FRAGMENTS.

Last night was cool enough. Ho for the Lake to-morrow. The burglars are still at it. Look out for 'em. These moonlight evenings are beautiful beyond description. Several impecunious miners were furnished a lodging at the City Hall last evening. The attention of the Police Justice this morning was devoted to the consideration of several cases of drunkenness. The many friends of D. M. McCallister, Esq., will be pained to hear that he is lying very ill at his residence in the 17th Ward. During the wrestling match on Washington Square, this afternoon, Syron, one of the contestants, had his knee dislocated. The News acknowledges the receipt of British periodicals of latest date from the enterprising firm of J. A. Maynes & Co., Herald Building. A CRACK pigeon shot from Ogden named Howe, came down this morning to try his skill against an amateur from this city named Brim. The match was in progress to day. No country like America! Two thousand five hundred miles without change of cars is what is now possible by the new arrangement of the Northern Railway Company. The first through sleeper from Chicago to San Francisco passed through Ogden Sunday night. The Salt Lake bicycle club held a meeting last night for semi-annual election of officers. H. Cutler was chosen Vice-President, vice Ed. McCallister; Walter Jennings, Secretary and Treasurer, vice Chas. Howe; and Wm. Wood sub-Captain, vice H. Cutler. The other officers of the old board were re-elected. A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers.

LOCAL NEWS.

Disastrous Fire.—The following special dispatch to this paper was received this morning: LOGAN, U. T., July 8, 1884. The United Order Manufacturing and Building Company's steam saw mill burned to the ground last night. Nothing definite about the cause of the fire has yet been ascertained. Loss about $12,000. Insured for $5,000.

The "Contributor."—Number 8 of this excellent periodical lies before us, and is full of interesting, instructive and amusing reading matter. The table of contents shows an imposing array of literary talent, and the typographical appearance of the magazine is faultless. The poetical contributions are from E. B. Snow and H. W. Nalabitt.

To-morrow's Excursion.—The Sixteenth Ward Band Excursion to Black Rock, which leaves on to-morrow, will doubtless be a pleasant affair. For the accommodation of those who perhaps cannot spend the whole day there, we are requested to announce that there will be three trains leaving this city, viz., at 8:40 a.m. and at 1 and 5:10 o'clock p.m. Every arrangement has been made for an orderly social recreation, and no pains will be spared to make it an enjoyable one to all who go.

Card of Thanks.—I desire to publicly acknowledge my sense of gratitude to Miss Edith Clawson, Miss Nellie Druce, Messrs. W. E. Weber, Thos. C. Crawford, Jas. Crawford, H. O. Whitney, J. D. Spencer, the members of the Theatre Orchestra and Tabernacle Choir with Conductor E. Beesley, Jos. J. Daynes and Wm. A. Bosler, for the kindness manifested in their endeavors to assist me at the concert one week ago. Ladies and gentlemen, thank you and all from the bottom of my heart, and remain sincerely your friend.

ANORA OLSEN.

Salt Lake City, July 7th, 1884.

THANKS.

Editor Desert News: Permit me, through your columns, to express my gratitude and thanks to W. W. Ritter, Esq., Samuel Ritter, Hon. John Sharp, Messrs. Douris and Anderson, the employees of the Utah and Nevada Railway, and others who contributed to the best of their ability toward assisting the suffering of my father in his dying hours while at Lake Point. And for the numerous acts of sympathy and friendly feeling, bestowed by neighbors and, in fact, almost the entire community, I shall always retain and cherish a sentiment of regard which time can never dispel. The occasion was one of sorrow and affliction; but the acts and words of friends made it as light as was possible. To all, heartfelt thanks.

DAVID G. CALDER.

On behalf of the family of the late David G. Calder.

Land Surveys.

Office of UNITED STATES SURVEYOR GENERAL, SALT LAKE CITY, July 7, 1884. Plans of sub-divisional surveys in township No. 10 South Range, 4 East of Salt Lake Meridian executed by Ernest H. Hesse, U. S. Deputy Surveyor, has this day been filed in the U. S. Land Office.

FRED SALOMONSON, U. S. Surveyor Gen'l.

By JOHN H. CAMPE, Ass't Chief Clerk.

Southern Mobergery.—Elder John C. De la Mere, now laboring as a missionary in the State of Alabama, gives under date of the 5th of June, an interesting account of his experience in preaching the gospel in those parts of the country, and of the difficulties he has met in delivering the message with which he was commissioned. On the 27th of April a meeting of citizens was called to discuss the labors of our Elders and to decide whether they should be longer tolerated, and the conclusion was that they should not be—at least, on returning to the place where this matter had been deliberated. Brother De la Mere was informed on the 7th of May that he and his fellow laborers were not wanted, and further that he would be allowed until the next day to leave the place. In the meantime Elders Moutrie and Richards who were laboring in an adjacent section came in, having been mobbed in the place where they had been. They were holding a meeting when a crowd gathered by a preacher and all armed to the teeth rushed into the meeting-house and commenced so urinating their guns, to the great fright of the women and children. They broke up the meeting and threatened to kill the Elders, so how however was done, and the brethren were well and cheerful, realizing that the Latter-day Saints have to be near to God and work harder for the building up of the Kingdom than our enemies do in trying to pull it down.

