Salt Lakers Treated to a Real Surprise by the Car Company.

SNOW FALL CLEARED AWAY.

In Former Years it Tied Up Traffic But This Time the Cars Were Kept Moving.

Whenever a Salt Laker mentioned the name of the Utah Light & Rallway company today, he did it with a smile. Whatever his grievances against the conductor, who got two fares for one ride out of him, he forgot them today in the joys of knowing that actually he rode to work on schedule time this morning, and could sit in a full speeded car remembering the bitter days of last winter and the winter before, when he plodded a dozen weary blocks through knee deep snow while the cars helplessly fussed and sputtered on through knee deep show while the curs helplessly fussed and sputtered on down town curves, or were off the track in remote sections where they had found they could not buck the snow. "Ill bet I have to walk to town," said Mr. Suburbanite this morning when he came out into ankle deep snow and saw all the slender shrubbery bearing a great weight of that article. "TH bet you won't," was the echo from a car that hummed along on schedule time at full speed. The morn-ing hours saw a fight between a de-clded snow storm and a collection of workmen born and raised to the bust-ness of keeping traffic open." Just how the workmen conquered is one of those mysteries kept within the circle of red tape, but just how happy the people who had a chance to ride were, was shown on every face this morning. AT WORK ON TIME.

Every big business concern remain-bers mornings when its force of clerks has been very late in assembl-ing, and theat told each other when they came of various experiences in walking to work while the car sys-tem was snow bound. This morning, with as beaux and sudden a downfall with as heavy and sudden a downfall as ever came there was not the slight-est inconvenience to the public and only a very little to the company, so far as keeping its cars running was concerned. concerned.

concerned. Down town the curves that have given so much trouble heretoforo were clean canyons between great heaps of snow at 6 o'clock this morn-ing. At eight a force of men with brooms was guarding each curve atd keeping it swept clean, so that no car need stop through slippery rails. On some of the hilly roads cars had diffi-culty climbing the ascents, but this was remedied by 9 o'clock.

SWEPT THE TRACKS.

To make this condition possible, meant all night work. At 2 o'clock this morning the company's two big snowplows and six sweepers went to work on the snow-covered tracks. Many residenters heard the strange noise at this unheard of hour and turned over in their sleep, not to fully realize till morning what had hap-pened. pened

One mystery of snowstorms is the height of snow that will hold a place on even such a slender thing as a teleon even such a stender thing as a tele-phone wire. This morning many of these wires were found to be broken by the weight of snow upon them, and they were lying across the trolley lines. To remove them caused about all the delays that were reported.

CARS OUT OF BARNS.

At 6 o'clock this morning the entire trackage, 'ad been gone over, and cars were r. , to come out as on the most peaceful mornings. A few had a little difficulty on their first trips owing to the snow that had failen after the sweepers had passed, but none were kept from making their runs.

Being comparatively unknown and infrequently visited, their huge dimensions were never actually known until taken last sum-mer by a party of scientists headed by Prof. Edgar L. Utah Elks Indulge in Auto Rides and Stroll Through Orange Groves With Never a "Lemon."

(Special to the "News.") Los Angeles, Feb. 11 .- Great times are on here. The Salt Lake and Utah Elks are here, hundreds of them, and they are having no end of fun. They arrived on time and were given the] 'glad mitt' by the reception committee here. No sickness or unpleasant feature marred the entire trip, and the visitors are surely the best ever. At Riverside, Kenneth Kerr, a former Salt Lake newspaper and railroad man, showed his old friends around, assisted by his old friends around, assisted by friends. Twenty-five of the herd missed the train at Pomona while out on a wild automobile trip. Another train took them over to the City of Angeles last evening. Before stopping at Pomona the train made a short stay in San Bernardino, where in spite of rain the travelers rode to Arrowhead Springs and through the orange groves. When the special pulled out it was loaded with oranges. "Not a lemon has been seen," sang the crowd as the special pulled out of San Bernardino. Today

DEBATERS ARE READY

Great Contest Scheduled for Salt Lake Theater This Evening.

Everything is in readiness for the big intercollegiate debate to be fought out between the Utah University's orators and a trie from the University of Colo-rado tonight. Two judges have been appointed and a third will be selected before evening. The two already chos-en are Judge George Armstrong and Steven Love. Judge iting will act as chairman of the evening. The order in which the boys will talk is as fol-lows: Colorado-F, Anderson, P, Van Cise and A. Nase: Utah-C, H. Ander-son, J. Carlson and R. W. Young, Jr. The debalars, both home boys and visitors, talked before classes in the university this afternoon, and both made great showings. A most stub-bornly fought contest is anticipated. The subject, of which Utah has the af-firmative, is: "Resolved, that the pres-ent distribution of power between state and federal governments is not adapted to modern conditions and calls for re-adjustment in the direction of further centralization." The visitors are fine young men, and speak enthuslastically of Sait Lake and her people. The scene of battle tonight will be the Sait Lake theater. and a trio from the University of Colo-emerged, which culminated in a ser-jous panle in October," as the most acute and destructive in its immediate consequences of any which has occur-red in the history of the country. Sen-ator Aldrich declared that "nothing but heroic measures taken by the representatives of the great business and financial interests of the country, acting in co-operation with the treasury prevented a total collapse of private credit and a disastrous de-struction of all values. "It is." he added, "impossible to conceive, much less to measure, the losses which would have resulted from such a calamity. The country was saved by the narrowest possible margin from an overwhelming ca-tastrophe whose blighting effect would have been felt in every household. A total collapse was avoided, but the shrinkage in values in securities and property and the losses from injury to business resulting from and incl-dental to the crisis amounted to thous-ands of millions of dollars." After reviewing the various exped-ients resorted to for the relief of the banks, the senator said: "The great losses which the people of the country suffered from the pur-tial breakdown of our credit system through bank suspensions and which the abnormal increase in the volume of money and its substitutes—legal and illegal—failed to avert, should lead Congress to scriously consider the question whether it was possible to provide such a legislative remedy as shall prevent the recurrence of these conditions in the future. If the experience of last year should be re-peated—and who can say that this is impossible—the methods of relief that were employed in 1907 will not be available, certainly not to the same extent."
