

"SILVER DICK" ON THE MODERN CITY

Holds Attention of Big Audience
At Y. M. C. A. for Over
Two Hours.

THE CURSE OF THE SALOON

Blames It and Its Attendant Evils for
The Bottleneck Existing in the Large Commonwealths.

A large and interested audience greeted Adam Dixon Warner, known on the Pacific coast as "Silver Dick," at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Mr. Warner lectured on "The Modern City," and from 4:30 until nearly 7 o'clock he held the attention of his hearers by his eloquence and convincing arguments. Mr. Warner said in part:

"It takes strong, resolute determined men to make and keep a modern city clean. A city will be good and clean and great, just as its men and women, its society, its good and clean and great. By society I mean each and every individual unit. It is you and it is I."

"Henry Ward Beecher said that the three great elements which enter into the career of a great citizen are, that which his ancestry gives, that which opportunity gives and that which his will develops. So if human character is the camera of human development, then civic virtue will be just what the genius and the will of the people develop."

"The proper solution of the many complex problems of modern city life is the solution of the greatest questions of the century. They are as many and as varied as the vices and virtues of mankind."

A DUMPING GROUND.

"To govern a modern city is a very different thing from governing the cities of the old. They were mere centers, or provinces, with a frugal population scattered over great areas, with diversified occupations and fixed places of abode, while our great cities are the dumping ground of the slums, the Hindu, Italian and Yiddish pauper labor brought into this country by the steamship lines owned and dominated by the interests, in contrast to the splendid type of Scandinavian, Irish or German, who, a few years ago, came to acquire homes on the soil. For the first time in the history of the country, the next census will show a majority of the population in the cities. In them are all of the newspapers, the colleges, the schools of art and science, the great teachers and preachers, the theaters of action and inaction; the places of amusement and instruction and the places of degradation and destruction. And there are all dominated by the great forces of the city, through special privileges and returns through college, university and civic control. Disgrace it as we may, such is the character of our cities of today."

NONE FREE FROM GRAFT.

"I make the bold statement that there is not a city in the United States that is free from graft in its civic government. The concentration of capitalization of the public service corporations is graft."

"The speaker paid considerable attention to the question of public ownership of utilities. He stated that to denounce the proposed championship fight between Jennings and Johnson and declared it would be better for Salt Lake to raise a public utility commission to take care of the city's utility work than a private fight."

"The court records of our cities disclose not only the necessity of absolute control of public utilities, but also the necessity of some control over the ordinary business transactions of men, to insure honesty and square dealing. Some men say 'that you cannot make a man honest by law.' That may be literally true, but you can prevent him from being too dishonest. You can scare dishonesty into honesty by law."

"I say to you that you might as well try to dam up Niagara without stopping the supply of water as to stop graft without changing the conditions. If the city is rotten, then the majority of its citizens are rotten, or your government is a living lie."

MOVE THE SALOON.

"Until you remove the saloon from your best business corners and best business streets, where your sons and daughters are forced to run the gauntlet of moral depravity, and displace them with more influences, until you stop putting 50 or 100 gin mills on your best business thoroughfares, until you stop masquerading as a Christian gentleman on Sunday and voting for that increased rent from the bawdy house on Monday; until you remove the death houses from the streets and put a few more places and healthy places of pleasant recreation and amusement for the young men and young women in their stead, until you change that poker room, or bridge room, into a quiet devotional room, where you can take that boy or girl and sit down by his or her side like a brother; until you quit ringing up that telephone and asking Jack, or Tom, or Billy to bring up a flask in the afternoon, before the old man comes home, you will have rotten cities and rotten government and rotten homes."

TO THE YOUNG MAN.

"Some of you young men are now, and within a very few years all of you will be, shaping the destiny of not only civic, but national government, and the destiny of this republic is in your keeping. It is a truth of history that civic virtue and national citizenship is no better nor higher than the individual citizenship of the community, or as each unit of society is high or low.

