SOCIETY WOMAN'S BEAUTY SECRET DISCLOSED.

Some surprising and interesting facts were learned while in conversation with the eminent French authority and beauty specialist Madame Clemenceau, who is passing through the city. Madame Clemenceau, who has been here for some time, still retains the rosy, plump and blushing complexion of a girl just turning 18. When asked if leading a very quiet life had brought about her youthful appearance she replied to the contrary, saying here had been very strenuous, being engaged in traveling a great deal of her life through all kinds of conditions and climates.

By way of conversation the specialist was induced to speak on how so many of our society women with their task of entertaining, loss of sleep, etc., managed to retain their fresh youthful appearance the whole secret said the specialist, lies here—open a small, neat, little machine right here. It is arranged so that you can carry it with you anywhere, taking up but small space in your traveling case or grip. It can be attached to any electric light socket and in the privacy of your own room you can apply the machine to any part of the body. When used on the face it will prevent wrinkles by developing the tissues, also the neck and bust. It gives to the face that plumpness and ruddy color that cannot be obtained by the use of cosmetics. This is the height of every lady's ambition you know and besides this it will cure all rheumatic pains in the body. It makes the old young and the young younger. See these machines on exhibition in the windows of the BIG STORE, 41-51 East 3rd St. We will be glad to send our demonstrator in your home to show you the full merits of this wonderful machine. Phone Ex. 12. It will cost you nothing to investigate.

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The leading paper of Syracuse published last month a picture of the home of Brigham Young in Port Byron, built by him in 1829, and a column and a half was devoted to the picture and the famous man whose career has interested the public so many years. The house in question is on the Auburn and Northern railway at the junction of the Rochester-Syracuse and Eastern railway. In 1825, the article goes on to say, Brigham Young came from Vermont to live in Port Byron, the town at that students in the life class, both of which Mr. Richards attends. A taste for art in this line is nothing new with the young man, his tastes always being alive to illustrating, and the recent trip abroad with his parents and grandparents this summer decided him to take up the work and perfect himself in it.

Last Saturday the "Dela Mi" fraternity of Horace Mann of which Miss Nan Clawson is a member, on invitation of one of the young ladies whose home is in Brewster, N. J., gave a party and picnic for her young girl friends at her country home. It was an ideal day and being chaperoned by two wishes of president and fellow missionaries. Monday morning Mr. Cardon leaves for Washington and Chicago on his way home.

Last Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Richards, of Salt Lake, arrived in the city for a few days' visit. Mr. and Mrs. Richards are guests of their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Richards, and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer are at the St. Francis, on West Forty-seventh street. Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Spencer left for Philadelphia, to visit their relatives in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Crismon and Miss Martha Martineau, and will return here Monday morning.

Miss Bertha Roggie, who has been living in New Jersey for nearly a year, was at chapel services of the Latter-day Saints today; she will leave in a few days for Salt Lake City, where she has relatives.

Saturday morning Miss Inez Powell, of Logan, who is a student of Teachers' college Columbia, left by boat for Cohoes Falls, New York, to visit with her relatives there. Mr. Samuel Powell, her uncle and family, welcome Miss Powell most cordially, she being the first of their family from the west to visit them. Miss Powell will return Monday.

time being known as "Buckville." Renald Ames, a man over 90 years—but still living and well—remember President Young, and says in the Haydon Mills, where both were employed, he was known as "hail fellow well met" with everyone; his friends were numerous, and he is spoken of in the highest terms by the old residents, some of whom are alive, and many relate little incidents of his popularity while living in the village. It was here he met and married Miss Miriam Works, and for several years Port Byron was their home. They occasionally visited in Manchester and around Palmyra for a few weeks at a time. The article goes on to say that the name of the street Nauvoo, on which Mr. and Mrs. Young lived, was given to the first city the people built up after leaving New York state.

The article speaks in the highest terms of Mr. Young's honesty and refers to several debts he left in the town, which his son John W. Young, by his father's orders, returned years after and paid with the interest in full. Attention to the house in question has been brought before O. J. Coughlin of the Rochester-Syracuse and Eastern railroad, with a request for him to use his influence in preserving the old building and making of it one of their stations at the junction of the two electric roads. The sentiment expressed by the people of Port Byron for their old townsman and friend is a testimonial to the esteem in which the name of Brigham Young is held in this day in that village and the surrounding country, and it will be justly prized by every member of his family. It was through the courtesy of Julius F. Wells, that the writer obtained the foregoing newspaper clipping and the picture. It having been sent to him by a friend in Vermont.

At the Art league on West Fifty-seventh street, Jack Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dewey Richards, is now enrolled as a student. Young Mr. Richards shows unmistakable ability as an illustrator, the few pieces of work he has done already bear the earmarks of talent in that direction. The mornings in the school are given to the antique, while the afternoons are for teachers from the college the party enjoyed a treat that was delightful in every way.

