

Carl J. Cannon, and was employed as clerk in the Blythe & Fargo company's store. He was to have been married shortly but his own folks were opposed or said to be opposed to the match and desired him to break off the engagement. This he did not wish to do and pondered over the matter until he concluded to end his life.

Park City Record: While paring turnips yesterday morning, Mrs. Nicholas Rowe stumbled on to a freak of nature that knocks silly the much-mooted letter "B" on oak blades. In cutting one of the turnips in halves she found the letter "W" marked on each half as plainly as if it had been printed there. Realizing that she had stumbled on to a curiosity the lady sent both pieces to this office where they are now on exhibition. Numerous persons have examined the vegetable and the letters, and the general remark is that it means waging war or woeeful want—just which it is hard to determine, though a majority are inclined to the latter. Just the same, the mark is plain and is worth seeing.

M. R. Jones, employed on the gravity outlet sewer, met with a very serious accident while engaged in his work Monday. It appears that he was at the bottom of the big trench giving directions to the men, when a large wooden mallet, weighing about fifteen pounds, fell a distance of eighteen feet from the hands of a workman, striking Mr. Jones on the top of the head and rendering him temporarily unconscious. He was taken to his home at the corner of Currant and Almond street and waited upon by Drs. Richards and Wilcox. The surgeons found that a portion of the skull had been crushed and forced down upon the brain. The section was elevated and the pressure on the brain thus relieved. What the result of the accident will be cannot be told until there are further developments in the case.

The unexpected and violent explosion of a gasoline stove in the basement of a barber shop at No. 42 west Second South street called out the fire department at 8:20 September 18. The flames were extinguished without great difficulty and the loss is trifling.

The run of the brigade was attended by a rather serious accident to Mounted Policeman Shannon. Mr. Shannon was riding across the intersection of State and Second South streets when the department horse in sight. It was going down the street at an exceedingly lively rate and he put spurs to his horse in order to get out of the way. Unfortunately his animal fell with him directly in front of the rapidly approaching brigade. Shannon was considerably bruised and somewhat dazed, but he made a successful effort in getting out of the way. His horse, however, was struck and severely injured.

Joe Wallace, the man who was taken to the city jail insensible and died soon after, turns out to be a Comstock, not Wallace; his father is John M. Comstock, chief clerk of the treasury department at Washington, to whom Coroner Allen telegraphed the sad intelligence of his son's death. He received an answer requesting him to see that the remains were given a decent burial. No word has been received from his wife in answer to the message sent her; she with her child is visiting in Canada. J. H. "Wallace" left his home when 15 years old and has been leading a sporting life since. He was a baritone singer of good quality and was at one time a member of an opera company. It was upon charitable occasions that he appeared upon the public as a singer in Ogden. The funeral takes place today at 11 a. m. Brief services will be held and a male quartette will discourse sacred music.

Thursday, October 4, is the date set for the reunion of the Indian Territory missionaries and those who have emigrated from that section to Utah. The place selected is the Fifteenth ward assembly hall in this city. Committees have been selected to make all necessary arrangements, and an entertaining program has been prepared for the occasion. An invitation is extended to all who have labored as missionaries in the Indian Territory, and to Saints who have gathered here from that place.

In this connection, Elder Andrew S. Kimball, president of the mission, requests us to state that he has been unable to learn the present whereabouts of Elders Wm. Richey, Washington N. Cook, James Case, Wm. Bricker and James McGaw, who were in the Indian Territory as missionaries between the years 1855 and 1860, or of any of their families. He desires to obtain this information, and if possible for a representative of each of these families to be present at the mission reunion on the 4th of October next.

Tooele Transcript: The residents of Tooele were surprised and pained to find on Tuesday morning last that Mrs. Mary Kelsey, an old lady who has resided here for years, was dead. At 7 a. m. Mr. Ormes, who lives across the street, was in the yard and heard some one groaning in the direction of Mrs. Kelsey's. He at once called his mother, Mrs. Sarah Ormes, and the two went over and found the lady in a sitting posture on the back doorstep of her house. She was just able to tell them that she must have fainted as she had a smothering sensation about her chest. Mr. Ormes carried the lady into her bedroom, and went immediately for her daughter, Mrs. Bevan. Mrs. Ormes did all she could to relieve the sufferer, but saw her failing and breathing short, so called in assistance, which was of no avail, however, as Mrs. Kelsey expired in a few minutes, only saying "bless you." Some twenty-two years ago the deceased met with an accident, running a piece of wood in a large vein in the leg, and she has ever since had a discharging sore in that place, though it has not bothered her particularly until Saturday last, when she complained of a peculiar suffocating sensation. It is thought that the sore mentioned was the immediate cause of death, as it might at any time have caused a rupture of the heart.

On Saturday last a smooth-mannered stranger about 55 years of age, of stocky build and German accent registered at the Templeton. To the attaches of the hotel he stated that he was a doctor and that he had come to Salt Lake from some place of uncertain location to remove a tumor from the body of a wealthy lady whose name he failed to give.

He was evidently a man of the world and his distinguished appearance made it an easy matter for him to get just about all he wanted. As a result the hotel is out of money. The Knutsford people are in mourning for a similar reason, while the Deseret Bank is reported to have cashed a worthless check for him on the endorsement of Dubie, the Second South street tailor. As to the amount and particulars the bank officials when approached were inclined to keep particulars to themselves.

This same "doctor," whoever he may be, is said to have had other victims both here and at Ogden. On Saturday night or Sunday he made good his escape from the city. An account of his operations while here was filed with the police and he was overtaken at Green River and arrested. He will be brought back to Salt Lake tonight to answer for his wrong doing. He is known as Harry Leon alias Spiegel.

Territorial Fish Commissioner Musser, of this city, has just received the following letter:

U. S. COMMISSION OF FISH AND FISHERIES.

Marshall McDonald, Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8, 1894.

A. M. Musser, Esq., Salt Lake City, Utah:
Dear Sir:—By direction of the commissioner, fifty crappies and one hundred black bass have been assigned to you, and it is now being arranged to have them delivered at Ogden, Utah, by messenger or by one of the U. S. fish commission cars within sixty days. Please indicate by return mail your readiness to receive the consignment. Our agent will advise you in advance of the hour of his expected arrival, and arrangements should be effected by you with the telegraph operator for the prompt delivery of the message.

Vessels free from injurious matter, partly filled with cool fresh water, and of a carrying capacity of eighty gallons, must be in readiness and conveniently placed for an immediate transfer of the fish the moment the train stops. The co-operation of the depot agent should be secured that he may receive and care for the fish in your absence. The fish commission car will usually be found at rear end of train, the messenger in the regular baggage car. It will be necessary for you to meet the car at Ogden, on its way to California.

Very respectfully,
W. DE C. RAVENEL,
Acting Assistant in Charge Division of Fish Culture.

Commissioner Musser will also shortly receive a number of ornamental fish, and these will be placed in due course in the fountains in the grounds of the new joint city and county building.

At the Tabernacle, Ogden, Sunday, the exercises were somewhat out of the usual order, Elder L. W. Shurtliff, president of the Weber stake, having granted the privilege of a Jewish confirmation. Elder Joseph Parry occupied the pulpit and spoke upon the subject of the Gathering of Israel in the latter days. At the close of his remarks Elder N. C. Flygare, of the Stake presidency, introduced Master Sam Kohn, it being the latter's 13th birthday, by which time his faith re-
