BIG CITY MARKET IS PROPOSED

Ogden Promoters Visit Council Committee to Discuss Plan.

TO BE CONSIDERED MONDAY

Site Proposed Is Near Railway Lines

—Estimated Cost of Project Is $200,000.

At the meeting of the committee on markets of the city council last evening there appeared James Johnson and D. P. Yowell as representatives of an Ogden firm that is desirous of providing a general market place for this city. The men who will undertake to promote the scheme are David Eccles, M. S. Browning and H. H. Rolapp, and whether or not their plans are carried into effect will depend entirely upon action of the mayor and city council.

The need of a market has long been felt, and it was only recently that Mayor Braundt discussed with members of the council the feasibility of converting the old hay market on Second East, between Third and Fourth South, into a market. The city owns property facing on Fourth South with a right of way leading into the interior of the block. The municipality has an option on the inside ground, but the mayor expressed a doubt as to whether proper arrangements could be made for its purchase.

Now comes the Ogden men who propose to build a market. The site proposed for the undertaking is between Second and Third West and South Temple streets, and runs entirely through the block. The plan is to open a street 66 feet wide and 660 feet long. On one side will be erected buildings to be used for commission houses. These will be two-story, lower story concrete, upper story brick. Ground and buildings would cost in the neighborhood of $200,000. The promoters are enthusiastic over the outlook for permanent and convenient quarters and would be ready to move in as soon as the buildings could be completed. Railroad cars would be at the very doors of the houses. One side of the street would be for the use of farmers and peddlers, in the sale and purchase of farm products and commission goods. The committee was favorably impressed with the representations made, and the matter will go before the council for consideration.

AN EXPLANATION.

The reason for the popularity of the Fleur-de-Lis chocolates is that they are absolutely pure and of the very best quality. For sale at Williams Horse Drug Store, Smith Drug Store, Brigham Street Pharmacy and Halliday Drug.

THREE INCH TIRES.

The streets and municipal law committee of the city council decided last night to amend the wide tire ordinance to include a tire three inches wide. Such amendment was proposed by J. T. Kaley, supervisor of streets, at the request of numerous teamsters, the contention being that a tire three inches wide would be sufficient for a load of from 4,000 pounds to 6,000 pounds, while a four-inch tire would necessitate the use of a third horse.

The committee will recommend, however, that teamsters be given until July 1 to place themselves entirely within the provisions of the ordinance.

A COMMON COLD.

We claim that if catching cold could be avoided some of the most dangerous and fatal diseases would never be heard of. A cold often forms a culture bed for germs of infectious diseases. Consumption, pneumonia, diphtheria and many of the most dangerous and fatal diseases, are of this class. The culture bed formed by the cold favors the development of germs and bacteria that would not otherwise find lodgment. There is little danger, however, of any of these diseases being contracted when a cold is properly treated. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It cleans out these culture beds that favor the development of the germs of these diseases. That is why this remedy has proved so successful in preventing pneumonia. It not only cures your cold quickly, but minimizes the risk of contracting dangerous diseases. For sale by all druggists.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater.—Without mincing words and dealing with nothing but the sordid conditions of life is "The House of Bondage," which opened at the Salt Lake theater last night with Florence Roberts in the leading role. Again she has the position of the woman wronged, an unfeeling and unsympathetic husband and a horde of sickening details of domestic infidelity. It would be hard to imagine a more unreal, contrary to natural sequences, affair except the magnified wrongs in the net of law in charge of a chancery tribunal.

With the addition of a few gun plays and the "House of Bondage" is a well rounded and interesting affair. The "House of Bondage" would readily pass with a ten, twenty, thirty sign over the door. It is the work of the artists alone that would bid for recognition. All the unrealities are forgotten under the powerful touch of Lady Joan Meredith. Miss Roberts does well. With her are two others that are as good if not better, and they are Arthur Forrest as Sir Vincent Meredith and Thurlow Bergen as Paul Bertrand, a London surgeon. Ann Warrington as Gwendolyn, Countess of Carlington are also good.

Infidelity alone constitutes the grounds on which an Englishman can divorce his wife, with the wife this must be accompanied by physical cruelty as well. On this is based the whole story of "The House of Bondage." Seymour Obermer, the author of the three-act drama, places the action among the most fashionable set in England. Paul Bertrand, a London surgeon, discovers that he is in love with his patient's wife, Lady Joan Meredith. When driven to the breaking point in her family affairs by the notorious friendship of her husband, as Lady Joan Meredith, Miss Roberts does well. With her are two others that are as good if not better, and they are Arthur Forrest as Sir Vincent Meredith and Thurlow Bergen as Paul Bertrand, a London surgeon. Ann Warrington as Gwendolyn, Countess of Carlington are also good.