"I see by your press that a number of your business men are reputed to have raised $100,000 to get a big double-decked tugger and a bulky, bruiser boiler-maker to give an exhibition of what they call science to advertise your city. It is such things that have degraded the citizenship of our cities until today the frontlessness of American cities is as bad as that of the ancient cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. Babylon, Nineveh and Tyre, Rome and the modern Paris. I think I could show you things in inquiry in the cities of San Francisco, New York and Chicago that they never even dreamed of in olden times."

"I want to make this suggestion to you young men—what an advertisement it would be to the world if tomorrow morning the Associated Press would announce that 250 young men of the city of Salt Lake, a garden spot of the world, lost to the speakers of the Commercial club of Salt Lake and say, 'Gentlemen, some men who call themselves business men have raised $100,000 for a prize fight. We want you to raise $100,000 for an aviation week, and we want one similar to that contemplated in New York and Chicago. Or we suggest that you give $100,000 to erect an observatory on Ensign peak, that could be an adjunct of the university, and would rival even the little town of Flagstaff, Ariz.' That would be a true advertisement for your city."

CARD OF THANKS.

The family of the late Samuel W. Richards desire to express to those who have assisted in any way in the late illness of the deceased and who have ministered to the comfort of those left to mourn, their sincere thanks for the splendid type of Scandinavian, Irish or German, who, a few years ago, came to acquire homes on the soil. In them are all of the newspapers, the colleges, the schools of art and science, the great teachers and preachers, the theaters of action and inaction; the places of amusement and instruction and the places of degradation and destruction. #### TRYING TO PAY MORAN.

Mayor Bradford Takes a Hand and Meets Special Committee.

Mayor John S. Bradford has taken a hand in the settlement of Paul Moran's bill of $20,435.67 for patching up the outlet sewer pipe line and will meet with the special committee at 2 o'clock this afternoon in an effort to reach some conclusion and present a report to the city council for approval tonight. As a compromise, it is stated that the bill will probably be cut down to about $10,000 and a report made adding the city council to approve this amount. In the records kept by the inspectors on the work, and Moran's bill there is a discrepancy of about $10,000, it is stated. As an easy way to settle it, some of the committee men have taken up the matter of affecting a compromise.

The committee meets in Mayor Bradford's office. It is composed of Councilmen Black, Fernstrom, Martin, Raybould, Hall and Murdoch. If this compromise goes through, the report of the committee will be submitted to the council tonight.

AMUSEMENTS

Theater—The never ending success, "In Old Kentucky" will be seen at the Salt Lake theater for four nights beginning tonight, with a matinee Wednesday.

Sembrich Concert—The mail order sale for Miss Sembrich began at the Salt Lake theater this morning. Mr. Louis Cohn had the first choice of seats and selected five of the best in the house. The vocal students of the city are much elated over the coming of Sembrich and she represents the highest art of vocalism.

Shubert—The widely advertised concert by Miss Flora Wilson and her assisting artists, occurs this evening at 8:15.

Orpheum—A complete new bill with several distinct headliners, will be the offering for the week commencing tonight.

Colonial—The play "In Wyoming," written by Willard Mack, and retitled by an eastern company, forms the attraction this evening.

Grand—"The Square Man," in which Miss Blanche Douglas will have a leading part, will be seen all the week, Willard Mack having the title role.

Bungalow—The bill of novelties headed by "The Great Escape," has three more days to run. Wednesday afternoon, Counselor, Jr. gives a reception on the stage, and Wednesday evening will be amateur night.

HENRY H. BLAKE GIVEN NEW TRIAL

Supreme Court Reverses Decision
In Case by Lower Tribunal.

CRIMINAL CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Chief Justice D. N. Straup Writes
Opinion Involving Real Estate
Valued at $1,500.

In a decision handed down this morning by Chief Justice D. N. Straup of the supreme court, Henry H. Blake, convicted of criminal conspiracy to defraud E. A. Horn of real estate valued at $1,500 by selling him worthless mining stock, was granted a new trial. It was held that a peculiarity in the type of the letter "H" on a Remington typewriter and the "Colorado Bond" on which the letter was written was not sufficient evidence to prove the authorship of two letters which were produced as evidence.

