

An Irish Arcadia.

THE MODEL TEMPERANCE MANUFACTURING VILLAGE OF BESSBROOK, OK.

John H. Richardson, the great manufacturer of linens, seems to have successfully solved the problem of giving employment to a community of 4,000 persons, whilst at the same time greatly benefiting them by surrounding them with every incentive to temperance and moral restraint.

Mr. Richardson is the owner of 6,000 acres of land at Bessbrook, Ireland, on which are quarries of blue granite and farms that are successfully worked, and in the middle of which is the village of Bessbrook, with the great mill, offices and warehouses of the Bessbrook Spinning Company.

The village is laid out with streets that are lined with little cottages for workmen, with larger houses for the mill officials, and there also is a beautiful villa occupied by the owner of the vast estate.

Every cottage has a door-yard decorated with flowers, and the property includes a public square to add to its attractiveness. There are shops of different kinds for the sale of articles required to meet the wants of the village, but the sale of beer and ardent spirits is forbidden, and there is not a police office, a police judge or a police station in the village, neither is there a pawn shop to be found.

The different denominations, of which there are five (including the Catholics), all live together in harmony, and four churches stand in close proximity upon a hill that looks out upon a beautiful landscape with its green fields and undulating surface as far as the distant Newry mountains.

The streets of the village are kept scrupulously clean, and the whole aspect of the place is one of extreme neatness. Mr. Richardson is a prominent member of the society of Friends, and is now on a visit to America, and expects to attend a yearly meeting of his society in Indiana. He has given so largely of his means and time to further the great cause of temperance in Ireland, having recently served as the presiding officer at meetings held there, that he will be welcomed in America by many who believe that next to slavery, intemperance is the greatest curse our fallen humanity has to contend with.—Ex

A LAND OF LUSCIOUSNESS.

THE GRAPES, BERRIES, CHERRIES, AND OTHER CHOICE FRUITS OF THE BLACK HILLS.

A correspondent writing from Deadwood, gives glowing accounts of the products of the Black Hills, from which we quote:

"The Black Hills is the home of the red raspberry. Near Garden City, on False-bottom Creek, there is a raspberry thicket five miles long and half a mile wide, and the vines stand as thick on the ground as wheat; the vines resemble the Clark raspberry. The berries have a finer size, color and flavor than the Clark raspberry. At the same time are more prolific than the Philadelphia berries. Thousands of gallons of these berries were picked by the miners and carried in baskets from six to ten miles to Deadwood, and sold at one dollar per gallon. I have never seen a black cap raspberry in the Hills. Blackberries flourish in great abundance on the foot hills around Centennial and Crook City.

Strawberries grow in great profusion in all the valleys, mountains, and foothills in the Black Hills. Thousands of acres of ground are covered with the vines. I have seen as large stools of wild strawberry plants in the Hills as in the States. The berries ripen in July. I have seen some very fine specimens growing wild upon the mountain side. I have no doubt but that as fine strawberries could be grown here as at any point in the world, if the improved varieties were brought here and properly cultivated. I have in the last few days seen whole acres of vines looking as fresh and green as any Fawcett or Decker can show at this season of the year.

The wild gooseberry plant almost reaches the dignity of trees. On Sawpit Gulch I have seen the plant growing as high as my head; the fruit is large size and abundant.

Wild currants are very plentiful along the gulches, red, white and black. The fruit compares favorably with the cultivated varieties in the States.

Wild cherries, or choke cherries as they are commonly called, are very abundant; the bushes are a little taller than the gooseberry, and in season are loaded with fruit. Some persons eat them and seem to like them very much. I am very fond of fruit, but I don't take much stock in choke cherries; but they certainly would make a very pretty ornament in the yard.

Wild plums grow in great variety on the foothills. Whole acres of plum trees are found near Crook and Centennial cities. Plums as large as the green gage, and of equal flavor; red plums, blue plums, yellow plums, and white plums grow in the greatest profusion, and not a curculio to molest or make them rotten or wormy. I don't think there is a curculio in the Black Hills.

Wild grapes grow in great abundance in the valleys along the foothills, although I have never seen a grape-vine near the mines. At Crook City and on the Red Water I have seen grapevines six inches in diameter.

