This theoretical statement, from an unblased, scientific standpoint, is abundantly confirmed by experience. The cool and bracing coast climate, devoid of any trace of malaria, extends from the northern part of the State to the extreme south. There is the choice between this cool, humid atmosphere and the dry, warm atmosphere of the inland valleys.

Of altitude there is a yet greater difference. From Palm Valley, 309 feet below sea level, to the upper Sierras, 7,000 or 8,000 above, any alti-tude can be selected, and comfortable homes be founded.

The peculiarity of an almost rainless summer, during which the inju-rious germs of animal and vegetable decay are destroyed by thorough desiccation, is one of the striking features of California climate. During the rainy season it is usually through the several coast openings, are tempered by the intermediate area passed over, and often receive desir-able healing properties by taking up the resinous odors of the pines and redwoods on the Coast Range. The skillful physician, scoulinted with the climatic conditions, should find little difficulty in selecting a lo-cality where climate and environment cality where climate and environment will do all that these agencies can will do all that these agencies can ever do toward the restoration of health. There is enough of wildness to keep the mind constantly engaged, and enough of civilization to satisfy the most exacting.

People whose systems are charged with malaria, or are "run down" by overwork, find immediate ond in many cases permanent relief in this invig-

MEDICINAL SPRINGS.

Those in California Equal to the Best in Europe.

How many of those who go to the European springs for their health real-ize that in the one state of California there are more and a greater variety of medicinal springs than in all the European countries combined? It is a fact, however. There is no disorder for which medicinal waters can af-ford relief but that finds its natural remedy in California. Every imagin-able kind of mineral springs there ex-ists, some hot and others cold. There are splendid swimming lakes of nat-urally hot medicinal waters of many kinds. As a rule, the yield of water from these California springs is re-markably free, so that no one is stinted. Scores of the more noted are pro-vided with comfortable buildings and every other adjunct for the comfort and cure of invailds, many of them being fashionable resorts for people who really do not need the use of the healing waters. The charges are moderate and the patronage large. A very important element of the

A very important element of the popularity and efficiency of California is the delicious and healing climate. No climate so bland, so generous, so invigorating, can be found in any country of Europe. It is worth some-thing to the mind and the body to be surrounded by fruits and flowers every day in the year, and to be absolutely sure of freedem from malarial poison-ing. The climate possibly doubles the healing value of springs which in healing value of springs which in themselves are the finest and most beneficial in the world.
