

WASHINGTON.

"Walton Wold" Gets After Tucker
With a Sharp Stick—Tucker and Edmunds Watching Each Other—A Bill to Extend the Appropriation for the Utah Penitentiary, etc., etc.

News' Special Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8, 1887.

Another week and still the Tucker-Edmunds or Edmunds-Tucker bill (you pay your money and take your choice) is not the law of the land. In my last letter I mentioned that the conference committee had held two meetings, but nothing of moment had transpired at either. These were not regular meetings. They were merely informal and attended by but two or three members. In fact, they could hardly be called meetings, as they were casual gatherings of a chance nature when the subject came up.

I heard the other day R. N. Baskin was doing some tall "cussing" because of the delay. The bill once through the House, he had supposed there would be no more difficulty, but he begins to feel that.

HIS TROUBLES

are by no means over; he wails out his laments in some-thing like the following tone: "I'm d-d well sick of this thing. I've been around here for two years, working with all my power to get this thing through. When it passed the House, of course I took it for granted that the fight was over, and here I am, in as great doubt as ever; everything unsettled and difficulties cropping out in the most unexpected places. I'm getting so tired of the d-d thing, I feel like packing up my grip and clearing out." And other things he said which the day might have quaked to listen to. He damned Congress, he damned the House, he damned the Senate and he damned Representatives and Senators slugly. He did everything which was loyal in a Leaguer and which is

TREASON IN A MORMON;

and notwithstanding it all, the bill is not a law.

There may be an additional reason for this wall. Messrs. Baskin and Bennett and Governor Caleb West are known about the capitol as "Jack Mormons." This epithet is continually applied to them, and particularly to Baskin, who is better known than his ally compatriot. If there is one thing more than another that Baskin hates, it is the name "Jack Mormon," and there is little doubt that his nerves must be unstrung to hear people whisper of him as he goes past, "There goes the Jack-Mormon lobbyist." Less than a year ago Mr. Baskin, in his speech before the House judiciary committee, made this declaration: "I think I am one of the men in that country [Utah] who has never had the imputation cast upon him of being a 'Jack Mormon.'" How have the mighty fallen! Think of it: Jack Mormon Baskin! No wonder he cusses the whole thing.

THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

on the Tucker substitute has held two meetings. The first was held on Friday last. It was of five hours' duration, or over, and yet it adjourned without anything whatever being done tending to an agreement. As near as I can ascertain the whole time was consumed by Edmunds and Tucker, the Vermont Senator occupying by long odds the greater part, explaining his views on the subject. On Saturday another meeting was held. At this Senator Ingalls, who had been absent from the first meeting, was present. This session lasted over three hours. There are conflicting reports as to what transpired. Tucker himself is authority for the statement that practically nothing was done. There are other intimations that an agreement is likely, and still others that it is very unlikely. One report says the Senate conferees are willing to make

than the House members of the committee, while another authority declares there was greater opposition on the part of the Senate committee than had been expected, and that the arguments were very spirited against the measure. If anything intelligible can be got out of this, I am willing the hopeful correspondent of the Tribune shall dig it out. Even Edmunds is understood to have said that they had hardly got at the matter yet. But above these conflicting opinions is the declaration of Representative Tucker that practically nothing was done, and I believe he would have thrown out all the crumbs of comfort possible to the hungry ones who clamor so loudly for this measure to become a law. I do not believe any satisfactory position was reached, and I believe it safe to predict that the bill, if it ever becomes a law, will not be approved as it passed the House. Yet one member of the conference committee is reported again and again to have said that he will fight for and for that alone, without the crossing of a t or the dotting of a u. It looks to a person up a tree as though the Republicans started out to steal all the thunder which anti-Mormon legislation gives, but that Tucker thought he would purloin it for himself in particular and his party in general, and that he has been foolish enough to suppose the Republicans in general and Mr. Edmunds in particular would submit to the stealing.

THE TUCKER BILL,

The Mexican pension bill, as you are already aware, has passed. There will be some money for a few Mormons, unless something is done to make them an exception to the purport of the bill. This would hardly be a matter of surprise in view of things past and pending.

I send you the text of the bill to make a further appropriation for the penitentiary. Nothing has yet been done about it, and it is yet a question if it will pass, though I am aware of no reason why it should not:

A BILL

Extending the limit of the appropriation for erection of a penitentiary in the Territory of Utah.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the limit of the appropriation made in the year eighteen hundred and eighty-four, for the erection and completion of a penitentiary in the Territory of Utah be, and the same is hereby, extended to one hundred thousand dollars; and the additional sum of fifty thousand dollars is hereby appropriated for said purpose, out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

WALTON WOLD.

OGDEN OCCURRENCES.

FEBRUARY 9th, 1887.

The weather here for two days past has been intensely cold, and the wind piercing. The health of the community is somewhat improved, and it is a source of gratitude that the mortality is light. This morning a case of scarlet fever was reported to the city authorities, and the house in which it is was promptly quarantined.

The sanitary committee work with commendable zeal to promote the health of the people of this city.

