THEY GET HURT EVERY DAY.

Duskies Bumped While "Working in The Middle of the Railway"-White Men Quit.

'Well, consarn their dusky skins," was the comment of the gang boss as another bunch went down. The "bunch" consisted of 12 Italian inborers-six on a side-carrying an $0pound rail to load on the construction car along the line of the street railway on Twelfth South and Seventh East, where the rails are stacked for the replacing of the light iron on the sirect car tracks. The unfortunate fellows were not to blame—they were only awkward. One of them stum-bled over a stone, yesterday afternoon and down he went with the rest on top of him, and 16 out of the 12 were injured more or less seriously, while and down he went with the rest on top of him, and 16 out of the 12 were injured more or less seriously, while the worst hurt had three ribs broken. He is now in the hospital. Again, at about the same time, an-other tot of Italians engaged in simi-lar work at Fifth South and Main streets, were just letting the rail slide to the ground. The concerted move-ment at the cry "heave-ho let loose" was not followed by two of the num-ber, and the entire weight of one end of the heavy rail fell on their funz-ers, pinching them good and hard. "Some of them are getting hurt all "We used to have white men on the because they could get more money lesswhere. Then they put on a lot of a time, they proved to be unsatisfac-tory, and then we got the Italians. But they're learning," aid the cheerful boss, as he whisted a targ-time two-step while the dark-skinde Milanese tripped along with another heavy rail. generation, through the efforts of a mission worker, and the love story that theme of the play. It is full of beauty throughout and preaches an excellent moral. The third act might be called great in the way of intensity and exgreat in the way of intensity and ex-citement; the fourth rather brings the inevitable "let-down," but the whole pleture is so vivid, charming and inter-esting that it forms no impairment to the general enjoyment. Miss Walsh played with her usual taste and care, and with something more than her us-nal reserve force. She was accorded some strong currain calls after her some strong curtain calls after her notable scenes. The supporting cast was so full of The supporting cast was so full of excellent instances of acting that it is hard to select any for first mention. Charles Dalton, well remembered as the Marcus Superbus with 'The Sign of the Cross,' was given the part of Miss. Waish's lover, a young English bar tender on Houston street. The truth, fidelity and force with which he inter-preted the role, stamped him anew as an undoubted artist. The character sketch of Mrs, Finnerty, portrayed by Helen Lowell, was a gem of its kind. Miss Lowell is another actress who left her mark as Miss Hazy in Miss Lowell is another actress who left her mark as Miss Hazy in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Miss McMillen in the role of the mission worker, Miss Thompson, played with a quiet grace and feeling unmistakably showing the actress of experience and the high bred lady. Mr. Travers (who in real life is Miss Walsh's husband) had the objectionable next of the villain (Special to the "News.") Beatty, Nev., April 18.—Railroad day has been postponed until April 26. The reason for the postponement is that the roads are not yet in position to an-nounce and advertise excursions and low rates from various parts of the country. The celebration will last two days, April 26 and 7, and hundreds of visitors are expected to participate in the festivities. In real life is Miss Walsh's husband) had the objectionable part of the villain to play, and he portrayed it in excel-lent fashion. Miss Thompson in the part of Miss Lanner, was thoroughly charming, and excellent character hits were made by Miss Ralph as Lazy Liz and Mr. Wadsworth as the servant. MONDAY, APRIL 19, 1847. At 7:15 g, m, the pioneer wagons began to move and in less than a quarter of an hour they were all formed n double file and were proceeding on their journey. They traveled about their journey. They traveled about 15 miles, principally in a westerly course. The roads were very good and the country level on the bottom lands of the Platte river. The flat appeared to be 10 or 15 miles wide. Soon after the camp was formed, Orrin P. Rockwell, Jackson Redding and Jesse C. Little came in from Winter Ounriers. Quarters. AMUSEMENTS.

Theater-It is always a pleasure to greet Blanche Walsh. She is not only in admirable artist herself, but she always brings a strong play, and her artistic ideals are so high that she always insists on the best class of supporting material and a perfect scenic investiture. Last night's rendition of "The Straight Road" added to her reputation in all these regards. The play omes from the prolific pen of Clyde Fitch, who is nothing if not original and refreshing, and who this time has taken a wide detour from his accustomed paths, and tells a story of the slums of New York, Miss Wash, herself, being given the role of Moll O'Hara, a ternoon with Orson Pratt, William Clayton suggested to him the idea of attaching a set of wooden cor wheels to the hub of a wagon wheel, in such order as to tell the exact number of miles traveled each day. Mr. Pratt agreed with Mr. Clayton that it could be easily done at a triffing expense. The pioneers traveled until 6 p. m, when they arrived at a pretty open view of the Platte river, and the en-campment was formed in a semi- efr-cle upon its backs. They had covered about 20 miles during the day, over a continuous, dry, level, sandy bottom. The river here appeared to be about a mile wide, but very shoal. There was little timber where they were en-camped, and the water was quite muddy.

San Francisco, April 19.-E. H. Har-riman, with Julius Krutschnitt and his other associates, has decided to con-struct this summer 21 steel bridges in Oregon for the Southern Pacific and its associated lines, the Oregon Rall-way & Navigation and Oregon Short Line, it is said. The new Southern Pa-cific bridges will be along line of the Mount Shasta route between Portland and the northern California state line. By this means the roadbed will be greatly improved, so as to permit of faster time between San Francisco and Portland. The aggregate cost of the new bridges will be $3,000,000.

NEW STATION FOR CHICAGO.

Roads May Combine on Fine New Building on Polk Street.

Chicago, April 19.-According to re-ports from authoritative sources, there is a new and important feature to the new passenger station project of the is a new and important feature to the new passenger station project of the Chicago & Western Indiana road at Polk street. It is nothing less than an effort to realize the plan of Frederick D. Delano, president of the Wabash railroad, for a great new union pas-senger station extending from State street west to the river. The present plan differs from that of Mr. Delano only in that he proposed to locate the station either on Twelfth or Taylor streets. The proposed new sta-tion is also to extend on the east only to the present east line of Plymouth place, but in all practical essentials it carries out Mr. Defano's general plan. The plans also contemplate the ex-tension of the Union elevated loop to Polk street and the widening of the lat-ter from 66 feet, its present width, to 166 feet, making it the broadest busi-ness thoroughfare in the city. As far as known present plans con-ness thoroughfare in the city. As far as known present plans con-template the entrance into the proposed station of the roads now entering the Rock Island and Lake Shore station at Van Buren and La Salle street, those entering the Grand Central station at Harrison street and Fifth avenue, in addition to the roads now entering the present Polk street station. It is also intimated that the Pennsylvania road may decide to enter the station. It is stated that anything approach-ing a tangible agreement or under.

ing a tangible agreement or under-standing among the interested roads mas not yet been reached, but it is also stated positively that the Rock Island and Lake Shore roads, which have heretofore been a pronounced stumbling block to the project, now have it under serious consideration, and it is thought there is a good chance of their pronouncing in its favor,
