FATAL INFATUATION.—Do not, as you value life, entertain the idea that a cough is one of those casual local affections which require but little attention. This species of infatuation is fatal to thousands. A cough is the first menace of consumption, remember that. Annihilate the danger by extinguishing the complaint. The means await you at every drug store. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will, in every instance, effect a perfect cure of the threatening ailment, without causing nausea, for it is pleasant to the palate as well as infallible. PINK'S Toothache Drops—Cure in one minute.

MR. THOMAS JEREMY, sen., of the 16th Ward, has been appointed Agent, for this city, for the sale of the celebrated Spriggs Coal, which he will supply by the single ton at $5.50, and cheaper if taken by the car load. It has been known for years that this coal is of excellent quality, and it is improving the deeper the mine is worked. All orders will receive prompt attention. Local and Other Matters.

THERMOMETER 27 degrees F. in the shade at 1 p.m. to-day. Cloudy.

Sharp.—Last night is considered the sharpest of the season so far.

"Noseology."—C. W. Stayner's nosological lecture comes off at the 13th Ward Assembly Rooms to-night.

Fireman's Ball.—Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 will have their ball to-morrow night, at Fireman's Hall, commencing at 6 o'clock.

St. George.—We learn, by special dispatch from St. George, dated today, that beautiful weather prevails there. Fifteen hundred and twenty-five tons of temple rock had been hauled during December, most of which has already been placed in the walls. The health of President Brigham Young and Geo. A. Smith is good.

Gold.—Nearly everybody has been complaining of cold last night and to-day yet the weather is comparatively mild hereabout to what it is east of us. The wires bring the intelligence from Omaha that the thermometer is two below zero at that point, and then—it almost makes one shiver to think of it—twenty-eight degrees below zero at Cheyenne. Yesterday it was ten below at Helena, Montana, so it appears to be closing in and around on us, and it may reach here soon.

The Unraveling Result.—We have had innumerable occasions to notice the invariably bad ending of all who have raised their voices, used their influence and exerted their power against the Latter-day Saints, and if the present incumbent of the White House is not drifting in a fair way to no exception to the rule, we do not read aright the signs on the political horizon, which point to an ominously dark future. It is merely a matter of time, and frequently but a short time.

A Squabble.—This morning Dr. Bredemeyer was before Justice Fyfe to answer to a charge preferred by Emma Mahon, of whom the doctor rents an office. The evidence showed that the landlady wanted the accused to leave the premises, and, not doing so, she locked him out. This made him call her some bad names, she retaliating by wagging her finger in his face, and he pushing the menacing finger aside. The whole thing being but a petty squabble, the case was dismissed, the doctor paying costs.

Questions and Suggestions.—We occasionally, we might say frequently, hear of cases of robbery which are taken in hand and worked up by parties claiming to be "private detectives," and the manner in which such cases generally, and we might truthfully say, almost invariably, terminate is suggestive of a few pungent ideas. The way such affairs are generally arranged is for the private detective to recover the property and return it or a portion thereof to the party robbed, the actual thief, eleven times out of a dozen, going "scot free," showing very plainly that the bringing of a culprit before a bar of justice is not made even a minor object in the detection, and in view of this and other reasons it cannot be safely concluded that private detectives, who do not derive any authority directly or indirectly from the community, are of any benefit in the detection and punishment of crime, the tendency being the other way—to find and return the stolen property or a portion thereof to the rightful owner for a consideration.

To discover and recover stolen property may seem very clever and smart on the surface, but that all depends upon the means of discovery and recovery, for there are ways that might render the easiest matter imaginable. Here comes in a question as to whether it is at all probable that a party discovering the property stolen can do so without, in the natural course of things, also ascertaining who the thief is. The person who reasons underneath the surface will say, not very likely. If both discoveries must, in the usual course of things, be almost simultaneous, why is not the culprit produced as well as the property? It does not appear very clear either that parties who have been robbed and who block the wheels of justice in preventing the detection and punishment of crime by making agreements with private parties for the recovery of their property, without any view to the capture of the criminal, can be rightfully considered the friends of the public, but rather particeps criminis.

It is the duty of every good citizen to lend his aid and influence in keeping down crime of every kind, and this end it appears can only be subserved by the detection of the vultures who prey upon their fellows and by their punishment for their misdeeds. Any person whose influence does not tend in that way, whether they be "private detectives" or otherwise, are no benefit to any community, and should not be encouraged.

