

Daniel Spencer's family came contrary to the laws of our country, or that have ever in any way upheld them, and I have no doubt of my position to you who are best acquainted with us all to answer. After suffering such use at length arrived at the plains where we spent the winter, and then, through most of the winter, from the sick and dead. We lost 50 or 40 head of cattle at this place by Indians and other causes. In the January, 1874, we started for the Great Mountains, in company with about 600 wagon, all that could fit our bad season. Brother Hume's family and our own had about 60 head of cattle, and we had a few horses and mules and provisions for one year. We took westerly course in the Platte river, travelling on a level bottom from one to ten miles in width, plenty of feed

Drover Spencer Esq, Dear Brother-
You will perhaps be anxious to be in this city. But so it is In the economy of airs that I have taken up my residence in this city for a season. This is a very important business. I have not for many fore sents of which I have the charge. I expect to call in ten thousands of British and foreign as soon and fast as I can make arrangements for them.
At an early period I intend to publish a weekly paper. The wars I contrabutions of the day are such it is expedient to get our foreign on the ground of the great as soon as possible. We have also for mayor by acclamation, and in response to a call made a speech, their nominations were as follows: Recorder, W. B. Erekson; treasurer, William Bishop; attorney, D. W. Moffatt; marshal, Michael Mauns; justice of the peace, Joseph Ulmer. There was a spirited contest between Ulmer and C. E. Hanks for the nomination of justice, but Ulmer won out, there were no contests in the other nominations.

Among the headliners are costumes, and the appointments, due to the scene being laid in Alaska, all admitted of highly picturesque treatment, and the jewelry and dresses were a constant source of surprises.

The female contingent is unusually good looking and graceful. More than all, the company boasts of several gals who know how to sing. Mr. Ward and Mr. Mattfield, leading in the duet songs, Webb and Mr. Ward, two comedians, aided by Mr. Miles as the clever "Tenderloin," are fun going at a fast and lively rate. Miss Brown and Miss Adair, though neither of them is a singer, are popular actresses, and a good share of entertainment was due to their parts.

Take Care. There are three children of which the wife asks the custody.

"PREPS" ORGANIZE.

Students at University Below College Grade Meet to Elect Officers.

The University of Utah preparatory students met at noon today to complete their organization, a number of those elected last year having failed to report for work this season. Willard Richards was chosen president; Jean Winters, secretary; Verne Deane, treasurer; E. W. McIntyre and Victor Olson, auditors; representatives, and Jane Wood, member of the executive committee.

As Douglas Swan, Jr., is now at Democratic headquarters in the Windsor hotel, and with Chairman Ashby Snow will be at home to visitors from now on.

The "American" campaign is well financed, although it is not yet announced how much Mr. Willard Snyder gave to construct for the treasurer's ship nomination which was handed in by his brother.

Despite the presence of much funds, however, there is no tendency to pay out the large amount of which are said to be an inheritance from the days Mr. Lippman manipulated the Keams barrel for the party benefit.

GENEALOGICAL MEETING.

Largely Attended Session of Daughters of the Pioneers.

The large assembly room of the L. House was crowded yesterday on the occasion of a special meeting held by the Daughters of the Pioneers. The gathering was principally for the benefit of conference visitors, but many club members were also in attendance.

Mrs. Susan Young, L. House president of the society, extended a hearty welcome to all present, and explained the objects of the organization. She urged the forming of county societies, and gave suggestions as to how they should be proceeded with.

An eloquent address on "Patriotism" was delivered by John O. McQuarrie, President of the Eastern States mission. Messrs. Stearns and John W. Summerhays sang the quartet, "The Flag Breaks," accompanied on the organ by Prof. Ewen Stephens.

After the meeting, Duncan M. McAllister, recorder of the Salt Lake Territorial court, gave his second report of his efforts on genealogical work. The central board of the Daughters of the Pioneers will meet Friday next, at which time the report of the president

Ab. Howell, Football Star, is Now an Ohio Bootblack.

Ab. Howell, the noted Salt Lake high school football player who went to Michigan university, is said to be blacking boots in a Toledo, O., barber shop. He went to Ann Arbor under favorable auspices, and while in college, was assistant instructor in the college gymnasium, but he is said to have become enamored of the dusky charms of an attraction in black enamel, and gave up his college career to marry her. They are reported to have been "bluesed" with a collection of pickaninies, and Howell has fallen from his intellectual estate. He has influential friends in Salt Lake who tried to push him ahead at college, but he dropped back on them, and they stood from away, and had to let him go his own way.

The politicians for revenue only in the "American" party are more plentiful, and more completely in control than ever before in the party's history. An inner circle, with victory this fall, will certainly keep those overdraft balances away up in the next season.
