From Mr. Dwyer's establishment we have No. 42 of the Humboldt Library, 15 cents each. It contains "The History of Science in Politics." The entire work is one of rare excellence.

Ordinary glue can be dissolved in acetic acid or strong vinegar, without heating, and makes an excellent glue, almost as good as when heated. Keep tightly corked to prevent evaporation.

We draw the attention of our readers to an article on our first page regarding the approaching Theodore Tilton Memorial Festival, and accompanying card of the committee of management.

A flippant, frivolous man may ridicule others, may controvert them, scorn them; but he who has any respect for himself seems to have renounced the right of thinking meanly of others.—Goethe.

The Elmira-Gazette is bursting its buttons over a joke on its esteemed contemporary in the State, which copied with appropriate comments its account of the death of T. H. O'Mara, found out in two on the Erie track the other day.

I know nothing so hard for a generous mind to get over as calumny and reproach, and any method of quieting the soul under them, besides this single one, of our being conscious to ourselves that we do not deserve them.—Addison.

The New York Mercury said: Miss Minnie Madden is a charmingly sympathetic little actress, and has succeeded in filling the Park Theatre at each performance during the past week. She will appear on Thursday at the Theatre in the great sensational play of "Foggy's Ferry."

For a home-made disinfectant dissolve a bushel of salt in a barrel of water, and with the salt water wash a barrel of lime, which should be wet enough to form a kind of paste. For the purpose of a disinfectant this home-made chloride of lime is nearly as good as that purchased at the shops. Use freely about stables, cellars, gutters and out-houses, and in this way prevent sickness, suffering and expense.—Christian Advocate, Buffalo.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

NOTICE. The General Conference of the Young People's Mutual Improvement Association will convene in the Assembly Hall, in this city, at 10 a.m. on Monday, April 9th, and will continue through the day.

All the members of the various Associations, and particularly the officers, are invited to attend, and the latter should come prepared to make their reports.

Everything Done.—In the late case of accidental poisoning of the son of Mr. William R. Scott, at Santaquin, the physician who were applied to by the parents, stated that everything that could be done to save the lad was done, and they could not have operated more intelligently or effectively if they had been present at the time of the occurrence.

A Rotary Boiler.—This morning a large rotary boiler, which arrived in this city on Saturday, was hauled to the new paper mill on Big Cottonwood Creek. It is a mammoth affair, weighing 14,000 pounds, and is the only boiler of the kind west of Omaha. It is not designed for use in the propulsion of the mill machinery, but is to be driven by water-power, but is for the purpose of preparing the paper making material.

Progressive.—On a trip to the capital city of Utah county, we were pleased to note the evidences of thrift in the various towns passed through en-route. Numbers of new residences are erected, which besides having a cozy appearance, are very redeeming features of the non-picturesqueness of sage brush and sterile land taken up by the enterprising settlers, and in marked contradistinction to the wooden balcon shanties called residences which are common to the ordinary railroad and mining towns.

Provo Points.—The present year will add very much to the appearance of Provo City, in the completion of several large buildings, work on two of which has already been commenced. We refer to the new Tabernacle and the elegant bank block. The new Tabernacle will be erected on the same square or block and immediately south of the present Tabernacle, to be constructed of red brick with white sandstone ornate facings and water table, on a black rock foundation. W. H. Folsom, of Mantli, is the architect. The design embodies desirable improvements and has four octagon shaped corner towers, the recesses of which will afford space for the stair approaching to a gallery running all around the inside of the building, and permitting egress and ingress without interfering with the entrances to the lower part of the building, which otherwise will be very similar internally to the Assembly Hall in this city. The outside dimensions of the building will be 165 feet by 84 feet, with a seating capacity of over 3,000, somewhat larger than our Assembly Hall. It is contemplated to have the structure reared and roofed in before next winter, a considerable quantity of building material being already on the ground. It will undoubtedly be a fine building, of which the Provo people will have good reason to be proud.

The bank building, will be erected on the southeast corner of the block directly north of the Tabernacle square, and comprises the premises for the use of the First National Bank of Provo, and a store on the west side of it, the latter being put up by A. O. Smoot, Esq. The two buildings are one continuous design, by Architect John H. Burton, of this city. Red brick, with stone window sills, caps and cornices, surmounted by a neat balustrade along the front of the roof, go to make up a very effective and imposing appearance. The upper rooms are designed to be used as offices, etc. The cellar excavations are completed, and mason work is expected to commence right away.

Examination Concluded.—The long-pending Roach-Donnelly shooting case was at last concluded, so far as the Justice's Court was concerned, to-day. R. M. Poyer was the only eye-witness of the affray, outside of the principals, who was on the stand. His testimony substantially sustained the statement made by Donnelly, the prosecuting witness. It was to the effect that on the night of February 28th, as Donnelly and Davis were walking up the east side of West Temple Street, Roach approached from behind and a scuffle ensued, the latter leveling his pistol on him, and threatening to kill him if he attempted to move. On Donnelly trying to get up, Roach fired and leaped from the sidewalk to the street. Both the parties then fired almost simultaneously, and Roach went quickly across the street and hid behind a tree, in front of the Continental Hotel. In the meantime Cass Davis had left his companion in the beginning of the affray, having entered an adjoining alley, and disappeared.