City Council.—The regular meeting of the City Council was held last night, Mayor Wells presiding, when the following, among other matters of business was attended to:

Petitions of Geo. W. Crocherson and B. Pettit for a reduction of ground rent for their market stands, were referred to committee on markets.

Petition of B. Salisbury, asking that W. Jennings be not granted the privilege of making a railroad track on the sidewalk opposite petitioner's residence, was referred to committee on streets and alleys.

Petition of A. H. Raleigh, asking the privilege of putting a moveable gate in the canal on Eighth West Street, at the intersection of Third North Street, for irrigating purposes; referred to City watermaster.

Petition of Dr. Higgins Davis, for a free medical practitioner's license, was referred to committee on license.

Petition of J. Moore and others, referring to sundry nuisances in the central part of the city, and asking for their abatement, was referred to the City Marshal, with instructions to remove the evil complained of, at the expense of the owners of the property where it exists.

City sexton's report for 1874, previously published in the News, was filed.

The treasurer's report for the year ending Nov. 30th, 1874, was reported correct by the finance committee, and placed on file.

Chief of police Burt presented his report of the number of arrests, specifying the various kinds of crime, for the year 1874, as published in the News the other day; placed on file.

The City Marshal and chief of Fire Department presented his bill of expenses for December, 1874, $618.63; referred to claims committee.

Alderman Fyfe's report for Dec., 1874, showing that ninety-seven cases had been tried, $557.50 had been assessed and collected in fines, and $810 in labor fines, was presented and placed on file.

A bill for $383.27 was presented by the committee on improvements as having been expended in improving the Bath House and Insane Asylum; referred to claims committee. And the bill of expenses of the superintendent of the Insane Asylum for Dec., 1874, $467.25, was similarly referred.

Chief Engineer of Fire Department, John D. T. McAllister, presented his annual report for 1874, and tendered his resignation of the position; referred to committee on Fire Department.

Insanity.—Yesterday an insane man, named Young, was brought from Provo, by deputy sheriff John Turner and officer Joseph Hyde, for the purpose of placing him in the Asylum, it being considered dangerous to allow him to be at large, as some of the outbreaks of his malady are rather violent. It appears that his condition is improving, however, and he has been placed in the City Jail for a few days, to see if he will recover sufficiently to render his going to the Insane Asylum unnecessary.

Excursion From Provo.—At two o'clock this afternoon an excursion party of all ages, arrived at the depot, having come for the purpose of seeing Salt Lake City, quite a number of them, old and young, never having traveled on a railroad before. The party purpose remaining till Friday, and we trust they will return with the impression that they have spent a pleasant time in the chief city of Utah.

Our Country Contemporaries.

Ogden Junction, Jan. 5.—

We learn from the Statesman, that Councilor Blakely has introduced a bill into the Idaho Legislature, for an act creating the county of Bear Lake. It was referred to the committee on counties and county boundaries.

By letter from Morgan county, which was mislaid for a few days, we learn that last week Dan Davis went up Hardacreable canyon to cut saw logs, and about half a mile from Holman's mill he found a bee tree, with a swarm of bees in it, and honey enough to last them the winter. He did not take the honey, but cut the tree down and took home the part containing the bees and their winter's provisions. This is said to be the finest bee tree ever found in Utah.

Correspondence.

The Work in Germany and Switzerland.

RAVENSBURG, Nov. 13, 1874.

Fred. A. F. Macdonald, St. George.

Dear Brother and Friend.—After a very prosperous journey I arrived in Germany Oct 6th, and spent three weeks visiting my kindred, the utmost kindness and hospitality were shown me, and I believe have been able to remove much prejudice from the minds of all with whom I have associated. There is now liberty of speech and assembly in Germany, and men well posted in such matters have told me that there would be no objection to our preaching. This needs to be tested, however, before we can fully rely upon it.

I arrived at Bern, the headquarters of the Swiss and German missions, Oct. 21st, and am now at Ravensburg, in the kingdom of Württemberg, just twenty miles north of Switzerland, not far from Lake Constance.

