor. I deny it. I was a judge on the bench and I decided the cases that came before me as the law and the evidence required, and I am not making apology for a single decision. In them I laid down the principles defining the right to organize; that they had a right to elect officers; that they had a right to accumulate funds by which they might strike; that no injunction could issue to prevent them striking but that they might injure the property of their employer and they might not institute a strike; they may not injure property, they are now relied upon by organized labor to maintain their right in court."

NOT AN ENEMY OF LABOR.
"I appeal to the clear-headed, intelligent and independent workmen of this country to look into the facts and the law and if they can find there that I am an enemy of labor, then vote against me."

"But what I complain of is this wind-jamming and misrepresentation of a man who claims to control labor in order to defeat a man who is in favor of labor."

The foregoing quotations are excerpts from the numerous speeches Mr. Taft delivered today on his trip from Omaha to Denver, by way of Cheyenne, Wyo. His general topics included talks to farmers about the tariff and the necessity for maintaining the protective principle. He made his views on the labor question known at nearly every stop. But it was at North Platte, Cheyenne and Denver that this subject received the most extended consideration.

Candidate Taft was not up when the first demonstration was made this morning at Gothenburg, Neb., and a guesting village was left behind when the Taft special concluded its short stop there for water, as the candidate was unable to appear. North Platte furnished an immense audience, a large proportion of which represented railroad labor, and what the candidate had to say was listened to with attention and interest.

Ogallala, Neb., furnished Judge Taft with a watermelon, the gift of Keith county Democrats. "I'm glad it is a melon and not a lemon," smilingly ejaculated Mr. Taft, as he took the gift. Julesburg, Colo., and Cheyenne, Wyo., furnished large and enthusiastic crowds. At Kimball, Neb., Senator Doolittle complimented his audience on "this splendid section of Wyoming," and got a merry hi-ha from his hearers, who told him he was in Nebraska.

A committee representing the state of Wyoming boarded the train at Pine Bluffs, consisting of Gov. Brooks, Judges Taft, Clark and C. W. Burke and nominee for governor. When Cheyenne was reached, shortly after 3 o'clock, the candidate was taken in an automobile direct to the local theater, which was packed from the pit to the roof.

The candidate had three-quarters of an hour, and began by saying he was going to divide his time with Senator Doolittle, because the senator was at his very best when talking to women, and especially women who could vote. Then Mr. Taft proceeded to use up every minute of the time allotted for both speakers. In a box on one of his auditors was Senator Gore of Oklahoma, who speaks there tonight. In his speech Taft made a most emphatic denial of Mr. Bryan's assertion that Republican votes helped to pass through the senate 10 years ago the bill requiring jury trial between the judge and a court and the enforcement of its final decree.

"Mr. Bryan says that Republican senators voted that bill," said Judge Taft. "I deny it. The Record does not show it and he cannot prove it."

AFTER HASKELL.
Speaking of the labor plank in the Democratic platform in his argument against intervening jury trials, Mr. Taft paid his respects to Gov. Haskell. He said:

"The man who passed that very resolution in the platform, Gov. Haskell, has been 10 or 20 times a defendant in prosecutions of that sort with reference to the violations of the orders of courts, and he had to pay $22,000 in New York in the federal court to purge himself of that very contempt, and if you are going to introduce a jury trial of the courts so that they will be a laughing stock, I appeal to intelligent workmen to know whether they desire that the courts, upon which our whole civilization exists, shall be weakened merely in order that a trial by jury shall be introduced in a certain class of cases, when we have gotten along thus far for 300 years without such an intervention between a lawful order of the court and its enforcement."

The Taft special was escorted into Denver tonight from Cheyenne by a committee consisting of Jesse McDonald, candidate for governor; Thomas F. Walsh, national committeeman; Representative Bonyon; Lieut. Gov. E. R. Harper, state chairman John Vivian and James C. Bouger, candidate for Congress.

At Greeley, on the route from Cheyenne to Denver, an immense crowd had assembled, and here Mr. Taft varied his usual line of argument to place himself on record regarding the beet sugar industry, which thrives around Greeley. He said:

SUGAR INDUSTRY.

"I have been talking half across the continent, and I left most of my voice in the east. But I am glad to be able to express my gratitude to the people of Greeley for this cordial reception. I understand you are interested here in a good deal in beet sugar, and I also understand that some people have intimated that I was against beet sugar. I deny it. I would not do anything that would injure the beet industry in any way, and the Republican platform pledges the Republican party to take no action which will not leave adequate protection for the beet-sugar interests. But I call your attention to the fact that sugar is a trust-made product, and that if Mr. Bryan becomes president and has control of the legislation he proposes to put sugar on the free list, because it is a trust-made product. Now that is the character of remedy that he proposes to do to the trusts. We say to regulate the trusts, to stamp out their evil, but not to punish the innocent with the guilty—nor in order to bring the sugar trust within the law, to destroy the farmers who raise beet sugar, the men who work in the beet sugar factories, and the innocent beet sugar producers."

After the Denver meeting Mr. Taft immediately took up his journey eastward. With an all-night run he will be able to keep an engagement at Dodge City tomorrow morning and carry out an itinerary of speaking, and reach Topeka tomorrow night.

GRAND JURY TAKES UP CAPT. HAINS CASE

New York, Oct. 2.—Evidence was presented before a grand jury in Long Island City against Capt. Peter Hains, Jr., and T. Jenkins Hains, his brother,

WHEN we sent our first salesman to Chicago nine years ago to sell our Chocolates and other specialties many Utahns said we "had a nerve." We did have and also the quality in the goods.

That's how we captured our big Eastern, Western and Northwestern jobbing business.

We thus have made Utah famous as a Great Candy Center.

We now have Mexico in line and are also receiving inquiries and orders from all parts of Spanish America. Why?

who are charged with the murder of William E. Annis.
Dist. Atty. Darrin will base his request for an indictment upon this and other evidence. Among the witnesses before the grand jury today were Dr. Walter G. Frey, the coroner's physician, who examined the body of Annis, and Charles H. Roberts, one of the witnesses of the shooting.

Dist. Atty. Darrin said that two of his most important witnesses had not appeared owing to illness and that if they did not do so today he would withdraw the case from this jury and present it to another grand jury which will convene on Monday. Mr. Darrin has announced that he will ask that the Hains brothers be indicted jointly on a charge of murder in the first degree, testimony of five witnesses, Dist. Atty. Darrin said he would have to postpone the matter, as the two central witnesses were absent. He hoped these witnesses would be on hand Monday.
