From Temple Bar.

TOO MUCH ZEAL.

[CONCLUDED.]

It was, indeed, for the best that Kate and her sister did not see him as he was; for his caftan dripped with blood, and he could hardly stand. Massom's wound was a nasty slash; but to a man of his constitution, not dangerous. The calme had slipped on his shoulder-blade. Poor Crake had to have his hand amputated when we got back to Beyrout, and Templar's ball gave some trouble before it would consent to come out of his shoulder. At a council of war held by Massom's bedside—the side of the floor where he lay—it was resolved that Jules should be sent into Beyrout for help. Massom's horse was dead lame, but our assailants had left horses and mules in plenty tethered in the date palm grove. The enthusiastic little Frenchman joyously accepted the service of danger (for a remnant of the enemy were hiding about somewhere), and I went out with him to choose a steed and speed him on his way. The, tete de pont was another nasty sight but Jules was equal to it; and as he insisted upon taking it for granted he would have to fight his way, he levied contributions of pistols, yataghans and guns enough to arm a company from the dead as he passed.

This sort of work did not suit me, and I walked on by myself, when I heard a sudden cry from my companion: "Mon Dieu! Monsieur le Capitaine! Venez venez vite! Le pauvre malheureux! Il est mort. C'est bien M. Frank, et il est mort!"

It was indeed Frank, but not dead. A chance shot, perhaps that long shot of Number three—had struck him. There he lay, with the foolish papers, that had caused so much bloodshed, still clutched in his hand.

We carried him back to the fort, and by the time we had done so there was no longer any necessity for M. Jules' arsenal. The Consul had indeed left for the Lebanon, and Massom's letter, stating our peril and asking for help, was delivered to his Vice; but he—knowing the handwriting, and thinking it was on private affairs—scrupled to open it, and sent right and left, seeking Massom, to ask if he could serve him, in the absence of his chief. Not finding him he got anxious (fortunately for us), and opened the letter.

Before noon a force of cavalry, with the Pasha of Beyrout himself at their head, galloped up to the fort—now a greater ruin than ever—and at daybreak next morning we had the ineffable satisfaction of seeing the white ensign of the Royal Yacht Squadron flying within a quarter of a mile from the shore, and the boats of the Susan grounded on the beach.

Took Care of His Sheep.

The story of the "Infidel's Sheep" reminds some one of another story about sheep, which is almost as good. He had it from the lips of the late Wm. Ladd, of Minot, Me., the famous old peace man of a past generation.

He said he once had a neighbor by the name of P——, who was slack and careless about his fences, and whose sheep, as a natural consequence, became "breechy," and very troublesome. They often found their way into his mowing fields, and greatly irritated himself and his "hired hands," so that they finally threatened to shoot them if they were not kept within their bounds. But nothing availed. P—— obstinately refused to mend his fence, or take any pains to keep his sheep out of his neighbor's field.

While matters were in this disagreeable condition, Mr. Ladd said that it occurred to him that he was not carrying out his peace principles very faithfully in his dealings with neighbor P——, so he resolved on a different line of action; and, going to the fence of a field in which he saw P—— at work, he called to him.

"What do you want, 'squire?" was the bluff answer.

"I want to talk to you about those sheep," replied Ladd.

"I don't want to hear anything more about the sheep," was P——'s rejoinder. You may shoot them and be hanged, if you want to; I ain't going to do anything with them."

"No," said Ladd, "I am not going to shoot them, nor hurt them, but I want you to let me take your sheep into my pasture and keep them for you.

"Oh, yes," replied P——, "that would be a nice plan to get rid of my sheep."

"Neighbor," said Ladd, "if one of your sheep is lost in my pasture, I will pay its full value."

By this time P—— had become sufficiently interested in the matter under discussion to cease from his hoeing and turn toward Mr. Ladd.

"Are you in earnest, 'squire?" said he.

"To be sure I am," replied Ladd. "You see it would be economy to pasture your sheep, rather than to have them in my fields; and I would guarantee the safety of every sheep you will drive into my pasture; for I don't intend to have any more quarrelling about them with my neighbor."

P—— looked sharply at the old peace man for a moment, and then said: "You may go along 'squire, I'll take care of the sheep."

And he was as good as his word. Ladd never had any occasion to complain of P——after that day, that he was not as good a neighbor as he wished to have.

"The fact is," said an elderly wife, "a man does not know how to straighten up things. I don't wonder," she remarked in conclusion, "that when God made Adam he went to work and made a woman to tell him what to do."