We have a branch here of ten members, but my design is, with the help of God, to enlarge and spread abroad in this part of the land. I have found a few people here who take an interest in the gospel, and I calculate to stay in this neighborhood as long as I can get anybody to listen and take an interest. Infidelity is very great, and the great majority of the people are utterly indifferent to their eternal welfare. It is the same in Switzerland; but very few inquire after the truth, yet we baptize one or two occasionally. I trust in God to open the way and lead me to find the honest in heart, for we have to fish them and more especially hunt them in these last days.

Ravensburg has a population of 9,000 inhabitants, and I think it will be advisable to stay here a few weeks at any rate, get acquainted with the people, and lay a foundation for the future, if nothing else.

I calculate to try and observe President Young's counsel to me, to break new ground and to blow the gospel trumpet.

HENRY EYRING.

The Presidential Expenses.

A Washington correspondent of the Boston Globe has been giving some details as to the cost of sustaining the Presidential dignity and maintaining the Presidential household. How far the statements given are trustworthy we do not know. They may be but reports of mere idle gossip, or at best shrewd guesses at the truth, or the correspondent may have drawn largely upon his imagination for his facts. He is, however, with an air of positive knowledge as to the leading points.

At the old salary of $25,000 it is claimed the president could live with credit to his position and yet save money, if he had tact in managing his affairs. President Pierce lacks this and so retired poor. He had no appreciation of the value of money, and gave freely from his own pocket to the needy office-seekers who were unsuccessful in getting a place at the public ear.

Buchanan maintained the fame of the White House for elegant and liberal hospitality, and yet saved money during his term. Lincoln managed to save something, notwithstanding the inflated prices growing out of the war, and the extravagance of his wife, whose tastes were the exact reverse of those of her husband and children. It was said, however, that Mrs. Lincoln had other resources besides her husband's salary. Andrew Johnson, owing to his own simple tastes, and the careful management of his two daughters, saved from $20,000 to $25,000, but his savings by the failure of Jay Cooke & Co.

General Grant is described as unquestionably the most thrifty President who has occupied the Executive Mansion for years, not even excepting Buchanan, and he will undoubtedly retire the richest of all ex-presidents. The annual expenses of President Johnson, who lived at the White House all the year round, were about $9,000. President Grant lives away from there during a part of the year, and his expenses are less. His habits are as simple and frugal as those of Andrew Johnson. Mrs. Grant is a very careful, economical housewife, and manages her department very shrewdly. General Grant has many friends, but he is not a social creature, and he does not keep him supplied with good things at low cost, or no cost at all. His household is run upon sensible economical principles, although there is no lack of hospitality. There are the customary "State dinner" and "dinner out," but little dinner parties are given. The "dinner out" is not a party, but a social gathering, in which the President, considering his "dinner out," nothing to brag of. The current impression in Washington is that the annual expenses of President Grant do not exceed $5,000.

In considering the keeping up of the White House establishment, it should be borne in mind that a large proportion of the expense is borne by the government. For the present fiscal year the appropriation is $125,000, including the President's salary, and the salaries of his secretaries, clerks, messengers, policemen, ushers, watchmen, and all other help except his immediate household and body servants. The care of the building, repairs, fuel, lights, and contingent expenses are provided for by the government, instead of by the President.

Considering the large proportion of the White House expenses borne by the nation directly, the plain common sense habits of life of General Grant and his family, and the known liberality of friends towards him, it is not at all improbable that the modest estimate of his expenses of living comes within reach of the truth. In that case, four years at $25,000 a year, and four years at $50,000 a year, should enable him to retire from the White House comfortably provided for, to say the least, in the way of money, real estate, and other property given him, and the accumulations from his uniformly fortunate investments.—Cleveland Herald.

WE DON'T CARE.—Some dealers say: Yes we know that Dr. Price's Flavoring Extracts and Cream Baking Powder are the best, but we don't care if others are made of sawdust or arsenic so long as they suit our customers and afford us a better profit, we shall sell them. The public should know these things, and know too the reasons why adulterated baking powders and flavoring extracts are recommended by such dealers when Dr. Price's are asked for. It is because Dr. Price's cost more, and as they sell them at about the same price as others, it does not give so good a profit. We should look to the quality of articles that enter into our daily food, and remember that the makers of good goods cannot put them into the market at the same price as the adulterated ones. Steele & Price, manufacturers.
