Ready to Start-Utah lake stands 2.5 feet below compromise point, or about the level of one year ago. And since the lake was pumped one foot lower than during the previous year, it can be said that the available supply of water for the coming irrigating season will be considerably more than it was last year. In anticipation of the coming season, the canals are all be-ing cleaned out and repaired, and the pumps are all ready to throw on the belts and start up when the or-dar is styen. der is given.

Visited the Conduit.—A visit of in-spection to the Big Cottonwood con-duit was made yesterday by Council-man M. E. Mulvey, chairman of the waterworks committee. Mr. Mulvey was well pleased with the completed portion of the conduit. While out there he investigated the matter of allowing the farmers to tap the conallowing the farmers to tap the conduit in order to use the flood water in the spring. Mr. Mulvey states that he is in favor of permitting the conduit to be tapped by the farmers as the city can not use the flood waters.

ents." This responsibility, the speaker con tinued could not be delegated to the Sunday school teacher, it belonged to the parents. The parents' class was intended to aid parents in the discharge of this duty. "Until the Dawn" was beautifully rendered by Messrs. John, Dorlus, Me-Carthy and Lenzi of the L. D. S. U.

Eder Davoid O. McKay continued the subject of "Parents' Classes." He be-gan by quoting the terse motto on the secret of teaching, namely, "Get the love of the children, and then be in their presence what you want them to be." This was particularly applicable to the meant the in a check be the be." This was particularly applicable to the parent, who is or should be the ideal of the child. The ideal home life, he contended, would produce ideal chil-dren, who would grow up to become ideal citizens exemplary Latter-day Saints. The purpose of the parents' class was to aid parents in bringing about this mean davideration about this great desideratum.

Elder George D. Pyper read the re-port of the committee of the general board on "Parents' classes," unani-mously recommending the general in-troduction of these classes in the Sunday schools of the Church. General Supt. Joseph F. Smith pre-sented the report to the conference, and its recommendation was unanimously adopted.

"With one united voice," was artis-tically rendered by the L. D. S. U. choir, led by Noal S. Pratt. President Smith remarked that the Latter-day Saints had reason to be proud of their children. He particu-larly commended the excellent singing given by the young people on this oc-casion, who had been so ably taught by Prof. Fran Stanhans

Prof. Evan Stephens. Dr. James E. Talmage made a strong address on "Sabbath Theatricals," and opened by quoting in full the command-ment respecting the Sabbath day. He felt that the greatest danger of mol-ern society was the growing practise of Sabbath desceration. He glso holds that the neglect of Sabbath duties would lead to the descration of that day, which should be holy, a day of rest from all labor, for communion with the Father. If the people will let the places of amusements alone on the Sabbath, the speaker said, there will be little need of hostile legislation against them, as their existence depends entirely upon the patronage of the people. President Smith made a few closing remarks felicitating the Sunday school workers on the interest taken in that

"Far, far away on Judea's plains," was sung by the L. D. S. U. chotr and congregation, and the benediction was pronounced by Elder John M. Mills.
