

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

At the Opera house to-night, President George, Teasdale, of Utah, is up from Nephel.

Look Tom's Cabin, at the Salt Lake Theatre, is drawing good houses.

The original Tennessee Jubilee singers will perform at the Opera House on Saturday.

A movement is on foot to aid the proprietors of the late match factory to re-establish that home industrial institution.

There will be an auction sale of household furniture on Friday, (to-morrow) at 10 a. m. three doors east of Bishop Hardy's, Twelfth Ward. See Mr. Trumbull's advt.

This morning Brother Louis Pratt showed us a life like portrait of a well known citizen. The picture was fresh from the brush of the artist, and it reflects credit, not only on account of the fidelity of the likeness but the general execution of the portrait. It appeared to "stand out" from the canvas.

We gave an account the other day of some relics of a little daughter of Mr. Thomas Goodfellow's, who was three years previous, having been found near Butte. A search party last Sunday found the little girl's skull. A portion of the lower jaw had been gnawed off by the animal whose she was destroyed. This discovery left no doubt regarding the character of her fate.

The grand piece of engineering work on the Central Pacific near Cape Horn is about to be completed on the southern Pacific, in the Rio Grande valley. While at Cape Horn, in the Sierra, the shelf extended but a few hundred yards, a similar piece of work in the Rio Grande will be twenty-five miles long, and will open up a country immensely rich in wealth and grand in scenery.—Ex.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

MISSIONARIES.

Three missionaries who were expected to leave this city on Tuesday, August 15th, for Europe, will please take notice that the time of departure has been extended to Tuesday, August 22nd, being one week later. This change is made to conform to the sailing of the steamship from New York.

JOSEPH F. SMITH, FRANKLIN D. RICHARDS. July 27th, 1892.

Arrived.—The Family Herald for July, with all the current English and American periodicals, has been received at Dwyer's.

New Store.—Bishop Adam Spiera has erected a neat brick building for a store, on his premises, adjacent to the schoolhouse in the Tenth Ward.

Coming.—The party of Illinois editors alluded to several days ago in this paper, will arrive here on Friday evening's train from Ogden. They are welcome.

Returned From the South.—Apostle Erastus Snow returned yesterday from a trip through a portion of the southern settlements, having been as far as Parowan. He attended a conference at Nephel on Saturday and Sunday. He is in fair health.

Emigration Agent.—Elder James H. Hart, Church emigration agent at New York, will return to that city within three weeks. He has gone to his home in Bear Lake Valley in the interim.

The Great Pianist Coming.—The management of the Salt Lake Theatre have received a despatch from Manager Locke, of San Francisco, stating that the celebrated pianist, Madame Rive-King will appear at the Theatre on the night of August 14th.

Proposals to be Received.—Proposals are requested by the Denver and Rio Grande Western R. R. Co. for the construction of a round house in this city. Also for the building of 13 frame section houses, and 22 frame tool houses. Read the advt.

Appointments.—Elders E. Snow and John Henry Smith, of the Apostles, expect to start on Saturday, Aug. 8th, for Castle Valley. They will hold meetings with the Saints on Price River at 4 p. m. Thursday; at Huntington at 4 p. m. on Friday; and at Castledale Saturday and Sunday, 12th and 13th.

Small Quantities.—A merchant on Fourth Street is advertising for "tame hay" on a shingle.—Ogden Herald.

That merchant ought to be seen to. Somebody ought to ask him why he prefers "tame hay on a shingle," rather than upon a wagon. If somebody doesn't look after him he may probably soon be advertising for "tame hay" on the half shell. If that merchant is correctly reported, he is evidently cut out for a homeopathist.

A Generous Sentiment.—There seems to be a very general feeling in the community to render substantial aid to the industrious working men who owned the Match Factory lately destroyed by fire. Most of the proprietors lost every dollar of their surplus means by the disaster, and the inclination to help the enterprise to its feet again is quite strong.

We understand that the sentiment took practical shape yesterday in the form of a subscription list which was being circulated and meeting with ready response. There are many, however, who are willing to lend a helping hand whom the paper will not reach; and we therefore suggest that some special places and parties be named for the reception of donations.

This morning some person forwarded a dollar to this office as a contribution, which can be used by the parties for whom it is intended. There are others ready to contribute if they knew where to forward donations to.

SALT LAKE AND JORDAN CANAL.

AN IMMENSE BENEFIT TO SALT LAKE CITY.

To-day we took a drive along the Salt Lake and Jordan Canal from the southeast corner of the city to the emptying point on Jordan street, north of this Office. We pronounced the aqueduct one of the most beneficial successes of the kind ever established in this city. All along the bank and the flame, in the passage through the city, the stream is tapped at various points by convenient gates, which have been lately placed in position under the direction of Watermaster Wilken. As a rule they are not yet completed, being still minus the necessary locks to prevent their being tampered with by irresponsible persons, but the finishing strokes will soon be given.

The canal carries a considerable body of water, being at the head of the flame—after being tapped at numerous points—over fifteen inches deep, the flame width being eight feet at that part. At many points where the stream is tapped the water flowing from the openings is boxed for considerable distances, to prevent caving, which would be the result if deep ditches were left open. However, down the sides of the streets east of East Temple Street and below the canal numerous streams of water are flowing from this large aqueduct, all that section of the city being irrigated from that source with but little exception.

Arriving at the mouth of the flame we found a stream of large volume pouring into the City Creek stone culvert, from which the citizens north and west of East Temple street obtain their supply for irrigation. The proof was directly under our eyes that, but for the Salt Lake and Jordan Canal there would have been a water famine this season, the stream flowing from City Creek being like a thread compared to that from the flame, and in a few weeks it will be nearly, if not quite, entirely dry. In fact it is almost so now.

