GARFIELD'S GREETING.

Meeting of His Old Regiment. CLEVELAND, 25 .- Gen. Garfield's regiment held a reunion to-day at Ashland, and, after speeches by

Gen. Garfield and others, a resolution was adopted proudly commend-ing the first colonel of the 42d Ohio as a man and soldier who deserves the vote of all men.

Gen. Garfield said: This is a family gathering, a military family, for in war a regiment is to the army what the family is to the whole community. (Here a portion of the platform fell.) A military retinion without some excitement and some accident would be altogether too monotonous and tame to be interesting, and in this good-natured audience we can have a good many accidents like that, keep quiet and be happy. I said that this is a family reunion, an as-sembly of the old 42d military family and it is well for us to meet here. Nineteen years ago I met a crowd of earnest citizens in that court room above the stairs. Your bell was dates for Congress this fall. rung in the town, your people came out, the teacher of your school was among them, the boys of the school were there and after we had talked together a little while about our urer. country and the imperiled flag, the teacher of the school offered himself to his country and 20 of his boys with him. They never went back into the school-house again, but in the dark days of November, 1861, they and enough of Ashland County boys to make 100 went down with me to Columbus to join another 100 Ashland County, and these 200 of your children stood in the centre of your military family and bore these old banners that you see tat-tered before you to-day. One of them was given to our families by the ladies of Ashland and Company C, from Ashland, carried it well. It New Orleans ... 56.1 was riddled by bullets and torn by ou see, but with never a stain on its folds, and never a touch of dis-honor upon it anywhere and the other of these banners was given to the Western Reserve, and it also shared like its fellows the fate and came home covered with the glory of the conflict. We were a family. I say again, and we did not let partizanship disturb them and we do not let partisanship enter our circle here to-day. We did not wrangle, we agreed to be brethren for the Union under the flag against all its enemies everywhere and brothers to all men who stood with us under the flag to fight for the Union, whatever their color of skin, whatever their previous politics, whatever their religion. In that spirit we went out, rious disagreement between its offi-cers. The worst thing I have heard to get killed or seriously crippled, gether our fault, and we trust that some day or other you will have for-that so unites as does the common suffering and danger and struggle that war brings upon a regiment. You can't know a man so thoroughthe grim presence of death, and were Union men, men that in all the hard, close chances of life had the stuff in them that enabled them to touch of revenge in their hearts. of the United States as you see up that it includes "U.S. A.," all the people of the Republic, and will include it forever more. That is what
