BREVITIES.

Apples keep perfectly when packed with dried leaves.
A dethroned Indian Emperor is reviving falconry in England.
There are more than 1,200 varieties of the postage stamps of all nations.
A Philadelphia paper announces the death of Mrs. Linen Sheet, a widow.
A few days since a letter appeared directed to "Portland, Younighthead States."

In Wisconsin, it is said, they are successfully raising pears without seeds or cores.
Last year the Baptists increased 64,000, and now number, in this country, over 1,100,000.
The Perfect Diurnal, dated 1660, was the first daily paper published in England.

Apple trees in Florida have the advantage of holding their leaves all winter, like an evergreen.
An Iowa girl of sixteen killed a large lynx with a corn-outer, after it had whipped two dogs.

Demas Barnes, Brooklyn's representative in Congress, was formerly a poor boy. He is now 45 and a millionaire.
In a new French weekly the articles are all terse and brief, and to them is attached the name of a devil.

The latest traveler's story from China is that the lowest classes there live on earth, worms, and caterpillars.
It is proposed to erect a monument in honor of Gull d'Arrezzo, who eight hundred years ago, invented musical notation.

A Boston baker has invented a new kind of yeast. It makes bread so light that a pound of it only weighs twelve ounces.
The journalists of Prague who were convicted recently of publishing attacks on the Austrian Government, have been committed to solitary imprisonment with "fasting."

An extraordinary flood has been experienced in the north of India. In Ahmedabad alone 10,000 houses are computed to have been destroyed, involving a loss of £40,000.
When Sir Jacob Astley, who commanded the Royal Infantry at Edgehill, was about to charge, he uttered this prayer, "Lord, if I forget Thee, do not Thou forget me."

By a recent law in England, parents who neglect their children may be sent to prison for six months, and a similar penalty attaches to the husband who fails to maintain his wife.
Owls' heads and the most frightful skulls are now in Paris favorite patterns for ear-rings. Gold ducks, suspended from silver scissors, are likewise favorite patterns. Coral slippers, gold boots, and silver bells, are also to be seen.

The Paris Liberte says, that from the Amphitheatronic League (1496 B. C.) to the Treaty of Zurich, in 1859, not less than 8,997 treaties have been concluded, out of which one only has been respected—i. e., the Methuen Treaty between England and Portugal.
A doctor, in conversation with a lady, expressed his entire disbelief in a future state of existence, and received the following severe reply:

"I am not surprised, doctor, at your materialism, and that you should think your patients too effectually killed to come to life again."
A Kentucky gentleman has found a way to get rid of cockroaches. His house was mysteriously rid of them a few months ago, and he has since discovered them gathered in immense numbers in empty oyster cans, to which they had evidently been attracted by the odor.
New patent ear-rings are advertised in London. Some philanthropist proposes to put a stop to the semi-civilized practice of piercing the ears of little girls. These new ear-rings may be worn by ladies whose ears have not been pierced "without the slightest inconvenience or pain."

A curious electrical phenomenon was recently produced by lightning during a violent storm at Yonne, France. It struck a house, and, passing through one of the rooms, imperceptibly touched an oakwood bureau. One of the drawers contained about $100 in gold, silver, and copper, and on being opened, it was discovered that the whole was converted into one solid mass.
A young man in New Haven, recently, rushed into a drug store, and in great alarm asked the clerk if benzine was poisonous.
"No," said the clerk, "why."
"Because," said the fellow, "Father went to the closet to take down the gin bottle, and by mistake took several swallows before he knew anything about it."
"He is all right," replied the clerk. "The only difference between benzine and modern gin, is in the smell."
During a recent revival a clergyman accosted a young brother with the solemn question:
"Young friend, have you prayed tonight for the salvation of your immortal soul?"
"No, sir," replied the youth in a penitential tone, and with a downcast look.
"Do you not desire to offer up thanks for the many mercies you have already received by Divine favor?"
"Yes; but I don't know how," answered the youth.
"But, my dear boy, you can repeat the publican's prayer, can't you?" asked the minister.
"No, sir," was the emphatic response; "I'm a democrat."
