

NOTICE.

A Special Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will be held at the New Tabernacle, in this City, on Thursday, October Fifth, 1871, commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning. The next day, Friday, October Sixth, the Semi-annual Conference will commence, as usual, at 10 o'clock in the morning, at the New Tabernacle.

BRIGHAM YOUNG,
GEORGE A. SMITH,
DANIEL H. WELLS,
First Presidents of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

SALT LAKE CITY,
Sept. 8th, 1871.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY.

THAT PRISONER.—U. S. Marshal Patrick called at the City jail, this morning, and requested Officer Wm. Hyde, the jailer, to hand over to him the prisoner Killfoyle. Mr. Hyde said that Killfoyle was not in his charge, and referred the Marshal to Warden Rockwood. It is probable that the prisoner would be taken, under protest of Warden Rockwood, by the U. S. Marshal, some time to-day.

CALLED.—We were pleased to meet, this morning, Elders David M. Stuart and Thomas Harris. The former, as previously stated in the News, lately returned from a mission to the Eastern States, and looks well and hearty, and the latter recently arrived from St. Louis, where, for some time past, he held the position of President of the Branch of the Church in that city. His present intention is to locate in Ogden.

SICKNESS.—Considerable sickness prevails in the city and vicinity, probably induced partially by the long continued heat and drouth, and the checking of the heat by the late cool nights. The sickness is chiefly, as usual in the Fall, derangement of the stomach and intestines, with some cases of typhoid fever. As the evenings become cooler, greater care of the health will be advisable, or colds and other affections arising from keen climatic changes will be likely to increase in prevalence.

SHARP SHOOTING.—Yesterday, between 8 and 9 a.m., as a lady and gentleman were standing near a well, a conical bullet, evidently from a Sharp's rifle, whizzed before them, not more than six inches from their faces. Our eyes beheld the bullet, which came from the swamps westward, but why directed towards the houses in the city is not apparent. Individuals who indulge in shooting on the out-skirts of the city, should have the good sense to know that if they direct their guns towards the houses, wounding or death may be likely to occur and the charge of manslaughter may hinge thereupon, all of which would be very uncomfortable.

A USEFUL DISCOVERY.—A deposit of a substance of a rather peculiar nature was lately discovered by a gentleman of this city, about five or six miles south of here. It appears to partake of the combined qualities of fine white sandstone and pumice, although much softer and not near so gritty as either of those substances. It is so soft as to be easily pulverized into fine particles by the pressure of the fingers. The discoverer and Mr. W. H. Miles, brush-maker, have utilized it in the polishing of tin, brass, copper, etc.; it is admirably adapted for this purpose, producing a beautiful polish in a few moments' application. Mr. Miles has put up in boxes and on sale, at his place near the city liquor store. It is said to exist in large quantities in the place where discovered, and it is intended to send it to the Eastern market, where it is thought there will be a ready sale for it.

THE CONTEMPLATED CHANGE.—The change of the locality of the junction of the U. P. and C. P. Railroads, and the establishment of "Junction City," five miles north of Ogden, is said to be still in contemplation, although no really practical steps have yet been taken in the matter. Some people express the opinion that the change will not be made. Whichever way it goes, the people of Ogden are generally unconcerned, for the prosperity of that city is already established, and it is exceedingly doubtful whether the moving of the junction would materially diminish business there. It is rather anticipated that it will increase it and make matters more lively all round. The matter of a few miles is of but little consequence in this rapidly growing western region, and, judging of the future by the progress of the past few years, it is not too much to expect that, should the projected new city be established, it might not be long before, by the spread and growth of both places, they would become united and be one city.

CHEAP FREIGHTING.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the U. C. R. R., a contract was entered into with the Utah Southern Railroad Company for the transportation of ores, by which a through rate is given of $35 per car from Sandy Station (the nearest point to Little Cottonwood Canyon) to Ogden. Much has been said in favor of the advantage and, indeed, necessity of cheap freights for the successful working of many of the mines southward, and all interested will be gratified to see the U. C. & U. S. R. R. Co's. taking the initiative in the reduction of the figures.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY.

OBSEQUIES.—The funeral services of Bro. Albert Merrill, Jr., took place this morning in the 14th Ward School House, which was well filled with his relatives and friends. Addresses were made by Elder Geo. Q. Cannon and President George A. Smith.

THE NEW MEAT MARKET.—The old market was closed on Thursday last and the butchers moved into the new one on the following day. The fixtures in some of the stalls of the latter are tasteful and elegant. The change is a very desirable one, the new building being placed on an open plat of ground, and the interior of the place presents a very light, airy, and wholesome appearance.

A FALL.—About noon to-day, a young man named James Brown, and who was evidently partially intoxicated, fell down the steep flight of stairs leading from Main Street to the beer saloon in the upper floor of Geo. Goddard's new store. He remained in a state of insensibility for nearly fifteen minutes after falling. On recovering he was taken home in a wagon. He did not, we are informed, sustain any serious injuries.

ARTIST AS WELL AS SOLDIER.—We saw, the other day, in the Art Gallery of Messrs. Savage and Ottinger, an exquisite little oil painting, from the pencil of General de Trobriand. It is a landscape, with a herd of buffalo in the fore and mid-ground, and represents a scene on Douglas Creek, Dakota Territory. It is quite a little gem, and shows that the General is not only capable of wielding the sword, but that his hand is also cunning in the use of the palette and brush.

