EDITORIAL NOTES.

Paper is coming into more the wholesale provision house of and mere general use. French Asa Jacobs & Co., a very old conjournals say that it may be render- cern. ed exceedingly hard and tenacious and very durable by subjecting the pulp to the action of chleride of zinc, and subjecting it to strong pressure. It then becomes as hard as wood and as tough as hide, varying according to the strength of the metallic solution. This hardened and toughened paper is useful for covering roofs and floors, can be used instead of leather in the making of coarse shoes, also for whip handles, buttons, combs, saw mountings, and many other useful
