Set Him Up.

The trial of Andrew Hents, for indecent assault on a little girl was concluded in the Police Court yesterday. The testimony showed that Hents had been in the habit of indulging in conduct of the most disgusting character, and that the little girl had been the consequence of her being alone with Hents. Mrs. Hents, who had been married to the defendant but about two months, seemed pleased at her husband's conviction. The culprit was sentenced to imprisonment for thirty days and to pay a fine of $50.

THE STANLEY CASE.

The Defendant Forced to a Hearing Without Counsel.

The case of the United States vs. Frank Stanley, who was arrested at Bountiful on Tuesday evening, on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, was called before Commissioner McKay today.

The defendant's attorney, Mr. Moyle, was not present, having understood from the prosecution that the case would be again postponed. Notwithstanding that the defendant did not wish to go on till his counsel arrived, after some vain efforts to find Mr. Moyle the Commissioner ordered that the case be proceeded with, and the witnesses were subjected to a rigid examination by District Attorney Peters.

Mrs. Sarah E. Stanley was the first witness. She testified that she was married to the defendant 14 years ago last April, in this city; she was still his wife; lived at Bountiful, Davis County; she was the legal wife.

The Commissioner then explained that she was not obliged to testify further in the case, and as she stated she was unwilling to do so, she was excused.

Mrs. Alice Hardman testified—I live in the Fourth Ward of this city; am acquainted with the defendant; he is my son-in-law; he was married to my daughter thirteen or fourteen years ago on the 9th of April; he lives in Davis County, with my daughter Sarah; he was married to her during the past two years; I do not know Harriet Stanley; I have a daughter named Harriet; she is twenty-three years of age; she is not married and never has been that I know of; she is not married to the defendant's plural wife; never heard that she was married to him; she has lived at Mendon, Cache County, during a portion of the last three years; I do not know where she is living now; she has lived at Mendon and on about one half the time; she left my home when she was eleven years of age, and went to live with her sister, Mrs. Sarah Stanley; she never told me who she was with and where she was; she was doing; Mrs. Stanley left the Fourth Ward over two years ago; Harriet left a year before then, and went to Cache Valley; when she left the latter place I do not know where she went; she has a child, a boy, probably between two and three years of age; I saw him about four months ago; he could walk then, but could not talk; I do not know his father is or where he was born; it was not at Mendon, but I cannot say where; I do not know where he is now; he was born in Salt Lake; it was a year old at least when I first saw it; it was at my house in short clothes; Harriet was there; I never saw the defendant there with my daughter Harriet, nor was Mrs. Stanley; never heard anyone say who the child's father was; nor did I inquire; Harriet came to my house with her baby, stayed about two hours, and then went away; at that time Mrs. Stanley was living at her present home; I do not know where she is; the father of the child; I do not know where Harriet has been during the past four months; do not know whether or not she has a husband; Harriet testified—Harriet Hardman is my niece, Mrs. Alice Hardman is my sister-in-law; I have been acquainted with Mr. Stanley a number of years; he formerly lived near where I do in this city; he left some years ago, I do not know when; I do not know of Harriet Hardman living there; I heard a rumor that she was Mr. Stanley's second wife; could not say where I heard it.

Mr. Stanley objected to being treated unfairly and taken advantage of by the examination of the witnesses; proceeded with against his will and before his counsel could be present.

The Commissioner replied that he would not be taken advantage of.

Witness, continuing—Harriet Hardman has one child; I do not know how old it is; it is several months since I saw it.

Mr. Peters—How many months?

Commissioner (Impatiently)—Oh, tell a little matter like that the truth; I think it is about eight months; the child may be two years old; possibly more; I saw it at a party in the Fourth Ward.

Mr. Peters—Where?

Witness—In the Fourth Ward.

Mr. Peters (Impatiently)—Where?

Witness—In the Fourth Ward, in the schoolhouse; I have seen the child three times, the third occasion being when the mother had it on the side-walk.

Commissioner—Tell where you saw it.

Witness—Why don't you give me a reasonable time to think? It was on the sidewalk near my house; I never heard Harriet called Mrs. Stanley; did not know she lived in Cache County; remember Deputy Franks speaking to me; he told me my name was the same as that of Mr. Stanley No. 2; he told me Harriet Hardman had a dark hair, and I said "yes." I did not describe her.

