mannen AMUSEMENTS.

The "News" has already given so inuch space to dramatic and musical affairs in an earlier form of this issue (See page 39), and the crush on the later pages is so heavy, that notices of dramatic performances are necessarily abridged for this impression.

One rises from seeing the play of "Trilby" with an entirely new estimate of Mr. Frawley's powers. Hitherto he has been regarded in Salt Lake as a capable actor of sentimental or semiheroic roles; last night he astonished his friends by giving as powerful virile and fascinating a delineation of Svengali-we were going to say, as our Svengall-we vere going to say, as our theater goers ever beheld. But re-membering Wilton Lackaye, we leave the sentence unfinished. Yet Lackaye himself was not stronger in parts of the role, and no one else than Lackaye who has been seen here can approach Frawley. His great scene was at the death, where he falls across the table; the entire third act was perfect. In the first and second acts it might be urged that his appearance was to much on the tramp order to entitle him much on the tramp order to entitle him to be roaming around the rooms of the English students, but aside from this, there is not a word of dispraise to be uttered. Mr. Frawley was recalled again and again in thunderous fashion egain and again in thunderous fashion after the death scene; there were loud cries for a speech but he had the good taste to refuse. Miss Van Buren is altogether the best Trilby Salt Lake ever beheld. In face, form, voice and action she was superb. Mr. Reynolds as Taffy was ideal; Mr. Mathieu is rather too large for a perfect Billee, but most of the others were excellent, Mr. Chase's Zou Zou being specially Mr. Chase's Zou Zou being specially good. The singing of "Ben Bolt" was beautifully done by a member of the company, Miss Johnson. Tonight, for the first time in Sait Lake, "The Sport-

Mr. Frawley will leave Salt Lake feeling secure of the place he holds in our estimation. In the company with which he has surrounded himself this year, he has attained almost the height of his ambition as a manager, and it is a very pleasant thing to know that his labors have met, and are meeting, with a substantial reward. In Salt Lake the season has not been all that could be desired from a financial standpoint, because of the approach of the holi-days, which drives amusements from most peoples' minds, but Mr. Frawley may be assured that the next time he visit us the and he has next time he will have taken root, and he will un-doubtedly reap the advantages of his sowing. Salt Lake will follow the ca-reer of his leading lady, Miss Van Bu-ren, with most friendly interest. She undoubtedly has a distinguished for undoubtedly has a distinguished fu-ture, and being young in the profes-sion, she cannot be in a better school sion, she cannot be in a better school than the Frawley company, where she is given a wide range of parts, and made to work under an exacting mas-ter. Mr. Reynolds, too, will always be assured of a friendly welcome when he returns to Salt Lake: his delinea-tion have all bespoken the training of a student and a gentleman. Salt Lake will wish the whole company continued will wish the whole company continued prosperity and a speedy return to their friends in this section.

The big New York and London pro-duction. "The Belle of New York." which ran 675 performances in the English capital and 250 nights in New fork, is coming to Sait Lake at last. Mr. Lederer sends out a company of sixty-five people and Sait Lake is for-tunate to catch it on its way to San Franciso. Although it is only a few days since the Theater announced this big production, advance inquiries are pouring in, and it is likely that the opening on Tuesday evening will see one of the biggest houses of the sea-Mr. Mulvey has booked "My Friend from India" for two nights at the Grand, next Monday and Tuesday evenings. This play has been seen several times in Salt Lake and has always been accorded a hearty reception. The company this year is headed by the well known actress. Miss May Vokes, the originally Tilly, which she played for over 200 nights in New York City.

mount of good there is no question. The throngs that attend them and the words of praise heard regarding them are proofs of this. The large gather-ing present this afternoon and the at-tendance of more than 2,500 people a week ago were exceedingly complimen-tary, not only to Prof. McClellan, but to the Church authoritles who have made this a feature of Salt Lake's musical life.

A New York musician spoke thus to the writer, concerning the recitals a few days ago: "They are of infinite benefit to your city-something we don't have in the metropolis. We have plenty of recitals but none that are siven gratils to the public." The class of music played is the very best and the innovation instituted by Prof. McClellan in playing an "oid tune" each Saturday is much appre-clated by those who like the favorites of other days; for those who revel in the classics there is much standard music. We are informed that it is Prof. McClellan's intention to continue these recitals and to make them more interesting. Mr. B. B. Young and his wife will Mr. B. E. Young and his wife will give their song recital at the Theater on Monday night. The entertainments provided by Mr. Young are too well known to heed recommendation, and his strong popularity in this city on past occasions renders it likely that he will be greeted by a handsome audi-ence. Mr. Young is an old time singer in Salt Lake. He was born here, and studied here, having been one of Prof. Careless' pupils. He made a decided success when "Plinatore" was first brought out in Salt Lake, appearing as the captain. After that he went to London where he met Madam Mazzu-calo, a member of a distinguished musical formite and cato, a member of a distinguished musical family, and married her. They took up their abode in Chicago some years ago where they have ever since met with decided success as teachers. Their program here includes twelve or fifteen numbers embracing English ballads, old and modern.

The manager of the Boston Lyric company, which comes to the Theater the last week in January, writes that he has engaged the noted singer, Colla-marini, whose "Carmen" is almost as noted as that of Carle.

The Royal Marine Eand of Italy, which was expected at the Theater last week, but which did not arrive in time to fill the date, has booked tomorrow night at the Grand, and will give a con-cert there. The band has been playing a successful engagement on the const, and is said to be a fine organization, largely composed of reed instruments.

Miss Teena McAllister entertained at a Kensington this afternoon at her home on Center street in honor of Miss Anna Hatch of Heber City. A very novel feature of the afternoon's entertainment was the task given to each one present of making as many words as they could from the letters in the word "Christmas." The cards used were decorated with a spray of holy, hand painted by the hostess. The color scheme was also sluggestive of Christmas, being in red and green. The prize awarded was a photo frame with holly decorations with holly decorations.

Mr. William Brough and Miss Mary Hannah Hewett were amongst those who were united in marriage during the past week. The wedding took place Wednesday, December 12, at the residence of the bride's mother. About seventy-five friends celebrated the oc-casion.