A GOOD DEAL OF POWER.—A gentleman asked a Federal officer the other day if he thought it was according to the letter and spirit of Republicanism for one man to be invested with the power of selecting juries. The answer was, "Well, it is a good deal of power to be held by one man." The officer alluded to is evidently a slight exception to the rule among the officers of the government with which this Territory is at present pestered. He had at least a modicum of conscientiousness left, which prompted him to partly admit that his position was a false one, although he does not possess either honesty or moral courage sufficient to abandon the position he knows to be false.

"It is a good deal of power to be held by one man." Exactly! Yet there is a continual outcry about the "one-man power" among the "Mormons," by those who are envious of the influence wielded by President Young. There is this difference between the power of President Young and the anti-republican political humbugs who obtrude their venomous, pestiferous presence among honest men—the latter overrule every principle of common law and justice to gain power over the people whose servants they are, while the influence enjoyed by the former is in consequence of his being the long and well tried friend of the people and because he occupies a warm place in their affections. If the people choose to have President Young, or any other good man, for an adviser, so long as his advice is based on principles of sound philosophy and common sense, whose business is it? No one's. And furthermore, the Mormons intend to continue to be law abiding and peaceable, and take the course that seems to them best, and their enemies can "whistle to the wind," for that has been their employment for some time past. "It is a good deal of power to be held by one man." We should rather say so. Talk of the people of Europe not enjoying freedom after this, when the citizens of a Territory of free America have imposed upon them a government official, with whom rests the entire responsibility of summoning juries in all suits, both United States and Territorial. Into the hands of that man, neither placed there by, nor having the confidence of the people, is measurably intrusted the safety of the people. "Fie on't."

INDIANS PACIFIC.—Athole, writing from St George, under date of Aug 29th, says:

"President Snow arrived here about 3 p.m. on Sunday, the 20th, having held meeting in Washington in the forenoon. On his arrival in St George he drove up to the Tabernacle, where meeting was being held, and gave a very interesting account of his travels and labors since he left this place, having been absent about six weeks. On the day after his return he had an interview with a number of the Indians who reside in this vicinity, they having been previously requested to come in and have a talk with him about their present difficulties, which resulted in much good, as a few of the Indians who had been stealing were present and acknowledged their misdeeds, and agreed to bring in all the stolen stock that were alive, some of which having died, and some had been eaten by them. They also promised to cease stealing and induce others to take the same course. Yesterday, the 28th, quite a number of Indians came in and had another talk with President Snow, in reference to their depredations and the appointment of another chief. They all evinced a friendly feeling, manifesting a desire to quit stealing and live at peace with the "Mormons." The wise policy adopted by President Snow towards the Indians, gains their confidence, causing them to see it is to their interest to maintain friendly relations with the settlers. A few of the Indians reported that it was at the instigation of some "whites" at present on our borders that they were induced to make the late raids upon our stock. They gave the parties' names, which, for the present, are withheld until the allegations are more fully investigated. If the statements of the Indians be correct the conduct of those they charge is most villainous, and, if persisted in, may lead to disastrous consequences to the rascals themselves.

OGDEN ITEMS.—The following items are from the Junction, of Saturday:

"Two miles of the Utah Northern Railroad have already been graded, near Brigham City, by the people of that place.

"Last Wednesday evening a fire broke out in the timber on the south side of Taylor's Canyon, supposed to have started from the lime kiln, and is still burning. On Wednesday night the flames rolled up bright and high, and presented a very beautiful appearance.

"The County Court of Weber, has issued an order prohibiting, on and after the 15th inst., the catching of fish, in any of the rivers or streams in the County, by other means than hook and line, except by persons having permission by license."

RELEASED.—We learn, from the Millennial Star, of Aug. 22nd, that Elder W. M. Bromley had been, on account of ill health, released to return home, with the company which was to leave Liverpool on the 6th instant.

An anecdote is told of a young lady of Harrisburg, who was recently on a riding excursion. The horse commenced kicking, when she, in the most simple manner, requested her companion to get out and hold the horse's leg, or he might injure the vehicle.

More Outrages at Provo by U. S. Soldiers!

The following dispatch was received by Deseret Telegraph this afternoon:

PROVO, 11th Sept., 11 o'clock.—About 12 o'clock last night, a detachment of U. S. cavalry surrounded the house of John J. Baum, situated on the Provo river, about three miles north of this city. A part of them entered the house and called for a light. Mrs. Baum replied that she had no matches. One of the party proposed to furnish matches. They, however, failed to give light. About this time, Mr. Baum passed out of the house, close by the outer yard, and, as they supposed, to get a light at a neighbor's house, near by, but on discovering it was Mr. Baum, they fired several shots at him. Some of the party report him as fatally wounded, as they were near, within a few feet, and saw him fall over an embankment into a thicket of brush, which grows densely along the river bottom, but as I understand, did not follow to secure the body. About two a.m. the party surrounded the house of H. L. Davis, and demanded to know if he was at home. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Baum, answered that he was not, and that they might search and see, but that her daughter, Mrs. Davis, was dangerously sick. It is said the Marshal roughly seized Mrs. Baum by the arm, demanding what she was doing there. The above are the facts in the case up to the present. Not finding Mr. Davis, the party retired to the Railroad House, Mr. T. Swarthout, and are now strolling around town.

This is a most brutal circumstance, and needs considerable clearing up. How is it? Are squads of armed soldiers at liberty to roam about the Territory, shooting whom they please? This is not the first affair of the kind. We pause for some sort of an explanation of this bloody raid.

THE MAMMOTH BOOT, SHOE, AND HAT STORE of Dunford & Sons is well supplied with all classes of goods in their line. Their business is both Wholesale and Retail. By charging moderate prices, which they invariably do, they expect to continue to enjoy a large share of public patronage. They have lately received a large stock of fall and winter goods. See advertisement.