Miss Frances M. Hardman was called. She testified that she had heard Mr. Peters remark, "I believe we have no more testimony," and said she did not care to make any suggestion.

The Commissioner then said, "I don't think the evidence reaches to the degree of public repulse in reference to the marriage. The testimony might bring conviction to jury, but I do not think the evidence sufficient to hold the defendant. Mr. Stanley there does not appear probable cause to believe you guilty and you are discharged."

Seeking Her Husband.

Mrs. Rhoda Dykine, a middle-aged lady, of modest, self-possessed manner and with an air of deep anxiety pervading her gentle features, arrived in Butte from Ogden, Utah, last Saturday, accompanied by her little daughter Emma, a nine-year old child. Her errand to this city is a very odd one, being none other than the endeavor to discover the whereabouts of her husband from whom she has not heard for two months. To many this would seem an unusual lapse of time, but in her case it was so, as his letters had never been so far apart before. A representative of the Miner paid her a visit last evening at the Centennial Hotel and found her in great distress. She gave the reporter her story as follows: "The last letter I had from my husband was about two months ago, when he wrote from Butte that he had been to work for several weeks, being employed as a brakeman on the American Union and Montana Union with Conductor Lake. He wrote me that he would be home in a day or two, and waited for his arrival until he grew weary and wrote him again and he received no word from him since. He decided to come to Butte and endeavor to find him, the belief the last place I had heard from him. When I arrived here I found out that he had been discharged for intoxication and left for home unknown. I heard he was in Anaconda and tried to find him there, but heard that he had never been there since he left. They also told me that he had gone to work on the Northern Pacific. I have written to two superintendents, who wrote me that he had never been employed by them.

The lady says that they lived happily for ten years, but, being a conductor on the Union Pacific for the past seven years, and she is afraid that he has committed suicide, or something has happened to him, as he was a loving husband and tender father. At one time he wanted to throw himself under the wheels of an engine. She thinks that something has happened to him, and would like to know if any person knowing his whereabouts would communicate the same to her. His name was Herman Dykine, and the following description will facilitate his identification: Short, heavy-set, with dark hair and white, with a tinge of red; brown eyes; weighs about 175 pounds; he wears a brown coat and blue pants when last seen.—Butte Miner, May 31.

Broken Shoulder.

A little son of J. Thorpe, while after cows on Sunday evening, met with an accident, breaking his shoulder bone. The little boy was riding a horse with one of Fred Thorpe's boys, when the horse stumbled, throwing young Thorpe's shoulder against a rock, thus causing the accident. Dr. Snow attended to the little fellow's injuries.—Logan Journal, June 1st.

President Budge Arrested.

Late yesterday afternoon Honorable William Budge of Bear Lake County, President of Bear Lake Stake, Idaho, was arrested in Ogden by deputy marshal Ekum. The officer had no warrant, and when it was demanded of him to tell upon what charge he had arrested the defendant he was unable to state it. It seems that the arrest was made on the suspicion that Mr. Budge might possibly be wanted by the officers of Idaho. A writ of habeas corpus was obtained and the prisoner was brought before Judge Henderson. His attorney insisted that if the officer having him in custody could not state upon what charge he was held, the court should order his release immediately. The officer declared that he could not answer before this morning, and the court granted him until ten o'clock this forenoon. At that hour the matter came up for hearing and the court granted another continuance until 8 a. m. today, to give him an hour to enable him to give an account of the proceedings.

The court was asked last evening to admit the prisoner to bail, but the court held, would be improper, until the nature of the charge against him was known, and bail was refused. Late last evening Ekum received word from Marshal Beard, of Idaho, to hold Mr. Budge, and that an officer would be sent to take him to that Territory.

Since the foregoing was in type an effort was made to get information concerning the proceedings so far as they had progressed this afternoon. We could not, however, get anything additional sufficiently early to enable us to publish it in this issue.

Heavy Floods.