The visit of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Godde and Mr. and Mrs. Murray Godde to the city the past week has been a very short one; important mining business brought the gentlemen to New York, and every moment has been devoted to that matter; the ladies of the party have taken in the sights of the city during the day, each evening being devoted to theatrical attractions, which are in greater evidence this season than ever before. Thursday evening saw the departure of the Salt Lakers for home.

Today, Miss Margaret Sparke, who is attending Mrs. Hazen's school at Pelham Manor, came down to spend Sunday with her friend, Miss Mae Scowcroft, a student of Teachers' college, Columbia. Both young ladies are from Ogden and well known in social circles there.

Miss Mason whose parents moved to Ogden, Utah, five years ago and whose father is engaged in the packing business there, is a senior at Barnard college and will graduate next May. Miss Mason lives with her aunt in New Jersey, she having remained east to complete her college course but will go out to Utah next summer to visit with her parents. She and Miss Scowcroft, also of Barnard and Miss Scowcroft, are the Ogden representatives of student girls in the city.

Last Tuesday the Republic of the White Star line brought Elder Guy Cardon of Logan, as a passenger. Mr. Cardon came down to New York from Boston, as soon as possible, and he will remain for a few days as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Soule. Elder Cardon has filled a fine mission in Holland, laboring principally in Rotterdam and Amsterdam; his health has been far from good, the damp climate not dealing with him, but in spite of ill health his labors have been unflinching for the welfare of the people among whom he has been placed; he returns with the best

ABOUT HAIR LOSS

WHILE every case of hair loss is sad enough, there is now and then, one that is actually pathetic. The face of the person may show no sign of approaching age but the thinning hair with its dullness and lifelessness becomes a gloom instead of a crown of glory. Unconscious neglect due to ignorance of—or indifference to—the dandruff germ is at the bottom of most cases of hair loss.

MANY WOMEN

Many women take no particular interest in preserving the hair until it begins to fall. While it is still abundant they regard its destruction as out of the question, but when injury comes fast and furious they become almost frantic with alarm. A dozen remedies are tried in as many weeks all of which do little or no good whatever.

AN INSIDIOUS ENEMY

There is no more insidious enemy to beautiful hair than the dandruff germ (an invisible growth of vegetable character that finds lodgment in the sebaceous glands of the scalp). Dr. Sabouraud—ask your doctor about him—says that this germ usually enters the scalp in youth, and that months or even years may elapse before its presence is even suspected. The first symptoms are usually dullness and brittleness of the hair with later dandruff and itching scalp. Falling hair and baldness represent the final stages of this disease.

WITH THE NAKED EYE

It is possible to tell with the naked eye whether a hair root is badly diseased or not. Pull a hair from the head of a young person and the root will appear large, whitish and ragged, showing the perfect adhesion that existed at the bottom of the hair follicle. If the hair from another scalp shows a smaller, gelatinous appearing root without the ragged edge, it points unmistakably to disease.

HOW IT OCCURS

The dandruff germ inflames the sebaceous glands, causing the secretion of too little or too much sebum, resulting in extremely dry or very oily hair, with dandruff. This inflammation in time extends down the follicle walls to the papilla where the adhesions are loosened thus cutting off the hair's supply of nourishment (hair nourishment comes from the blood and not from "hair tonics"). After these adhesions are broken by disease, the hair is apt to slip out at any time.

WHAT HERPICIDE DOES

The province of Newbro's Herpicide is to destroy the dandruff germ, after which the hair resumes its natural beauty and abundance; unless the disease was neglected too long. Herpicide has done and is still doing more toward saving and beautifying the hair than all other remedies combined. It does not instantly destroy the thousands of germ colonies in a badly diseased scalp, nor does it do any other impossible thing.

JANUARY AND JUNE

Successful results from Newbro's Herpicide in January will not prevent a reinfestation of the scalp in June, but the intelligent use of Herpicide will accomplish all that any human agency can accomplish, and that in many cases is little short of marvelous. As a hair dressing, and for toilet use, Newbro's Herpicide is recognized by connoisseurs as the daintiest and most delightful preparation in existence. It makes the hair light and fluffy and gives it a silken gloss. It contains no oil or grease and will not stain or dye the hair. Try it today.

Sunday being the anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Early of west One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street, a number of their friends gave them a surprise in the evening, the house being filled with flowers and all good wishes from their numerous friends present. Elegant refreshments were served, the party being composed of musicians and an evening of enjoyment was had by all.

Among other western people seen at the Plaza this week have been Mrs. A. E. Hyde and Miss Hyde of Salt Lake City, who are spending some time in town. JANET

Duquesne Millinery Vies with Paris Millinery
For beauty, charm and originality it would puzzle you to tell a DUCQUESNE HAT from a Paris hat. Many a model created in our own work room is practically French in all but the label and price mark. Inspired by French models, made on French frames, built of French materials, put together by fingers that seem to have absorbed French skill and taste; are they not almost as French as anything from Paris? This week a special showing of petite millinery, correct exclusive styles; eastern prices.
