LIVELY FIRE.

Alarm in the Constitution Building Creates a Flurry Among Tenants.

A great deal of noise and lots of excitement was occasioned this morning shortly before noon by an alarm of fire coming from the Constitution building, but fortunately no loss was sustained and no one was injured. A small blaze was started in the basement near the elevator shaft, caused by a workman overturning a candle in some rags and rubbish. An alarm was quickly turned in and the firemen from Nos. 1 and 2 responded in a hurry. The firemen at the latter station were working on the old truck when the gong struck, but they made remarkable quick time in hitching and getting to the scene of the excitement. Chief Bywater was at No 2 at the time and made a good run. The cries of fire caused a flurry in the building but as soon as the fire fighters arrived quiet was restored and no dam.

MEANS CUTTING THE FORCES.

Consolidation Will be Instrumental In Reduction of Number of Office Men and Employes Generally.

The following special to the New York Commercial from Scattle in regard to the consolidation of the Harriman roads holds good equally as well as far as Salt Lake and Ogden are con-

Men identified with traffic departments are wondering what effect the probable consolidation of transcentinental will have in the combining of offices and the concentration of authority and work. The Union Pacific and Southern Pacific already have a union office here, the individual offices of these two roads having been consolidated two years ago. The Great Northern, Northern Pacific and the Burlington, however, still have independent agencies for both freight and passenger bus-

During the life of the Northern Se curities company, in its original form, was the general understanding of railroad men connected with the merger roads that a consolidation of of-fices would not be attempted while the suit against the company was pending. Now that it has been deprived of legal status, and a redistribution of stock is to be made upon a plan that is to bring transcontinental lines into a close community of interest, traffic men are wondering what the future has in store for

When the offices of the Union Pacific and the Southern Paoific here were con-solidated the men singled out for decapitation received letters instructing them to turn over the books and papers and office fixtures to other individuals, with the further notice that on and after a certain date their services would no longer be required. Some had been in the service of the companies for 10 years. In speaking of this, a well known

"Railroad employes, as a rule, do as much and as capable service for the remuneration received as men engaged in any other line of industry. They de vote themselves to their duties with signal fidelity. This is owing to the feeling that if faithful and efficient they will not lack for employment. For this reason railroad employes usually are secure in their positions. Just now that sense of security is somewhat shaken by possibilities that confront men so engaged.

of transportation for all the Harriman lines foreshadows what is coming, and may reasonably be expected in other directions. Solicitation of traffice is largely competitive. But if two great competing lines should abolish direct solicitation there would remain them just as much business as before, Railroad officers and stockholders understand this, and Mr. Harriman has not only brought it home in a forceful way, but he has also demonstrated be yond question how the idea works out along practical application—that it is not a theory, and they are quite likely to take advantage of the lesson."

A SMALL BLAZE

Causess Alarm in Security Trust Building. What under some circumstances, might have developed into an extremely destructive fire started this morning in the basement of the new Security, Trust Building. While electrical workers were busy in that part of the building, a lighted candle in the hands of one of them ignited a large piece of burlap, and a moment later smoke was issueing through the elevator shaft, greatly to the alarm of occupants of the building. When the fire department arrived, however, the blaze had already been extinguished by the engineer, who was able to combat the fire unassisted by the use of the many fire-fighting con-trivances with which the new building has been provided. The result was that no damage was sustained by McGurrin & Co., investment bankers, the owners of the new building, and the blaze proved conclusively to the many office tenants that the building is fire proof.
