TRIBUNE GAVE NEWS, EH Yes, but the Deseret News Beat itt by More Than Half an Hour.

With a brazen effrontery that can only be equalled by its own mendacity a Salt Lake morning paper that was completely outdistanced yesterday afternoon in the laudable effort to get out an extra, today blew from its horn of praise and self-glorification, the following discordant and untruthful notes:

"As usual when anything of great importance transpires, the Tribune dis-tanced all competitors in getting the facts concerning the shooting of President McKinley before the public terday. The paper had an extra on the street at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, only a few minutes after the shooting, giving a brief and accurate story affair. Again, at 6, a second extra account of the affair, and presenting the latest report of the President's condition up to that hour.' Now, that is simply all bosh, so far as its first edition was concerned. At 3:30, the hour it claims to have got out its extra, the Deseret News, containing the first bulletin of the attempted as assination was being whirled away to Ogden and intermediately located towns while more than 2,000 copies had been sold on the street at that time. But that fact does not prevent the Tribune from the endeavor to crow its defeat into victory and thus deceive those intowho know no better. It is a solemn and ill advised time in which to indulge in that sort of business, but not too sol-emn or III advised for the Tribune. As to its second edition that contained more detail but in some respects that did not even approach the "News" reg-ular issued an hour before.

BRAKEMAN IS KILLED.

George Demling Falls From Train and is Fatally Injured.

George Demling, a young man employed as a brakeman on the Rio Grande Western, fell from his train last night and received fatal injurics. The accident occurred just north of Provo as the train was crossing a bridge over a gully Demling lost his footing and fell onto the bridge. He was picked up by the crew on the next train in an unconscious condition and brought to St. Mark's hospital. But he had sustained a bad concussion of the brain and did not survive but about an hour after reaching the city. He was a popular youth, but was unmarried and was about 25 age. He formerly lived at 163 South First West street but a few months years of

One car was got out and the men started to get out the others. At this juncture the engineer turned off the power. All hands endeavored to move the cars by manual power but were forced to flee cordially invited to these services and before the great heat and suffocating meetings.

NO. 1 DEPARTMENT CALLED.

It seemed an age to the waiting mcn re the fire apparatus arrived, but the horses were doing their best and they long run. As soon as No. 2 ar rived Assistant Chief McCarthy took in the situation at a glance and promptly turned in a call for No. 1 In the meantime Engineer H. P. Burt and Fireman P. Rasmussen stood pluckily to their furnaces. The big whistle had been tied down and the men worked hard to draw their fires and open the valves so as to avert the threatened explosion of the big boil after the fire reached them. Had the boilers exploded there would have been awful havoc among the huge crowd which gathered from all parts of the city to witness the fire. As it was Officers Sperry and Johnston had their work cut out to keep back the press from the danger zone. During the pro-cess of pressing back the throng Vivian

McCune and his little boy approached dangerously near the burning building "Get back there," shouted Office Sperry "I will do nothing of the sort, iswered McCune, "I am one of

By 8:35 the fire was practically out although the hose was playing on the ruins long after midnight. At this time the power plant proper was started up and the cars all over the Rapid Transit system once more were running after a lapse of over two hours. When the excitement had somewhat subsided it was found that "Old Nig." the valuable trained horse of the re-pair wagon, had escaped from the burning stable. The old fellow, who i great favorite among the employes had broken his halter and stampeded from the burning stable with the loss of several square inches of burned hide. The other animal, however, was not so fortunate and death overtook him in his stall. SUPT. READ TALKS.

When seen this morning Superintendent Read said in regard to the fire "While I have not as yet had time to go thoroughly into the subject loss in last night's fire, I can safely say that it will take every cent of $80 600 to replace what we have lost. I do not know who the loss will fall on greater-us or sepublic. There were twenty cars burned up, and nearly all of them were winter cars. If I were to place an order for more cars today it would be impossible to have that order filled and the cars running here before six or even nine months from date. Of course we might buy up some old worthless stock that would no good, but even then it month before they arrived possibly do not just know how we are going to set along, for this fire is going to cause a lot of inconvenience to the pub-lic. But then," he added after a pause, "of course we will do the best we can under the circumstances." This afternoon the insurance men and the street car officials went down to the scene of the fire in order to get to a definite understanding as to the loss and the cause of the fire.