There is a class in the community, fortunately insignificant in number, who take special delight in denouncing every good thing established by the bulk of the community, against whom they have a narrow-souled and unreasoning prejudice. It looks as if such were exceedingly sorry to see the canal a great success, for such it undoubtedly is. None but fools or willful perverters can express any other view regarding it.

What are the evidences of its success? Its object was to convey a body of water for irrigation into this city for the relief of the inhabitants. The object is accomplished—a large body of aqueous fluid flows through and can be at any time increased, if needed. From its smaller streams are running into the orchards and gardens, refreshing and maturing fruit and vegetables, maintaining the reputation of Salt Lake as a forest city, one of the chief features of its beauty. Perhaps some spiteful malcontents would like to see the city robbed of its freshness and bloom, and become a comparative picture of dryness and desolation.

A few people—very few—overlooking the necessity of manifesting a largeness of soul that would lead to a consideration of the general well-being of the ground of the waters of Jordan being impure compared with that heretofore used. The answer lies in the increase of quantity for irrigation and the availability of other sources of supply for culinary purposes. In every part of the city except the "dry bench," where there appears to be no water, either above or below, wells can be obtained. Besides, who desires to use the water that flows largely south and west from the central portion of Main Street for any purpose but irrigating anyway? For years it has been most persistently, constantly and disgustingly fouled, as anybody can prove by passing along the central streets at an early hour in the morning and seeing the filth emptied into the water seats from the saloons and other places. It is scarcely possible to add to the dilemma that has already existed over a considerable area of the city.

There is now a large proportion of the city above the line to the north, of the present sources of water supply, for any purpose whatever. People in that section of the city have undergone hardships beyond the knowledge of the bulk of the community from that cause. They have been compelled by necessity to carry their water in every kind of weather, many of them aged and feeble, long distances, in some cases nearly a mile, and use it warm and unwholesome in the hottest seasons, causing the percentage of sick and the death rate to be occasionally alarmingly high in the locality. One of the initiatives and proposed benefits of the canal will be to release other waters that might be extended to these people in the shape of one of the commonest essentials of life. It appears from the stand that some few persons take regarding the recently completed aqueduct that they would delight to see the hardship and, in many instances, perpetuated. The fact of the matter is that a water supply for the people of the citizens of the bench and is one of the leading questions connected with this corporation. It has been for years, and will continue to be until the needed relief is given, which should be as soon as it is practicable to give it.

Successful Run.—The Jay Rial Company drew a fair horse again last night and "Uncle Tom," "Eva," "Topsy" and "The Lawyer" were as before, the great attractions, while the trained bloodhounds were not behind the human performers and maintaining the interest of the spectators. The transformation scene was very fine and the performance to the command of "Uncle Tom's" play was repeated this evening.

Lars Christensen, of Big Cottonwood, has lost a dark bay horse, branded C. B. on the left thigh. He offers a reward for him. See advertisement.

THE SITUATION AT BOHO.

SIX SMALLER PATIENTS HAVE DIED AND THREE CASES ENDING.

We have been enabled to ascertain the real status of affairs at Boho, Summit County, so far as smallpox is concerned. Four cases have terminated fatally and three persons are now afflicted by it. Besides there are a considerable number of persons, mostly members of the families of individuals now affected with the malady who have been exposed to contagion and are liable, at any time, to be taken down with it. The quarantine regulations, which are under the supervision of Sheriff Allison, are not loose, as reported, but are on the contrary complete. There was one case, however, from which considerable exposure resulted. A negro was ill of the disease, and during his sickness became wildly deranged. While in that condition he effected his escape and went some distance along the railroad. He was, however, subsequently captured and has since been under the school house is being used as a hospital.

Accidentally Drowned.—About nine o'clock, this morning, a little girl of Wm. H. Pidcock's, about one year and eight months old, wandered from the house unsupervised by her parents. But the child had not long been gone, before it was missed by its anxious mother. Search was instituted; but it was not to be found in any part of the house. The search was continued in the lot, but the little one could not be found in any part of it. The Weber canal, a large irrigating water course, runs past just west of Mr. Pidcock's residence, and into its stream the child had fallen. The current being swift at that point carried the infant down quickly, and before help could reach it the little one was drowned.

Every thing was done that could possibly be done to resuscitate the body, but in vain; the vital spark had fled, and the parents were plunged in grief and sorrow. We extend to them our sympathies in their sad bereavement.

The deceased, Elizabeth Zina, was the daughter of Wm. H. and Fanny Pidcock; she was born in this city, November 8th, 1880.—Ogden Herald, Wednesday.

FROM "THE TIMES."

Editors Times:—The veterinary department in your valuable paper is always read by us with great interest and I value the information received from it a hundred fold more than the small amount paid for the paper. One year ago you published a letter from Dr. John Bates, relating the wonderful success he had had in curing spavins and splints with Kendall's Spavin Cure, and his allusion to using it now in his practice for several human ailments on account of the success he has always had with it. The above statements from so prominent a Physician gave me great faith in its efficacy, and as I had been afflicted for years with rheumatism and hip-joint lameness so bad that I could hardly walk at times, I procured a bottle and as it has completely cured me I wish to proclaim it to all the world as the most wonderful discovery ever made for the benefit of afflicted men as well as for the poor horse, for which it was first used. As this remedy must be of incalculable value to the world, I write this letter to express my thanks to you for ever mentioning it in your columns and to ask another favor in behalf of my fellow men who are afflicted in body, that you continue to make known to the world, the great value of Kendall's Spavin Cure for both man as well as beast. Respectfully yours,

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 1st, 1891. d&w