The Denver News of June 1 gives the following account of the floods along the D. & R. G.:

The first train since last Friday arrived in Pueblo this evening from La Vista and passengers bring reports of an immense damage to property. It rained all the last three days of last week and a foot of snow fell on the high ranges. Wide stretches of Denver and Rio Grande track were washed out on both sides of the pass. A Moscow excursion train was caught in the pass and has been there three days, supposed to be in danger, but neither wagons nor cars can reach them. The toll road is ruined and it will take $5,000 to get the wagons and the horses out. Eight miles of track must be laid between La Vista and alamosa before trains can reach San Luis Valley.

Great destruction of grain along the whole course of the Colorado River. Whole ranches were washed away or covered with quicksand, and many acres of crops washed out. One man lost seventy-five acres of land in a body. Numbers of people were driven out of their homes and are camped in temporary habitations. Many bridges along the Huachuca and Cameron river now stand a quarter of a mile from the stream, it having changed its channel.

The band and choir of thirty members of Unity lodge and 3000 people were prevented from attending the memorial services at Walsenburg on Decoration Day, by the heavy flood which has cut off the route to that place. This is the heaviest flood since the Colorado River broke its banks in the lower part of the camp at the mouth of the Colorado.

John Cameron, general superintendent of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, is superintending the work of saving the banks from utter destruction and trying to save the mine-house and camp. The switches, four in number, are badly broken, and the mine will continue to be in the lower part of camp have everything packed for hasty flight. Three hundred men are thrown out of employment.

Another Drowning.

A fatality occurred at West Weber yesterday which resulted in the death of Henry, a 22 months old son of Robert McFarland. The little fellow was playing outside the house, and his grandpa was watching him. Some other children came along, however, and distracted the old gentleman's attention for a few minutes. When the child was thought of again he could not be found. During the brief period he had fallen into the canal, which runs by the house, and was drowned. Search was instituted and every nook and cranny was anxiously scanned, all to no avail. Gradually the awful truth that the child had lost his life in the waters of the canal forced itself upon the anxious searchers. The stream was followed along by the police, by Wm. C. McFarland and Ned Blinham, and there against a wire fence which crosses the stream, lay the body of little Henry. Life was quite extinct when the body was recovered, the body having been in the water one or two hours.—Ogden Herald, June 2.

Trying for a Release.

Major W. W. Woods, attorney for A. H. Martin, who slew John H. Barton, is making strenuous efforts to have his client released on bail pending the trial of the case. He argued out a writ of habeas corpus, and the matter came up for hearing before Judge Boreman, this afternoon. Martin was held without bail on the charge of murder, and Mr. Woods claims that this was unlawful, as the circumstances attending the killing were such that a capital offense could not be made out, and that the defendant should have been admitted to bail as a matter of right. Mr. Woods made an argument in support of his claim for the release of Martin on bail, and County Prosecuting Attorney Moyle opposed the application.

The Edmunds Law.

There were four arraignments in the First District Court yesterday on the charge of unlawful cohabitation, the first being Jens Peterson of Hantsville. He took the statutory time to plead.

Ole Hansen, of Logan, when arraigned, said he would plead guilty to save time and trouble. This was not allowed by the Court, and error being found in the indictment, it was quashed and the case resubmitted to the grand jury.

Jens Hanson took the statutory time to plead to an indictment for unlawful cohabitation.

C. F. Schade, of Hantsville, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge.

Periodicals.

Mr. Dwyer has received the Century for June. It is an unusually interesting number. He has also the Illustrated Foreign News, printed from the duplicate plates of the Illustrated London News. The pictures are simply superb, especially those of "Ringside Home" and "Accompanying the number is an elaborate illustration showing the portraits of Queen Victoria and the late Prince Consort with their progeny and other family relatives. The price of this delightful periodical is only 10 cents a copy.

Charged With Embezzlement.

Another of the Singer Sewing Machine Company's agents is in the toils on a charge of embezzlement. The accused this time is W. J. Foster, and it is alleged that he made away with four sewing machines, valued at $80 each, sold them, pocketed the money and left town. He was captured at a saloon at Rock Springs, on Tuesday evening, by Sheriff Young, of Sweetwater County, Wyoming, and was handed over to Deputy Cannon, who returned with him last evening. His case will be heard on Monday.
