

STAR PITCHERS OF THE PAST SEASON,

Were So Many of Them it is Hard to Pick the Best Twirler.

RUBE WADDELL WAS DAZZLING

But Not Nearly So Effective as Some Others-Mathewson and McGinnity Topnotchers.

"Now that the smoke of baseball has cleared away, and the players have retreated to their winter quarters, the fans are beginning to make comparisons and talk learnedly of the season's work, and of the records made by the various tossers. Loud and long, in every resort where ball cranks gather, rises the steam of disputation, and the arguments as to this, that, and the other fellow's batting, fielding or pitching will keep the talkers warm till spring," writes W. A. Phelon,

Jr., in the Chicage Journal.
"The great pitchers get as much attention as anything else in the baseball line. and the discussion of slabmen's merits is always a hot one. The season just ended was a pitcher's year, and consequently there is great food for verbal battle Every fan in the land has some pitcher in mind who is the best of them all, and can adduce the finest kind of arguments in support of his position. Many can see only Cy Young. Others pin faith solely to Joe Others idolize Christy Mathewson, and others cling to Deacon Phillippi. You cannot convince any of them that his man could possibly be outclassed, try as you will.

ramippi. You cannot convince any of them that his man could possibly be outclassed, try as you will.

"As a plain, hard fact, there were several great pitchers this season, men who stack up so evenly that nobedy could differentiate between them. Circumstances, surroundings, style of play of the teams, all those things must be counted in, and when all these points are considered the fair-minded man should admit that, great though his own favorite might be, there are others who, on the same teams, would have averaged Just about the same in games won and runs allowed.

"In considering National loague pitchers the Pittsburg won by team work and by batting, not by the work of box men. This is proved by the fact that the Pirates had a low of pitchers, and used them all, not reising on any one, two, or three of the number. No Pittsburg pitcher was worked as often as Mathewson, McGlinnity, or Taylor. The great Pittsburg team could saunter up with Veil, Wilhelm, or Kennedy on the firing line and get away with games just as if Leever or Phillippi were doing the day's stunt. Leever and Phillippi are grand slabmen and rank with the best-probably are good as the best-but it is not fair to call them the very fibrest, for the team that backed them was the real thing.
"New York depended mainly on Mathewson and McGinnity, and this pair must be considered among the topnotchers in effectiveness, endurance, percentage of victories—everything that makes up the winning twirler. Chicago developed about the best left-hander in either loague—Jake Weimer. Weimer was there with everything all season long, and seems to have a shade, small but perceptible, on the other great left-handers of the year—Hahn, Plank, White and Waddell, Wicker of Chicago was a great game winner, but the luck was always with him.
"In all-around service and genuine skill the five best pitchers in the National league seem to be Leever, Mathewson, McGinnity, Phillippi and Weimer. If any team could bave fared so well in any other citch. Boston pinned more faith on it eken up their team work and general

"Bernard of Cleveland did grand work, but was out of it half the season, Plank and White, both left-handers, pitched with great ability. The work of Sudhoff was one of the most remarkable features of the American league campaign, Moore did superb work, but was out of it part of the summer. It seems impossible to select the best five among the American league pitchers, owing mainly to the fact that several of the best, after making great records, were retired for various causes, so that there was no chance for them to have had slumps of their percentages. Possibly Hughes, Young, Sudhoff, Waddell and White would be as good a quintet as anybody could select, and such a bunch of five would be tough game for any team to go against"

SALARY LIMIT FIXED.

National Baseball Association Places it At $2,400 for 1904.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—The long expected cut in players' salaries is to be a reality next season, according to the plans mapped out at the recent conference of the National Association of Minor leagues. The class A leagues have adopted a limit of $2,400 per month, but it is not quite clear to some of the owners whether this amount applies to a bench manager or a playing manager. For instance, if a club has a playing manager, the saving to the team would be considerable, and would enable the club to pay fully $150 to $200 a month to each player on the senson more than the club with a bench manager.

Of course, that is a point that the different leagues will probably settle among themselves, but just the same the matter is not covered in the rule passed at $1. Louis. A club that could afford to pay $150 more on the season to a player than another club would have an advantage, and this matter will have to be attended it will be quite come-down for many

It will be quite come-down for many of the players who have been getting from $300 to $400 and even $450 a month to accept $200 and $250. The chances are that some of the players will prefer to cast their lot with the California league rather than submit to the reduction. It will be a great help to the California league, as players will profer to go there if they get the chance, especially when they can get more money than here and for eight months instead of five.

The California people can afford to ile back and pay the same salaries as the leagues in this part of the country, and still have away the best of the bargain, owing to the fact that they can offer eight months' work, against five in this section. It will also prove a harder matwill be quite come-down for many ter now to get the California league into the fold of the minors' association, as the members of that body must realize that they have better cause than ever for re-maining independent, About the only way to get them in now would be to place them in class A and grant the conces-sions asked by Henry Harris last sum-mer.

MONEY IN BASEBALL.

Nearly All of the Big Teams Made Large Profits.

