

they had been all day Friday and Friday night. On Saturday they left the Warwick block and took a room at the Montana House, No. 254 west South Temple street, where they were found yesterday. Mr. Bowden approached his wife and asked her if she would come with him, which she gladly consented to do, when the Horn girl stepped up and pulled her back. Mr. Bowden pushed the girl away and escorted his wife to the house of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. McNeal living at No. 1012 south First West street.

A News reporter called on Mr. Bowden this morning, who said that he and his wife had always lived peaceably together, but that the girl seemed to have exercised so much power over her that his wife had lost all self-control. She had no object in view in leaving and felt very much grieved over what she had done, and declares that she will never do so again. Mr. and Mrs. Bowden are well spoken of by their neighbors and are highly esteemed by all who know them.

TERRITORIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Price (Carbon county) Advocate: Constable Millner has been scouring the country for Taylor Willson, wanted at Wellington for attempted rape. A hundred thousand pounds of Vernal wool was sold here on Monday for $9.55 per hundred. This is about the best price of the year and finished the clip in this part of the Territory.

Nephi Blade: Mareer and his squaw, Mary; Bilt and his better half Ada, all of Deseret, were in Nephi during the week, marketing their harvest of wool. Old Mareer is a kind of celebrity, having participated in the massacre of Captain Gunnison and party on October 26, 1853, at a point on the Sevier river about six miles west of Deseret. The entire party was disgusted at the low price of wool, although as they say, it is "mepooch wyno" as compared with last season.

Payson Globe: Our city was visited by a miniature cyclone on Wednesday which lasted for about five minutes, filling the air with dust and flying debris. Limbs were twisted from trees, trees blown down, doors slammed and smashed, goods boxes carried away and one house blown down. The house was that of John Goins, along the road between the two railroad depots. It was a new house which had not yet been completed, which accounts for it not being able to withstand the severe wind. It was completely demolished and will be quite a loss to Mr. G. ins.

Coalville Times: There is some talk of several citizens of Peoa and Oakley selling out and moving to Star valley, Uinta county, Wyoming, next spring. If this be the case there will be some good farms for sale, which can be had on reasonable terms. The June frost at Hoytville is worse than reported. It has killed the entire crop of fall wheat. The young ladies of Echo take great pleasure in hunting squirrels. Three of them went out last Friday armed with guns, strychnine and clubs. They returned in the evening with their faces covered with smiles and reported that they had taken the lives of over seventy of the ground pests.

Manti Messenger: A. H. Parsons has been entertaining his friend Mr. Guyman from Hamilton, Illinois, during the week. The gentleman is somewhat surprised at Utah and her products. Irrigation seems to be the greatest wonder. He will visit Castle valley next week and return to the East via the Rio Grande Western railway. Marshal George Lowry, of Moroni, brought in three prisoners Thursday afternoon. They are convicted of robbing a store in Moroni and sentenced to twenty days in the county jail. It is rumored that when their time is served they will be arrested on the charge of attempting to rob the bank at Nephi.

Bingham Bulletin: And now it seems that Carr Fork is to be credited with another great mine, the Yampa, for a three foot body of fine galena ore has been this week opened up on that property. The Yampa, up to within a week or so ago, has been idle for over two years past, but a small force of men were recently put to work sinking a shaft from the upper tunnel level about twenty feet in from the mouth of the tunnel, and after sinking about twelve feet the workers were rewarded by the valuable find above mentioned. Some boulders of solid galena weighing 150 pounds each have been taken out. A body of exceedingly high-grade ore is said to have been opened up on the Old Telegraph this week.

Park City Record: The school board has called an election for Wednesday, July 31st, upon which date the legal voters of school district No. 12, will have a chance to vote for or against the issuance of bonds in the sum of $8,000, payable in ten years and bearing not more than 6 per cent interest. The object of the bond issue is to raise funds for building a schoolhouse in the First ward, and thus supply the needed increase of educational facilities. Another one of those distressing accidents, caused by the explosion of a small plug of powder that failed to go off when a round of holes was fired, happened at Ontario No. 3 shaft Saturday morning, and as a result David O'Higgin will lose his left eye besides having his face badly marked by flying rock. The accident happened in the usual way—by striking a pick into the powder.

American Fork Item: Dick and Ike Wadley, of Pleasant Grove, Amos and Joe Adams and Leo T. Snellley, of this city, are at work on the Lion Cave up the canyon. The property is in the hands of Wadley & Devey, who have struck some fine onyx there. The men are excavating in order to get at the onyx handy. Two car loads have been contracted for and will be shipped as soon as they can take it out. On Monday night Tom Crompton and Andrew Crookston, two young bloods of this city, were locked up by Marshal King for disturbing the peace. They came up before his honor next morning and plead guilty, and were fined $4 each. They preferred working it out, so were put to cleaning up the streets. On Wednesday morning Andrew Pulley was brought up for stealing water and paid $7.50 into the city fund for his offense.

Brigham City Bugler: We were informed, Wednesday, that Andrew May, the young man at Callisfort who recently had a derrick line run through his breast, is much better. Mr. May will be able to be out in a week or two. The new roller mill at Honeyville is fast nearing completion. A large force of carpenters and other mechanics have been rushing things, and now the structure is completed and ready for the machinery. "Do you chew tobacco?" That was the question put in turn to a crowd of Brigham men by a tobacco agent, Monday. The agent handed samples to each man as he repeated the above question. All declined, saying "I do not chew tobacco." "Well this is the crowd I ever struck," ejaculated the surprised händler of the weed. At this juncture a drayman walked up, covered with coal dust. "Ah, here is a man that chews," said the agent as he confidently approached the perspiring drayman. "No I don't," answered the young man firmly, as he declined the proffered plug. The agent was thunderstruck. He seemed never to have had such an experience before. That was a commendable cold shoulder shown by that Brigham crowd. Last week, while Mrs. C. A. Kaiser of this city, was in her garden picking raspberries, she was stung by a small spider. In a short time the arm began to swell as if from poison. The lady has suffered terribly since from the bite. The whole arm grew large, the fingers became stiff and refused to respond to the will, and the arm turned almost black. At one time it was feared the patient would either lose her arm or her life. The latest news is that Mrs. Kaiser is better and that the injured arm will be saved. Our Clear Creek correspondent writes: A painful accident occurred at the home of Newton Neal on the 6th inst., by which Miss Ida Neal and her sister Jennie came very near losing their lives. They were making firecrackers and lighting them in close proximity to a can of powder. A spark of fire ignited the can, and the powder exploded in their faces, which were badly burned. Ida also sustained several bad wounds, her clothing having caught fire. She had presence of mind enough to throw herself into the creek and extinguish the flames. Their parents have our heartiest sympathy. Monday morning, Thomas Whalen, a miner of about 50 years of age, met his death in a mine over beyond Bluk Hole, about a dozen miles southeast of Brigham. Whalen has worked many years in Nevada mines. He has a wife in Ohio. The deceased and his son were working the mine. The boy was at the mouth of the shaft receiving the ore, while his father was at the foot of the 45-foot hole loading the buckets. The deadly gases in the hole suddenly took hold of the miner and he was unable to reach the surface. The son saw the terrible agony and the horror of the situation, but he was powerless to render immediate assistance. So he rushed for help, a distance of several miles. When the rescuers arrived the miner was dead. The deceased was an old Union soldier and was given a proper burial in the Brigham City cemetery Wednesday morning.

CARSON, Nev., July 23. — Carson capitalists are considering a plan of offering $25,000 for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight if it cannot be pulled off in Texas.
