YOUNG MAN FOUND DEAD.

Rufus West Succumbs to Heart Failure—Mrs. Harper Dead.

[SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS-"]

Pleasant Grove, March 10.—Rufus West, the 17-year-old son of William B. West, was found dead in his father's stable this morning. He had attended a party the night before, and his body was discovered lying between two horses. It was at first thought that he had been kicked by one of the horses, or both, but it was afterwards decided by the coroner's jury and a physician that he died of heart failure. His father is in Iowa on a mission, and has been wired for, and will probably return. The young man had been subjected to spells with his heart and the excitement and exertion of the dance no doubt precipitated his death.

WEBER STAKE ACADEMY.

Interesting Exercises in Commemoration of Fund Day.

LECTURE BY DR. J. M. TANNER

Fine Showing Made by Academy—Splendid Apparatus and Other Acquisitions—Library Needed.

At the Weber Stake academy, Ogden, yesterday, special literary and musical exercises were conducted, and a lecture was delivered by Dr. J. M. Tanner of the Agricultural college, Logan. It was the occasion of the celebration of the founding of, more properly, the more complete furnishing of the physical and chemical laboratories of the academy by popular subscription. At two p. m. a large and select audience had assembled in the academy assembly hall. There were present on the stand, besides the faculty, President L. W. Shurtliff, President J. F. Middleton, Principal L. E. Moench, Hon. Anselm Stanford, and Bishop D. O. McKay, of the Weber Stake board of Education; Hon. D. H. Peery and Dr. J. M. Tanner.

The academy choir under the leadership of Prof. D. O. McKay, regaled the audience with sweet music. President L. W. Shurtliff delivered a short address of welcome, citing briefly and in terms of high commendation the nature of the work of the academy, and the celebration. A musical selection, entitled "Scatter Seeds of Kindness," was then rendered by Messrs. Alfred Bonham, Oscar Gurtson, Neils Lee and Mormon Cragan.

After several chemical experiments were performed and intelligently explained by a student, Joseph Flowers, in representation of class work in the laboratory, Anthon Anderson delivered a declaration of the purpose of the academy. Both parts were well presented and were representative of excellent class-work in science under Prof. J. G. Lund and in elocution under the instruction of Prof. W. H. Jones.

LECTURE BY DR. TANNER.
Dr. J. M. Tanner was then introduced as the lecturer of the occasion. The professor appeared in his most happy mood as to thought and expression and for an hour entertained the appreciative audience with a brilliant and forceful lecture.

A great educational work is being accomplished in the world today, he said, by public spirited people, in the founding and endowing of institutions of learning. Many of the leading institutions of the world, both educational and charitable, are maintained wholly or in part through the liberality of such people as Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, Mrs. Hearst, Miss Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stanford, and many others. Among the American people, composed of peoples from all parts of the world, are found some of the leading lights of civilization, this was largely due to amalgamation of the various nationalities composing the American commonwealth, to which was also due its strength and power. Utah, he said, was especially fortunate in this respect, because of the many study and leading men and women who had made up of its people. Here we are different in a certain degree from other States, in the fact that most of the people of Utah are actuated by one common impulse, the United States and become thoroughly Americanized, and are not nationally divided as foreigners are in a measure compelled to be in other States, where they flock by themselves, and the people of each nationality have their own quarters for themselves.

He referred to the educational work of the missionaries who go to the various parts of the earth; not only do they disseminate the divine truths of the Gospel, but they bring back much valuable knowledge, which they bring back home with them. To accomplish the greatest good and receive the greatest benefit from their experience it is necessary that these missionaries start out with a good education, that they may be able to cope with the world intelligently.

The speaker dwelt at some length upon the great importance of education, and advised the youth to the great need at the academy of a library for the use of the students and said that they should have at least a $2,000 library in the institution, and hoped that the spirited people of the academy would contribute to the purchasing of such a great necessity for the academy.

TREASURER'S REPORT.
The treasurer of the laboratory fund made a short report of the receipts and expenditures:
Receipts—Amount received in cash, $200 in labor, etc., $95.95; total, $295.95.
Expenditures—Total amount expended for instruments and other appliances, $100; balance on hand, $195.95.

A soprano solo, "Madeline," sung with a soul of expression by Miss Lucile Ferrin, was heartily encored and the lady sang "Supposing," one of Bishop's compositions.

Hon. D. H. Peery, one of the donors to the laboratory fund, was called upon to address the audience, and was greeted with a generous applause.

Principal L. F. Moench presented the members of the academy, the faculty, and others, who had generously subscribed to the fund for the establishment of laboratories in the institution, adequate for higher college work. The names of the donors, many of whom are non-Mormons, have been duly engraved and framed and will ornament the walls of the laboratory they have founded.

A chorus, "Our Friends," concluded the exercises, and the visitors dispersed after observing the improvements recently made in the several departments.

The days' exercises were closed with a grand ball, given in Christensen's hall during the evening, which was very largely attended and enjoyed by all who participated in it.

It is pleasing to note certain changes that have been made in the current school year in the academy, both in the acquisition of school appliances and in the adornment of the building. Two hundred loads of soil hauled last autumn has fitted the grounds for a lawn and ornamental shrubbery which will soon grace the environments, while new furniture, papering and pictures and paintings decorate the inner walls, making the several study and class rooms enchantingly homelike and pleasurable. A set of physical apparatus equal to the best in the State with certain valuable acquisitions in appliances for chemical work will enable the institution prosecute college work in both chemistry and physics. Altogether the institution is to be congratulated on taking a higher step in educational lines.

There is a great hope of what can be accomplished on the occasion of the celebration that the inception of so laudable an undertaking would grow to greater proportions by the munificence of other donors until a two thousand dollar library would be added to the needed valuable acquisitions of the institution.