PEOPLE'S VERDICT

Over Half a Million sold and in use!

4,000 made and sold per week

SINGER'S

New Improved Silent

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES

ARE

The Best in the World,

Because all of them are in constant use, while a very large proportion of other makes are no used, owing to their being partially or utterly impracticable.

THE SINGER

NEW FAMILY MACHINE

Has been brought to perfection, regardless of time, labor or expense, and is now incomparably the best Sewing Machine in existence.

It is simple, compact, durable, beautiful, quiet, light-running, and capable of performing a range and variety of work never before attempted upon a single machine; using either Silk, Twist, Linen or Cotton Thread, and sewing with equal facility the very finest and coarsest materials, or anything between the two extremes, in the most beautiful and substantial manner.

The New Improved Attachments for Hemming, (any width) Braiding, Embroidering Magic Ruffling, Gathering and sewing on (at the same time) Self-Sewing, Cording, Tucking Quilting, Felling, Trimming, Binding, etc., are novel and practicable, and have been invented and adjusted especially for this Machine.

Folding Tops and Cabinet Cases.

New designs of the unique, useful and popular Folding Tops and Cabinet Cases, peculiar to the Singer Machine, are in every variety of Wood, such as black Walnut, Mahogany, Rosewood, Satinwood, and from the plainest to the most elaborate pattern and finish. The Machines themselves are plain or highly ornamented with pearl and gold to correspond with their tables or cabinets.

In the Singer the work is fed or passed through the Machine in the natural direction, namely, from the operator, permitting her to sit in a natural and healthy position. In many other Machines the work passes from right to left, or the reverse, compelling the operator to sit in a bent and unhealthy position, and thus causing weakness of the back, etc.

The Singer uses a SHORT STRAIGHT NEEDLE, which is not liable to break or miss the stitch. Many other Machines use a long crooked needle, which is liable to break and to miss the stitch.

In the Singer Machine the Shuttle is carried, thus avoiding nearly all wear. It requires no oil, and does not soil the thread or goods. Other Machines drive their Shuttles in a race, thus causing great wear, and requiring oil, soiling the thread and goods.

On the Singer, the Tension on both the upper and lower threads is absolutely under the ready control of the operator, thus rendering the Machine always available for good sewing, which is not the case with any other. Many so-called cheap Machines are really worthless, and so are many of their new peculiarities and supposed advantages.

The SINGER is the Oldest Practical Sewing Machine,

Being about twenty years in the market. Having been constantly improved by the employment of the most skilled ingenuity of the age and unlimited capital, it is now divested of all unnecessary parts and possesses All the Very Latest Inventions and Improvements. It is the only Machine sold on Honest Claims, as all the parts are Practical and will do all that is claimed for them. Some other Machines are Greatly Complicated, to do Useless and Silly things, and thus are rendered Liable to Constant Derangement. The Singer Seldom or Never gives trouble, but is readily and easily managed by those who utterly fail on other Machines.

SINGER'S

New Manufacturing Machines

Claim the same advantages over others of their class as the new Family Machines. These old and well-tried Sewing Machines are applicable to all kinds of heavy and light manufacturing in Cloths, Leather, etc., and run in the most perfect and reliable manner without trouble to the operator.

HAVE ARRIVED!

A Full Assortment of those

Beautiful and Unrivaled MACHINES.

(The numbers on which show a manufacture of between Five and Six Hundred Thousand.) Consisting of the Different Varieties made by the Singer Manufacturing Company and we shall sell at Eastern Prices, with addition of Freight only. To accommodate parties who cannot pay all down, we will sell on

EASY MONTHLY INSTALMENTS

So that all may possess one of these Blessings.

For the convenience of our Patrons we have engaged the services of a gentleman who has had twenty years experience and is one of the most skilful experts in the world in repairing and adjusting Sewing Machines. He will put each Machine in complete and practical running order before it leaves the Institution and will also impart to purchasers all needful instruction, so that they can at once commence work.

We resort to no trickery whatever to sell Sewing Machines, but allow their Great Merits to recommend them. We can do this, as the demand for them is so great that although the Singer Company make more than all other first-class companies combined, they cannot nearly fill their orders, and are compelled to still extend their Gigantic Works.

We having been so fortunate as to secure the General Central Agency,

For this Territory, we extend a cordial invitation to all to come and see the Machines, whether they wish to buy or not. See all others, but do not buy without you examine the Singer.

We Guarantee every Machine we sell to give entire satisfaction.
