LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

LAST NIGHT OF "ACROSS THE CONTINENT."—To-night Mr. Oliver Doud Byron will make his last appearance at the Theatre in that excellent sensation play, "Across the Continent."

THE ROAD.—The following came by W. U. Tel. line:

CORINNE, 27.—The storm still continues, the snow about 6 feet in the west west of Rawlings. The train that left Rawlings last on the 23rd has not reached Medicine Bow; the train that left Rawlings yesterday, left Bitter Creek, going west, at 8 P.M., to-day.

A blizzard, snowing hard and drifting badly, no trains have passed here since the 23rd. There has been a fearful storm throughout Montana. A colored man was reported to have冻死 in Northern Montana. Fort Shaw dispatch reports that 1,000 buffalo were on the road between there and Fort Benton. The weather this morning is moderating.

ACCIDENT.—A young man named Franklin E. Johnson, a resident of the Ninth Ward, and an employee of the U.C.R.R., while attempting to couple two cars yesterday morning, near the depot, was badly crushed in consequence of the draw-bars passing each other, and the car coming down which he stood between them. He was immediately conveyed home, and Dr. Anderson was summoned to attend him. The doctor considers the case very critical, the patient having sustained severe internal injuries.

The above was mislaid, or it would have appeared yesterday.

Mr. O. D. BYRON'S BENEFIT.—To-morrow night Mr. Oliver Doud Byron takes a benefit at the Theatre, on which occasion will be presented the thrilling sensation play entitled "Ben McCullough, or as Captain as Death." Mr. and Mrs. Byron will both appear in this piece, and will be supported by the full strength of the company.

All who have seen this gentleman as "Joe Parker" in "The Comedy of Errors" will be seen enough to assure them that he is an accomplished actor; but speaking of him as "Ben McCullough" at the California Theatre, the San Francisco Papers say:

"Those who have only seen Mr. Byron in the part of Joe Parker, can have no idea of his ability as an actor; he has an opportunity to display his talents to best advantage, and the hearty applause which his efforts drew from the audience proves that he is thoroughly appreciated."

Don't forget to crowd the house at the benefit to-morrow night.

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED.—Night before last as a man, whose name we have not been able to learn, was walking at a late hour in the Eleventh Ward, he was knocked down by three men, dressed like soldiers, who robbed him and left him insensible. It is very safe these times for citizens, who have occasion to be out late at night, to leave their valuable at home, and to be prepared to resist an attack from parties whose business is plunder. This is the second robbery with violence that has occurred in this city within the past few days.

LECTURES.—To-morrow evening a lecture will be delivered in the Morgan College, by Mr. J. Morgan, Subject: "Battle-fields of the Rebellion." Seats free. Entrance east side. Lecture commences at seven o'clock.

A SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—Mr. H. Mitchell writes that the children of the day and Sunday school in the First Ward had a jubilee on the afternoon of Tuesday last, in which they participated in singing, recitations, and other intellectual pursuits and amusements. Simple experiments in chemistry were made and explained by a professor whose name is not given. Astronomical illustrations and the magic lantern were also included in the bill of fare. The school was well attended, and the schoolroom in the school house, lasting from five till eleven o'clock, which was free and well attended, and on both occasions all present had a full share of pleasure and enjoyment.

SENATOR SARGENT AT ORDER.—The Oregonian describes a pleasureous which the Oregon people enjoyed with Hon. A. A. Sargent, Senator elect from California, who was on his way to Washington. Mr. Sargent and family were serenaded by the Oregon Brass Band, led by Capt. Pugh. Mr. Sargent, in responding, said—

"GENTLEMEN: I thank you for this compliment. I am pleased to find here in the midst of deserts, so far in the heart of the continent, a band, capable of discerning such sweet music. It has been thought that the Americans have as good a taste in music as any nation in the United States; this seems to me true, but not true in the most important sense. You have no Senators, yet you have six Senators to speak for you. We of the Pacific, are exposed to a special difficulty of your wants, and are in great want of a public library. For myself, I desire to see, speak and act so as to promote your real welfare. You have vexed questions now pending before Congress, and authorities at Washington, concerning the location of which will affect the prosperity and peace of your Territory. I trust they may be settled without passion, and for the best."

In the last Congress I took position in the matter of violent interference with your institutions, while having an sympathy with your faith or practice of Mormonism, while sharing in the trials of my gentle friends for their cause. I believe it to be the curse of every house, and state, to be in every aspect. The lessons of history teach us that religious persecutions or constraint never reformed faith or turned man from error. I now, however, do not now firmly believe that the influx of Gentiles, business associations, communication with the outside world by means of this railroad, would gradually enlighten the Mormons, and let light in upon this dark spot of our American soil. The solution of the Mormon question is what we want; and I hope that more general intercourse, in conscience and in time. We do not want civil war to blight your fields, to break up your land, or force a consumption that overcomes your entire system of realization.

I almost feel as if I spoke to my own people. However, that may be a slender to your argument, but I do not mean to aid your material interests, to care for your moral course, your head questions and your various wants, and thank you for your kind attention, and tell you good night (Cheer).

The next day several prominent citizens of Ogden had an pleasant interview with Mr. Sargent at the Utah Hotel, when he expressed his policy to be to let the "Mormons" alone to work out their problems. He was opposed to further legislation concerning the "peculiar institution," and to the trial of the members of the command. Federal trials were to be avoided, as alleged murderers a fair trial, but not before a packed jury or a biased or partisan court. He accorded sympathy to the "Mormons" in their religious belief, but thought Congress would not recognize plural marriage in a religious light.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Among the latest improvements noticeable on East Temple St., is that effected by Mr. Daniel Green in rebuilding and enlarging his store, formerly styled by him "The Little Den." This is now more like a palace than a den, its large French windows, the porch of the most elegant style, its interior is spacious and convenient, and contains a choice stock of good things, which the proprietor desires to sell to the public on very terms. For further information, see page 11.

JUDGE COURT.—A further investigation into the Miller property case was set for this afternoon; the stabbing offense being that caused a negro, colored man, to be apprehended in.

THE JOURNAL.—The last number of the second volume of the "Ogden Journal" was received to-day, from which we learn that the paper is prosperous and its prospects are flattering. We are pleased to learn that, for the Journal is well worthy the support it receives, being a steady and reliable journal, it is in every way creditable and truthful, while the rights of the people are secured; and, as a co-worker in Zion's great cause we record the success with pleasure, and heartily wish it a large increase of prosperity and usefulness in the future.