Detroit, Nov. 4—An estimate of the profits and losses of the major league clubs made by a Chicago baseball writer caused Secretary Henry of the Detroit club to laugh. The estimate follows: American league: Profits—Boston, 890,000; Philadelphia, $50,000; Cleveland, $25,000; Chicago, $20,000; Detroit, $10,000; St. Louis, $1,000. Losses—Washington, $10,000; New York, $25,000. National league: Profits—New York, $60,000; Fittsburg, $50,000; Chicago, $30,000; Chicanat, $10,000; even, Brooklyn and St. Louis; losers (not estimated), Boston and Philadelphia. That is too funny to take seriously," said Secretary Henry. "The Detroit team made some improvements to the grounds and broke even on the season aside from that. Cleveland, Boston and Philadelphia made good money. As to the others, we puid New York and Chicago twice as much as they paid us; St. Louis was a loser, too, instead of winning big money like that. I don't believe any of the National teams made money to speak of except New York and Pittsburg. In Washington we got one-third as much money as Washington took in here, and that was not much, "Detroit took in as much money at

BIG JACK JOHNSON. Conqueror of Sam McVey is Now in City Of San Francisco.

Of San Francisco.

A dispatch from San Francisco says: Guess who's in town! Why, little Arthur Johnson. He came up from Los Angeles, where he administered to one Samuel McVey an awful scolding with his hooks. Little Jack bore no marks of his battle and looked as though he had just come out of a bandbox. He was there with the new brown skypiece and a brown suit with squares as big as those you see on a cement sidewalk. "He never touched me," said Mr. Johnson in speaking of McVey's efforts. "I told you before I left that he'd be easy. I'm right, ain't I? I don't know what I'll do now. Of course. I'm anxious to be introduced to Mr. Jeffries, but things don't look very rosy. In the meantime, I'll meet the winner of that Fitzsimmons-Gardner fight. I'll do 175 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon for them. They sin't giving any too much weight away at that, Jeffries to affinish? I heard Billy Delaney say something about that. Yes, I'm willing to fight the big fellow in a finish fight. I think if I can stay 20 rounds with him I can stay 40. That's not hard, I'll do it, suah, Well. I'm going up to see that Pruitt man now. I intended going home to Galveston, but I've changed my mind, Well—" and then Mr. Johnson floated out the door and sunshine entered the room once more.

By defeating the field, Joyce took down Great, Schutt and Valentine, each of whom occupies a prominent place for championships won ever long distances. Schutt is a Cornell student, who spreadeagled the field of two-milers in the intercollegiate contest last spring, while Grant but recently took the measure of the two-mile amateur record, which stood for many years. The course covered about two miles and was run over three times, Joyce's time was 32:23 4-5.

Prizefighter Dies.

New York, Nov. 4.—Thomas Cleary, said to have been at one time middleweight champion of the west, has been found dead from the effects of gas in a hotel here. A tube connected with a small heater had become loosened and his death evidently was accidental.

Cleary, who was 35 years old, had retired from the ring to become proprietor of a hotel at Newburgh, N. Y. He was here on a visit when he met his death,

Is this a possibility for Jeffries?

Tim McGrath has a new candidate for world's puglisatic championship honors, He is a native of Indian Territory, 25 years of age, a butcher by trade, and of Scotch-frish descent.

This gladiator stands 6 feet 2½ inches in his stockings—he is also as high without them. He has a 46-inch chest and is a mass of hone and muscle. He says he has in his native territory put down all the best men who appeared.

It is not for what he has done, but what he is capable of doing that McGrath is preparing this Hercules. He is giving the big fellow lessons in sparring and speaks glowingly of his progress.

"If Irving McDonald does not make a champion I will miss my guess," says the famous conditioner. "He is the finest made man I ever looked over, Jeffries not even excepted, and is bred so that he is certain to be dead game, and a stayer. He is quick as a cat in his movements, and can without a lesson put such men as Munroe, Ruhlin and other second-raters of their class down and out.

"For atrength McDonald is a wonder.
His great powers arise from the fact that he has never been till and has always taken the best of care of himself. He has never dissipated and has arrived at the age when he is physically in his best shape. I shall work him a while and will probably introduce him to the public in a go at one of the prominent amateur shows."

SAMUEL J. PARKS, NEW YORK'S LABOR LEADER, AGAIN ON TRIAL.

This illustration, made from a sketch, shows Samuel J. Parks, the business agent of the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's union of New York, as he appears in the court room during his second trial for extorting money from employers as the price of calling off a strike. Parks has already been convicted on a similar charge. He was then promptly taken to Sing Sing prison, but was released soon after on a certificate of reasonable doubt. The case is now before the court of appeals of New York state. After his release Parks went to the national convention of his organization at Kansas City, where he was engaged in a bitter fight with President Buchanan, who had suspended Parks' union. Parks won on some points, but Buchanan was reelected. It is asserted by Parks' physicians that he is dying of tuberculosis and that it is unfair to his interests to compel him to stand trial at this time.