Roach was held to answer to the grand jury in the sum of $300, and Donnelly was held in his own recognizances in the sum of $200 to appear as a witness in the case in the District Court.

Centre Street Improvements.—We have received a communication from "G. H." regarding the proposed improvements on Centre Street, in the northern part of the city. It is somewhat lengthy and we therefore have not space to give it in full. The letters from this position lately taken by our correspondent "Index" that the water-seat should be retained on the north side of the street, "G. H." objection to this is based on the fact of its having to cross so many thoroughfares, and that the stream and the decline cause the stream to rush with such force as to render it difficult of control, especially when there is any considerable body of water. He also claims that the changing of the location of the seat will tend to maintain the purity of the water. It will, he holds, also admit of more desirable street improvements being made in the immediate locality. Finally he is in favor of the City Council plans, and trusts there will be no further hindrance to their being prosecuted.

Vicious Horses.—Here is something from the Prairie Farmer worthy the attention of persons having the care of horses: A very simple method and an improvement upon the Rarey system of training vicious horses was exhibited at West Philadelphia, recently, and the manner in which some of the wildest horses were subdued was astonishing. The first trial was that of a kicking or "balky" mare, which her owner said he had also had no rider on her back for a period of at least five years. She became tame in an hour as many would have said, and she was ridden about without any sign of her former wildness. The means by which the result was accomplished was a piece of light rope which was passed around the front jaw of the mare just above the upper teeth crossed in her mouth, thence secured back of her neck. It was claimed that the horse would kick or jump when thus secured, and that a horse after receiving the treatment a few times, will abandon his vicious ways forever.

Farewell Lectures.—To-night Mr. Phil Robinson will deliver his farewell lecture at the Theatre. We hope a large audience will be present to listen to him. Judging from the satisfaction created by that of a week ago, those who attend will be most agreeably entertained. The lecture of to-night will differ in its general features from the first one, and therefore, those who heard it will not be under the necessity of listening to a repetition of what they formerly heard, except in relation to a few of the leading incidents narrated. Turn out and give him a bumper home-coming.

The Minnie Madden Company will open at the Theatre on Thursday, in Fogg's Ferry.

Death of Elder Solomon Mack.—Father John Smith has been apprized, by letter, from Mrs. Adeline R. Mack, of Gilesum, N. H., of the death at that place, of her husband, Solomon Mack, cousin to the Prophet Joseph Smith. The cause of his demise was pneumonia, from which he suffered severely for nine days, and expired on the 30th of last January. Although not gathered with the Saints he took a deep interest in the affairs of the work, and with that object in view, was a regular subscriber to the Nauvo. Before expiring he expressed implicit faith in a risen Redeemer and was reconciled to meet death.

At the time of his demise deceased was aged 77 years 8 months and 8 days, having been born at Gilesum, N. H., on May 23rd, 1805. He was the son of Solomon Mack (brother to the Prophet's mother) and Esther Hayward. He was married to Adaline Knight Sept. 22nd 1829. He was baptized June 12th, 1841 by Eli P. Maginnis and confirmed by the latter and Ormus Bates; ordained a Teacher by Elder Austin Cowles, Feb. 17th 1842; April 30th, 1843 he was ordained a Priest under the hands of Wm. Hyde and Charles A. Adams; Feb. 10th, 1849 he was ordained an Elder, under the hands of Brigham Young, Jesse C. Little and L. W. Hardy. On Dec. 25th, 1856, he was ordained a High Priest by President John Taylor and Elder N. H. Feit.

Resolve to Dissolve.—The Bear Lake Lumber Company was organized about 18 months ago by a union of the saw-mill owners of St. Charles, Bloomington, Paris and Liberty, for the purpose of sharing equitably in the profits, if any there should be, of furnishing lumber to the O. S. L. R. R. during the building of that line through Bear Lake County, or from Twin Creek to Hoda Springs. At the time the organization of that lumber was a great general good to the community by bringing in thousands of dollars in cash to sawyers, freighters and other employees of the company, it was not a financial success to the company itself, which lost considerable money in the contracts made.

It was then determined by the Lumber Company to make a business of exporting lumber to Ogden, Salt Lake and other points, but by the time it got ready to do this it was found that the lumber business was being rather over-done, and that it would not pay to ship lumber out of Bear Lake. This restricted the lumber business to home markets and the necessity for a large and fully organized combination of mill owners ceased, as home demands for lumber were variable and not sufficiently great for the consumption of the large amount of lumber the company was able to make.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the company held in Paris last week, it was determined to settle up its business and dissolve.—Bear Lake Democrat.

Ward Entertainment.—To-morrow evening, at the Fifteenth Ward schoolhouse, a delightful entertainment will be given by the Ward Glee club and orchestra, assisted by the Twenty-first Ward Dramatic Association. A very attractive musical programme has been prepared, and the dramatic performance will consist of the character sketch of "True to the Core," and "Nan, the Good for Nothing."

The price of admission is 50 cents, children half price. The same performance will be repeated on Saturday evening.

Sunday School Benefit.—On the evening of Thursday, March 29th, there will be a concert in the 14th Ward Assembly Rooms, for the benefit of the Sunday School. A very nice programme has been arranged and there will doubtless be a good entertainment for a commendable object. Admission, 25 cents; children 15 cents.
