GOV. GOODING ON THE ORCHARD CASE

Chief Executive of Idaho Tells Story of the Confessions Of Suspects.

HOW ADAMS CAME TO TELL.

He Was More Than Anxious to Give Away the Secrets of the Conspiracy.

Special Correspondence.

DOISE, Feb. 8.-An official admission by Gov. Gooding that both Harry Orchard and Steve Adams had made confession of their complicity in the Steunenberg and numerous other murders committed by them on the demand of the inner circle of the Western Federation of Miners, has been made within the past few days. The governor has avoided going into any details relative to the offenses admitted, but his admission of the fact of confessions having been received has given the public a better idea of just what the state's case against Moyer, Hay-the state's case against Moyer, Hay-wood, Pettihone and St. John will con-sist of. Gov. Gooding in telling of the Orchard and Adams confession said: "There has never been any doubt as to the truth of these confessions, among those familiar with the crimes of which the two men tell. They have told the same story of the commission of the offenses in which each had a hand, and each has told a similar story of the planning and carrying out of a number of assasignations by the accused men. of assassinations by the accused men, through one of the other of the narra-tors. These stories of murder by contors. These stores of mutar by com-plicacy have nearly all been proven up on to a large extent at least, and the state is still engaged in investigations. So far, the statements received have tallied exactly with the facts discovered.

FERFECT HARMONY.

"It is a great pleasure to state that no three man could have worked togeth-er in greater harmony than have James McParland, the detective who secured the confessions; James H. Hawley, the leading coursel for the state, and my-coursel for the state, and myself. There has never been a tendency toward friction between us, and no man could have asked more loyal support that I have received from these two gentlemen in the great task of clear-ing up this blot on the distory of Idaho.

BELIEVES THEM GUILTY.

"The arrest of accused men is evi-dence that the state is firmly impressed with a belief in the guilt of the accused parties. But I certainly have no desire to see them punished unjustly. I am as anxious as any of their friends to see them given a fair and impartial trial, and I am fully convinced that there will be no difficulty in securing such a trial at the hands of the people of Canyon county and the people of Jeaho. There is no disposition to do

I have seen and talked with Grehard since the confes-sion was made, and he told me that he had teccived no promises of elemency or offers of reward for telling the truth, but that he felt he could not face the hereafter with these crimes unexposed. berg murder, was given from a desire

ADAMS WAS ANXIOUS. "It was several days after the arrest of Moyer, Haywood and Petithone in Denver before the state could locate Steve Adams on a homestead about 12 miles from Baker City. It had pre-viously been learned that Adams was endeavoring to break away from the influences of the inner circle of the Western Federation, and that he had not even permitted Moyer and the oth-ers with whom he was connected to know of his whereabouts. As soon as he was arrested it was evident from his manner that although difficult, a statement could be secured from him. Detective McPariand returning from Denver called on Adams and engaged Detective McParland returning from Denver called on Adams and engaged him in conversation. Adams had pre-viously had opportunity for sober thought under the threatening shadow of the gallows, and saw the futility of further secrecy. Within a few days he was anxious to give away the se-crets of the conspiracy with which a reign of terror had been inaugurated in Colorado, and attempted in Idaho.

THE DENVER PAPERS.

"There has been a studied attempt made by certain newspapers in Denver made by certain newspapers in Denver to create class prejudice in the interest of the accused. Stories of ill treatment accorded Moyer, Haywood, Pettibone and St. John at the state penitentiary, where they are being kept, on account of the poorness of the county jail at Caldwell, have been published, together with fairy tales of the contentions aris-ing between myself and the chief coun-sel for the state, the statement being sel for the state, the statement being made that Mr. Hawley had threatened to withdraw from the case. Of course these things are unfortunate, because while faise sympathy for the accused is aroused among the unthinking in Colorado, the righteous indignation of the people of Idaho is thereby aroused, and thou are strengthened in their deand they are strengthened in their de-termination to see strict justice done. As a matter of fact there was no truth in any of these strictures. The prison-ers have been well cared for, they have been permitted to see their attorneys, have been furnished papers, and have been well lodged and well fed and permitted ample opportunity for exercise, so that none of them have any just cause for complaint, nor so far as I have learned have any of the accused made any complaint."

SUSPECTS ARRAIGNED.

SUSPECTS ARRAIGNED. Today at 3 o'clock Moyer, Haywood and Petibone were taken from the state penitentiary to Caldwell and ar-raigned, charged with the murder of ex-Gov. Frank Steunenberg. These, with Harry Orchard, and others whose names are not given out, were indicted yesterday by the grand jury at Cald-well. Orchard was not taken with the other prisoners for arraignment today for the reason that the authori-ties feared taking the whole bunch out ties feared taking the whole bunch out at one time.

In the arraignment of the prisoners, Atty. Miller for the defense, objected to the jurisdiction of the court, allegng that the prisoners were unlawfully and wrongfully brought from Colorado to Idaho. He asked time in which to file a motion to quash the indictments. ADAMS AND ST. JOHN.

From a reliable source it is learned that no indictments were returned by the grand jury against Steve Adams and Vincent St. John, charged Gov. Steunenberg. The reason for this being that not sufficient evidence was their service. produced before the grand jury went in session to connect them with the crime committed.

Mountainhome, on the Oregon Short Line, 25 miles away, is the nearest station.

MORE LANDS SOLD.

Another sale of state lands took place on Tuesday last in the city of Coeu d'Alene. These lands were timbered and the sale is regarded as an impor-tant one to the state. Twenty-five thousand eight hundred dollars was paid the state by the B. B. Lewis Lam-her company for one section. Five paid the state by the B. B. Lewis Lum-ber company for one section. Fivs dollars per thousand feet was paid for that part of the tract covered with white pine, and $2 per thousand for the remaining portion, the latter price be-ing the appraised valuation.

ing the appraised valuation. This price is regarded as being very high, as compared with prices formerly paid, which did not reach the present price by half. This is due principally to the activity in the building, which feature was wholly lacking formerly, the timber companies having procured the timber practically at their own es-timates and their own prices. Another reason is the convenient location of the section. It lies very near the river's edge and within eight miles of Cosurd' d'Alene City.

ADAMS FOR WITNESS.

It is stated, however, that Adams is considered by the prosecution of greater service as he now stands, for greater service as he now stands, for the reason that to indict him would, in a way, disqualify him for acting as a witness for the state.