Judge Booth of the Fourth district court, who tried the case, erred in allowing this evidence to be submitted to the jury, the opinion says, and because it was incompetent and inadmissible the judgment of the court was reversed. Witnesses testified that the same peculiarity might exist in the type of other machines and that the "Colorado Bond" paper could be secured in any market. This evidence, the supreme court holds, was not given sufficient value, despite the fact that it was shown that the typewriter which bore this peculiarity was sold to William A. Brittain, who was named as one of the conspirators. "The circumstances shown, though of a suspicious character, yet were not sufficient to raise such a logical inference that these letters were written by Brittain or Blake in the face of the unimpeached testimony that W. L. Johnson of San Francisco wrote the letters. Without these letters, there is no evidence to prove the essential allegations," the opinion reads, "with respect to the falsity of the representations made by Blake of the character and value of the mining stock."

STORY OF CASE.

The evidence shows that E. A. Horn, at Independence, Utah, received a letter purported to have been written by W. L. Johnson of San Francisco, Nov. 20, 1908, to the effect that Blake who lived at Fort Duchene, Utah, had something like 6,000 shares of Gallier Mining stock, and that the property was good. Horn said that he had tried to get Blake's price but that he would not sell it. Johnson advised Horn to see Blake and buy the stock and hold it for him. Johnson advised Horn to pay more than 50 cents a share for it because he had purchased some for 47 cents. In another letter, Horn went to see Blake and the stock was sold to him at a price of $1.50 a share. Horn paid a price of $1.50 a share and received a piece of real estate for the stock. Then Horn wrote to the secretary of the company and found that the stock was worthless, that the company was heavily indebted, and that there was no profit in the ore on account of the mine being 25 miles away from a railroad.

Horn attempted to recover his real estate but it had been transferred four or five times and he was unable to get hold of it again. His investigation into the deal led to the filing of the criminal charges against Johnson and Brittain. Horn suspected Brittain of writing the letters to him and signing the name of Johnson to them, which resulted in his purchasing the worthless mining stock of Blake.

JUDGMENT BY CONSENT.

Gus Bartell, a miner who was injured in the workings of the Centennial-Eureka Mining company's plant at Eureka and who sued for $25,000 damages, is better off by $1,000 than he was before the accident. The case came up before Judge Page Morris in the federal court and a judgment by consent for the amount named was given.

TRIED TO PASS CHECKS.

Fred H. Luddy, 22 years old, was arrested last Saturday night on a charge of having attempted to pass two fraudulent checks, one of which was drawn on E. M. Johnson, while C. R. Ellard's name was forged on the other.

MAY PURCHASE SILVER SET.

Governor Spry Thinks School Children Should Assist in Naming Battleship.

In regard to the presentation of a silver set to the first class battleship Utah, now under construction, Gov. Spry believes that the children of the public schools ought to purchase it. The idea will probably be carried out just before the new battleship is put into commission. There are 100,000 children in the state and at 10 cents each a beautiful silver set could be obtained. In many states the silver set has been presented to the battleships named after them by a dozen wealthy men and this suggestion of allowing the school children to present the set has met with favor.

WOMAN HURT IN FALLING.

While getting off a moving Second West street car at Main and Postoffice places, Mrs. Daniel McLeese, of 173 west Second North street, was thrown violently to the pavement, sustaining a severe scalp wound, numerous bruises about the head and shoulders, and painful internal injuries. At 2 o'clock Sunday night, she was on the way to I. O. O. F. hall to get her children, who were attending religious services there. The injured woman was carried into the drug store, where Dr. J. C. Landenberg dressed her wounds, and she was thence removed to her home. It is believed that she will recover.

FIRE CAUSES SMALL PANIC.

Fire caused a panic among the roomers at 33 Commercial street, when flames broke out from an unknown cause on the upper floor of Edna Prescott's resort this morning at 5:15 o'clock. The large male and female poured out of the four stories into the street, in all stages of dishevelment. The scene attracted a large crowd. Little damage was done, the loss in contents being about $100, and the loss on the building about $125. The place is owned by the Clayton Investment company, and is valued at $5,000. The fire department, from headquarters and No. 2 station, quickly extinguished the blaze.