The fruit is of the variety usually called fox or winter grapes in the States, and contains too much acid to be very palatable. But, owing to the dryness of the atmosphere here, I have no doubt but the cultivated grape could be raised in great perfection, especially the Concord, Clinton, and Norton's Virginia, and other hardy varieties. A grape would never mildew or rot here, and the season is plenty long to mature them. It is proven by the ripening of the wild grape, which is a month later maturing than the cultivated varieties in the States. Grapes grown here would be very rich in saccharine matter, consequently would make good wine.

The high-bush cranberry full of fruit is a beautiful sight. On the 10th of September I took a bushel basket and went up Whitewood creek to look for cranberries. After going up the creek about a mile from Deadwood, I found myself in a cranberry thicket, the bushes of which were about ten feet high when standing erect, but at the time I saw them the tops of the bushes were bent nearly to the ground with the weight of fruit. The high-bush cranberry resembles in the fruit the cultivated berry of the States, not quite so large or so acid, but of much finer flavor. In one hour I gathered a bushel of berries, and ate some of the best pies, jelly and jam made out of them.

Service berries, red and black haws grow here. Hazel nuts grow here in great quantities. Apples would do well. The season is too short for peaches.—Omaha Bee.

BERLIN, 5.

The Emperor has issued an order forbidding German officers on the active list from entering the Russian army.

The federal council has made important concessions to Alsace-Lorraine, having agreed to the proposals that the measures passed by the provisional board of representatives, if approved by the federal council, shall become law without the previous approval of the German Parliament.

—The Rev. J. T. Gardiner, ex-chaplain of the Duke of Buckingham, at a recent medical conference in England, said "that within one hundred yards of the Sailors' Home at Liverpool there were forty-seven public houses, and the publicans actually strewed sawdust on the pavement in front of them, and sprinkled rum over it, so that the smell of the spirit might decoy sailors within their doors."

—Mrs. Margaret Miller stole from the toy-shop where she worked lots of dolls, Noah's arks and jumping-jacks, and sent them to the children of the people who gave her children bread before she got employment. An exchange comments on the above thus:—"Well—you see—it is wicked and all that, and she was moved thereto by the devil and all that; but we move to commend her to the mercy of the court and all that."

—One of Mr. Gladstone's characteristics is held to be an irresistible desire to rush into print. He has so much to say, and he burns to say it. Those who are not his most ardent admirers say his fire can be "drawn" by anybody on any subject.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

"I had no appetite; Holloway's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Pills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Holloway has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured."

"Your box of Holloway's Ointment cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Ointment behind the ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes; I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose one dollar; your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail, for Chills and Fever."

I have over 200 such testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

For Cutaneous Disorders, and all eruptions of the skin, this Ointment is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS invariably cure the following diseases—

Disorder of the Kidneys.—In all diseases affecting these organs, whether they secrete too much or too little water; or whether they are afflicted with stone or gravel, or with aches and pains settled in the loins over the regions of the kidneys, these Pills should be taken according to the printed directions, and the Ointment should be well rubbed into the small of the back at bed time. This treatment will give almost immediate relief when all other means have failed.

For Stomachs Out of Order.—No medicine will so effectually improve the tone of the stomach as these Pills; they remove all acidity occasioned either by intemperance or improper diet. They reach the liver and reduce it to a healthy action; they are wonderfully efficacious in cases of spasms—in fact they never fail in curing all disorders of the liver and stomach.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are the best known in the world for the following diseases: Ague, Asthma, Bilious Complaints, Blisters on the Skin, Bowels, Consumption, Debility, Dropsy, Dysentery, Erysipelas, Female Irregularities, Fevers of all kinds, Fits, Gout, Headache, Indigestion, Inflammation, Jaundice, Liver Complaints, Lumbago, Piles, Rheumatism, Retention of Urine, Scrofula or King's Evil, Sore Throats, Stone and Gravel, Tic-Douloureux, Tumors, Ulcers, Worms of all kinds, Weakness from any cause, etc.

Important Caution.—None are genuine unless the signature of J. HAYDOCK, as agent for the United States, surrounds each box of Pills and Ointment. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

* Sold at the manufactory of Professor HOLLOWAY & Co., New York, and by all respectable druggists and dealers in medicine throughout the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62 cents and $1 each.

There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N.B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.