Mr. Rollin P. Saxe will shortly return to California. He has been here for many months and has sold a great many of his Holstein blooded stock. To-day he sold to Mr. David Kay, a cow and calf for which he received three hundred and fifty dollars. Mr. Kay is proud of his purchase and the seller is glad to receive the duets. Mr. Saxe desires through the DESERET NEWS to thank his numerous friends in this Territory for their patronage and the uniform kind treatment they have accorded him.

Only one arrest has been made within the past few days on the charge of unlawful cohabitation. The victim was Elder John Schade, of Huntsville. Yesterday he was brought down from the valley arraigned before Commissioner Wardleigh and placed under $1,500 bonds to await the action of the grand inquisitors.

A few months since the steam flouring mill of Mr. Joseph Clark in this city was destroyed by fire. To-day Mr. Clark consummated the purchase of Farr's mill, which is located near the Ogden river bridge, on North Main Street. As soon as Mr. Farr can clean up what grain and mill stuffs there are in the mill he will take possession, and, with his well known energy and enterprise he will doubtless make the institution of benefit to himself and the community.

This evening Elders A. Greenwell sen., and Wm. H. Pidcock, who are participants in the benefits of the late decision of the United States Supreme Court, arrived in Ogden from the penitentiary. They met with a hearty welcome from their numerous friends and the citizens of Ogden generally.

LEHI LINES.

LEHI, Utah, Feb. 9th, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

As the Spring draws near, our farmers commence to look up their plows, etc., preparatory for the turning of the soil. Many are very busy hauling out manure as the snow is fast fading away.

On Saturday evening a very fine variety entertainment was given in our Music Hall for the benefit of our much respected townsman and chorister, Brother J. L. Gibbs, who has been arrested on the usual complaint. The people turned out en masse and many had to be turned away, as the building would not contain them. (This makes me think that a new and more spacious place for amusement would be a benefit to our public.) Our Bishop kindly gave his time and talent towards the entertainment, as did our choir, brass band and dramatic company, who all acted their parts well. Special mention ought to be made of Mr. G. Kirkham in his comic songs, who kept the audience in a roar from the time he appeared until he left the stage. Also Mr. H. Lewis in his specialty of the Irish emigrant, with his numerous family, who made a host of fun. It was one of the best entertainments of the kind ever given in Lehi. On Monday evening the programme was repeated and the proceeds handed over to our worthy Brother Wm. Yates, who has also been arrested on the same complaint.

On Monday the People's party held a caucus meeting and nominated a new ticket for City Fathers, which will be voted for on Monday next and it is expected that the party will turn out and elect it.

Several fine flowing wells have been struck of late, the finest at the residence of Mr. E. W. Packer, which flows about 16 gallons a minute. Some have been struck in our fields giving some 30 gallons.

The health of the people is very good at present. Yours truly,
ONE OF THE 8.

BIRTHS.

In this city, to the wife of John Farrington, at 1:15 a.m. Feb. 10, a girl. All well.

Deceased was born in Pilley, Yorkshire, England, October 28, 1852; emigrated to Utah with her parents (George and Enoch Batty) in 1862. Her infant son survived her but a few hours. She lived the life of a Saint, and true wife and mother, leaving a husband and six children, besides father, mother and friends, to mourn her loss.

Millennial Star, please copy.

METCALF.—Of diabetes, Feb. 4th, 1887, at Fayette, Sanpete County, Utah, at the residence of his daughter Jane A. Bown, John E. Metcalf, Sen. Born July 18th, 1812, in Hull, Yorkshire, England, being 74 years, 6 months and 22 days old. He embraced the Gospel of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, in the early part of 1849, and his house was always open to the missionary Elders. He emigrated to Utah with his family in 1854, crossing the ocean in the ship Elen Maria, and arriving in Salt Lake City in the latter part of September. He lived in the Fourth Ward till 1856, when he moved to Springville, where he resided till he was called to go south in the fall of 1862 he went with part of his family to St. George, and was subsequently released by President George A. Smith to go to Fayette to build a grist mill. He moved his family to Fayette in the Spring of 1864, where he lived until his demise. He filled a mission to England from 1877 to 1879, and was the father of twelve children, six of whom are still living. He has fifty grand and fifteen great-grandchildren. In the summer of 1883 he met with a severe accident while going to Gunnison in a buggy; going down a hill side the buggy tipped over, throwing himself and wife and a granddaughter to the ground. He was thereby injured in his head, which caused him to lose his eyesight, previous to which time he was a healthy, active man, filling many responsible positions in the Church. He lived and died a faithful Saint, and his funeral was held February 7, 1887, and was largely attended by his relatives and friends from Fayette and Gunnison Wards.—[Com.]

WAHALIN.—In this city, February 15th, 1887, Anna Katrina Wahalin; aged 61 years. Funeral service at 2 p.m., on Tuesday, February 15th, at Mrs. Ellen Johnson's residence, Arsenal Hill. Friends invited.

In this issue the advertisement of the Burton-Gardner Company, of Salt Lake City, appears. The special attention of all desiring a strong, cheap and good looking fence is called to their combination fence, which will be found all that is claimed for it. An invitation is extended to all visiting Salt Lake to call at the factory, see how the fence is made, and be satisfied.
