had a dream when on the train,

Oh, would that I could dream again!
And feel the bliss which first I knew,
To find that gozgone vision true!
I though that I arrived at last,
With all discomforts, sorrows past;
Not to our affic heath the dome,
But to a new, related home!

Rich carpets covered halls and stairs :

Hich carpets covered halls and shairs; Great, splendid beds were there, and clairs. Lace currains, portleres, dainty modes; Revolving stands contained my books. I left the parlor, then I have The housewife's domain without flaw,— The dining-room and buffet stored With dishes fit for a Prince's board.

But to a new, pulatial home !
