Be not sorry that men do not know you, but be sorry that you are ignorant of men.

The dog in the kennel barks at his fleas: the dog that is busy hunting does not feel them.

the judge, in which he styled him an "Onorable jug"

An English physician reports that among the poor, rubbing the soles of the feet with garlic is very popular as a preventive against disease.

teenth century.—Ec.

Prairie Chicken, the athletic and accomplished daughter of his excellency Navy Plug, the big chief of the South Sioux nation, can walk off under a bigger back-load of buffalo beef than any other squaw in the Buckskin basin.

Jim Nye, referring to the peculiarity of Ben Butler's physiognomy, says: When you see a man whose eye wants to grow through the bridge of his nose, stand out of his way.

A couple of children were lost at Delhi, Ia., recently, and much grieving was done, the church bells were rung and the whole village were organized for search, when it was suggested to look in their bedroom for them, and there the little innocents lay, fast asleep and unconscious of the excitement they had caused.

The most affectionate man in California is ex-Senator Latham. He has lately made a little present to his wife Mary, "in consideration of natural love and affection," as the deed of conveyance recites. It consists of a house and grounds in the choicest part of San Francisco, and is valued at $300,000 in gold.

Dr. Franklin recommends a young man, in the choice of a wife, to select her from a bunch, giving as a reason that when there are many daughters they improve each other, and from emulation acquire more accomplishments and know more and do more than a single child spoiled by parental fondness.

Cavalry criticism.—Adjutant (to riding master)—"Ah, there's Mr. Quick-step!" (Who had just exchanged into the regiment from the infantry.) "How does he get on?" Riding Master—"Well, sir, I think he's the hosiest gen'lman afut—and the fustiest gen'lman on a hos that ever I've met with since I've been in the reg'ment!"

The New Orleans Times has the following: Mr. Jefferson having invited Patrick Henry to dine at one of the artistic feasts, the chef d'oeuvre of his celebrated French cook, was mortified to find that the Governor declined to partake of each and every one of the elegant and elaborate creations of the accomplished Frenchman's art. At last having run through the carte, the President begged that Governor Henry would say what he would have. "I will thank you, sir, for some bacon and greens," was the eager reply. Mr.
Jefferson could hardly restrain his surprise at so novel a demand, and begged that the Governor would excuse him, on account of his long absence from Virginia, for forgetting that there was such a dish still in demand among civilized people as "bacon and greens."

Mr. Henry never forgot the reproof, and when he returned to Virginia he denounced Mr. Jefferson "as a traitor to his natural victuals." On the other hand, Mr. Jefferson left on record his opinion of Patrick Henry "as a man of low taste and vulgar association."

LIGHT CLOTHING.—In clothing the human body this principle should be kept constantly in view, viz: let the clothing be as light as possible consistent with comfort. Every pound of clothing beyond this constitutes a useless and constant burden. Besides this, it presses upon and interferes with the action of the skin. Adherence to this principle also implies an equal distribution of clothing over the entire body.
