SENATE.

Territorial Railroad Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, 13.—At the expiration of the morning hour Carpenter was entitled to the floor on his Louisiana election bill, but he gave way for the Territorial Railroad bill. The vote agreeing to Wadleigh's amendment on Friday was reconsidered, the amendment was modified so as to give to Congress only the power to alter or repeal the act, and was then agreed to.

Carpenter interrupted the proceedings by asking that his Louisiana bill be made the special order for to-morrow after the morning hour. A long discussion ensued, Sherman and Morton opposing wasting time with the Louisiana bill, and Carpenter, Saulsbury and Tipton urging its importance, ending with Carpenter giving notice that he would move, to-morrow, to take up the bill at the expiration of the morning hour, and Sherman notifying that he would call for a vote on the motion.

The railroad bill was then resumed. Howe moved an amendment giving the legislature of any State formed out of a Territory in which a railroad authorized under the act may be located, the same power over the corporation as over one of its own erection; agreed to. Amendments were also agreed to, providing that the United States shall not be charged more than private parties for transportation, and making every stockholder in such a railroad liable for all the debts of the co-operation to an amout equal to his stock at the time the debts were created, at par value. The bill passed 20 to 18.

HOUSE.

A Row over Postal Contracts.

WASHINGTON, 13.—Stone moved to suspend the rules to adopt a resolution reciting gross abuses and irregularities in letting the mail contracts, and providing for an investigation of such abuses. The motion was not seconded by the majority.

Beck called attention to the fact that every Democrat voted for, and every Republican against, the motion.

Stowell, a member of the post office committee, said Stone had an opportunity of making his proofs before the committee, which would give him a hearing to-morrow.

Packer, chairman of the committee, made a like statement, and said that without the preamble the resolution was unobjectionable.

Page charged that a statement had been telegraphed to the press of California at the instigation of Luttrell, to the effect that he, Luttrell, was trying to get up the investigation, but could not, a statement which Page declared was false, and that Luttrell came before the committee, and was requested to put his charges in writing and sign them, that he afterwards came when there was no quorum, and then these dispatches were sent.

Luttrell, while denying the authorship of the dispatch, declared they were true, and continued—"My colleague is very sensitive. I stated to him and to the committee that serious charges had been preferred in regard to certain post-office transactions, that I was not disposed to implicate the P. M. General, but that there had been a post-office ring formed, which was defrauding the government, and had defrauded it to the amount of a hundred thousand dollars. I afterwards went before the committee, as agreed to, but my colleague did not appear and there was no quorum. I make these charges on authority, the very best in my State, Republicans who would be ashamed of the action of their representatives here to-day. I do not come here with Leland Stanford's collar around my neck, labelled as the tool of monopoly. I come as the representative of working men." A scene of confusion ensued, Page and Lutterell both gesticulating, and both speaking. The members gathered on the aisles in front of the Speaker's desk, and it was with the greatest difficulty that order was finally restored.

Tyner, a member of the postal committee, said that all Stowe's charges were before the committee last Congress, and were fully investigated; and that though the evidence showed the department had been victimized by straw bids, no official had been implicated.

Randall, another member of the committee, did not quite agree with Tyner.

Page returned to the charge, and read a dispatch to the Sacramento Union, which he said was investigated by Luttrell, and which made statements not true. His colleague had been required by the committee to put his charges in writing, and to sign them, and he had refused to sign them.

Luttrell: "Are you not a contractor yourself, sir?"

Page: "Yes sir, I am, and I have a right to be." (Sneers and laughter.) "Whenever my colleague wants to discuss my rights to be a contractor I will do so with him before the House."

Luttrell: "Not at all, nor do I want to discuss the course which my colleague pursues either, it is perfectly natural."

After a further excited colloquial discussion the resolution was referred to the postal committee, and the House adjourned.

McCullough "Starring" in Chicago.

CHICAGO, 13.—John McCullough opened at the Academy of Music to-night, in the "Gladiator," to one of the largest, most fashionable and enthusiastic audiences ever seen here at a dramatic entertainment.

Arrival of the "Greece."

NEW YORK, 13.—The steamer Greece brought 37 cabin and 182 steerage passengers, and a hundred and sixty of the crew and the mails of the wrecked Europe. The account given by the officers of the Greece of the meeting with the Europe are substantially the same as that of the salvage crew, brought to Liverpool by the Egypt; but there is a marked discrepancy in their statements and those of the Europe's officers as to the condition of the latter and of the circumstances attending their rescue. The captain of the Greece says the Europe had but seven feet of water in the middle compartment when first boarded, and that it only increased a foot during the night, and that the vessel might have been saved. Captain Lemaire, of the Europe, complains that he was treated infamously by the officers of the Greece, that they would not allow him to return to the Europe after he came aboard the Greece, that they made no effort to save the baggage or cargo, though it could have been done notwithstanding the terrible sea. One of the passengers on the Europe says that perfect order and discipline prevailed on the Europe, and the passengers were unaware of the danger until the Greece was signalled to take them off. Another passenger accuses the French officers of cowardice, and says they refused to allow them to save the baggage. The transfer of the passengers was effected without accident or loss of life.

Ecclesiastical Bills Passed—The Bishops Withdraw.

VIENNA, 13.—The Emperor Francis Joseph has sent a conciliatory reply to the Pope's recent protest against the ecclesiastical bill; it is understood that the opposition of the Vatican is merely formal. The upper house of the Reichsrath, today, passed the ecclesiastical bills, whereupon the bishops withdrew in a body.

Much Ado About a Wedding.

Here is a good story which has not yet found its way into print, but for the truth of which I can vouch. Lord George Gordon, a young man of four-and-twenty, wishing to marry a certain young lady, went quite recently to ask the permission of his father, the Duke of Argyle. The Duke, a pompous little man, replied in effect: "My son, since our house has been honored by being united with the royal family, I have thought it right to delegate a decision on all such matters to your elder brother, the Marquis of Lorne. Go, therefore, and consult him." The Marquis of Lorne, on being applied to, said: "My dear brother, in a case of importance like this I should think it right to ask the decision of the Queen, the head of the royal family, into which I have married." The Queen, on the matter being laid before her, declared that since her terrible bereavement she had been in the habit of taking no steps without consulting the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, the brother of her deceased husband. To the Duke, then, the case was referred, and from him a letter was received telling his dear sister-in-law that recent political events had induced him to do nothing, even as to the giving of advice, without the express concurrence of the Emperor William, before whom he had laid the matter. The Emperor William wrote a long letter, declaring that though he was surrounded by counselors there was only one who had on all occasions proved himself correct, loyal and faithful, and without whose advice he (the Emperor) would give no decision. Therefore, he had referred the matter to his faithful minister, Prince Bismarck.

And it is narrated that when Prince Bismarck was made acquainted with the subject, he roared out, "Gott in Himmel, what a fuss about nothing! Let the boy marry whom he pleases, so long as she is young and pretty."—London Correspondence New York Herald.
