

MILLIONAIRE DALY OF MONTANA DEAD

Died of Bright's Disease and Heart Weakness—End Came Peacefully—His Quarrel With Clark.

New York, Nov. 12.—Marcus Daly, of Montana, died today at the Hotel Neth-

Mr. Daly's death had been expected for weeks. He came home from Europe about the middle of September, and soon after was obliged to take to the bed from which he never again arose. His physicians informed the relatives some time ago that Mr. Daly could not recover, and they would give assurance of life only from day to day. Bright's disease, complicated with heart weakness, was the cause of death.

At Mr. Daly's debauch were Mrs. Daly, Marcus Daly, Jr., his son, his wife, Mrs. Mary Daly, and a friend, the Rev. A. J. Lavelle, his attorney, Wm. Scallion, of Montana, and two boys. Mr. Daly was conscious only at intervals yesterday. At 4 o'clock this morning he died, his last words being "I am tired and seem more than ordinarily bright. He asked that his family be buried in the same grave as his father and Anacoda were in the fight. Daly was a member of the grand jury at first favored Butte, but finally changed to Helena and that city was elected. The result of the election was the bone of contention between the two millionaires last January and Clark was elected. The result of the election contained a ground of bribery when Clark presented his credentials as a member of the United States senate. The use of money in the election of a senator from Montana was a first.

"Only a little while more, a little bit more," he said, when asked if he was better. The family came hastily and remained until the end. Death came peacefully. The physicians said Mr. Daly was conscious until a few minutes before he expired as usual.

The body will be moved to the Daily home in Fifth Avenue today, and the funeral will be held from St. Patrick's cathedral, but at what time has not been decided. The body probably will be placed in a receiving vault until the family decide upon the place of final interment.

early in life and since 1876 had been a citizen of Montana. He became general manager of the Alice Silver mine, one of the best in the country, near the copper mine. At the time of his death he was president of the Amalgamated Copper company. In politics he was a Democrat. His wife lived between Mr. Daly and W. A. Clark have attracted much attention. The trouble started years ago over some water rights near Butte.

He came from the United States named Hickey in the '70's two miners times. Hickey from St. Lawrence county, this State, went to Montana to select land and to locate a mine. The mining camp of Butte and began to sink their shaft. They struck a fair vein of silver, but lack of funds made it impossible to develop. So they sold the claim. Daly bought the property at $30,000. He acted, it is said, as agent for J. B. Haggin, of California, who had sent him to Butte to buy him some good mining

And while Clark he bought, forcing the other to pay a very high price. He had the opportunity for revenge when in 1858, when he was named as the Democratic nominee for delegate to Congress. With his immense influence at Anaconda and in Montana, he was able to get the Carter, Clark Republican rival, which had previously been cast for the Democratic party.

Clark was elected a State in 1882. At the first State election Mr. Clark was the Democratic nominee for representative in Congress. He was elected by a landslide. He was elected as a Loyal for governor. The latter was elected. Clark was defeated, supposedly owing to Daly influences. Clark was then put forward as a candidate for the legislature in a bitter contest the legislature was

As the new owners in their shaft down they opened one of the world's greatest copper mines with silver and gold. He had all the necessary equipment, the copper as clear profit. Daly was superintendent and part owner of the mine. He had the right to the properties. He founded the town of Anaconda in a valley twenty-five miles distant, and located where there is a great deal of wood—two indispensable for the smelting and reduction of ores. It was at that place he erected the greatest concentration of machinery he had ever known, a passion for horses of blood and speed. He owned the $40,000 cast Hamburg, Maryland, guns, and sent a ready-made Ordnance Ordnance, ready to