THE TERRIBLE TORNADO.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF SUNDAY'S FATALITY.

A News reporter called last evening at the residence of Col. H. F. Kimball to interview his daughter, Miss Tessie, one of the ladies who was injured in the fearful calamity which overtook their camp at the head-waters of the Weber, last Sunday evening. Miss Kimball was still suffering from the injuries she received by the fall of the tent, and was unable to stand, and was quite willing to talk, and gave a very graphic recital of the occurrence as it came under her personal observation.

The party which left this city Saturday morning was composed of 15 people: Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jennings, Miss Alice Clark, their nurse girl, and two children, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Wells and daughter Kitty, Miss Tessie Kimball, Mr. Mason, Mr. Robson, of Boston, Ray Kimball, Miss Tessie's younger brother, and the negro cook, Theo. Washburn. They left at 10 o'clock, and were in the same night, and stayed there till morning. Their journey up the cañon next day was exceedingly difficult, owing to storms of hail and rain, with thunder and lightning, experienced at intervals during the day. About the middle of the afternoon the party halted at a saw mill where they rested and were entertained by the inmates of the house to tarry till morning on account of the storms. Some of them were impressed to accept the kind invitation, and others to go on, and the others to do so, but finally yielded to the wishes of the majority who thought there was no danger, and being but a quarter of a mile from the camping place, desired to push on and put up their tents for the night.

They reached their destination—a beautiful grove of timber, about twenty-three miles from Washburn—at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, and the work of "camping out" immediately commenced. One tent having been raised, the ladies and children all gathered in it. The men were out putting up the other tents, and the tenting teams, the cook getting supper ready, etc. In the centre of the ladies' tent was a large bale of bedding, not yet undone, and they were all sitting around it conversing, with the exception of Kitty Wells, who was standing on top of the tent. This was at fifteen minutes to six o'clock. Miss Kimball said that all at once she heard a whirling sound, swiftly approaching, and exclaimed to the others: "Something's coming," but was laughed at by them, even after she had repeated her fears. Suddenly a terrific gust of wind was heard, preceded by a blinding flash of lightning, the whirling or buzzing sound increased in intensity and ere the frightened group could recover their speech, the fury of the tornado burst upon them.

The whirling had made directly for the grove of pines in which the tent had been pitched, and tore through the woods with the force of a battery of artillery. Thirty trees were uprooted in an instant, twisted to splinters and dashed shivering to the ground. Three large pines fell with a crash right across the tent, the ridge pole gave way and one of the front ends descending struck Miss Wells upon the right temple. Miss Kimball was hit by one of the trees, across the back and right hip, and crushed with the rest of her companions under the tent falling ruin. The nurse girl, Miss Clark, received slight injury in the foot. Mr. Frank Jennings, who with the other men had started for the tent on hearing the first sounds of the coming tornado, was felled to the earth by a tree as he was in the act of entering the tent, while the negro cook narrowly escaped from a tree or branch, which flew past him with the speed of lightning, just grazing his skull.

All was the work of an instant. Mr. Jennings was not hurt, nor did Miss Kimball, in the excitement of the moment, suppose herself to be. The storm passed in a few seconds, making a roadway right through the forest and leaving devastation in its track. The efforts of the men had been directed to the rescuing of the ladies. The fallen tent was tipped to shreds, Miss Tessie herself handling a knife and helping to drag out the bodies of her friends, all of whom were supposed, for several minutes, to be dead. Miss Kittie was taken out insensible bleeding from a gash wound in the forehead, and lived all fifteen minutes afterwards and expired in her parents' arms. Miss Kimball and Miss Clark were the only others that were injured. The bale of bedding, which broke the fall of the trees and tent poles, undoubtedly saved several lives. Over the scene which ensued, after columns had been partly restored, the grief of the survivors who had been suddenly bereft of their darling, and the spirit of gloom which settled down upon the souls of all, we will draw the curtain of silence.

A message was written by Mr. Jennings—the one we published last evening—and sent by a man to Coalville, two hours after the disaster occurred; and this, with a telephone message from Ogden after the party had reached there on their return, with a few facts gathered up from various sources, was all that could be learned of the matter until the arrival of the party in this city at half past four o'clock yesterday afternoon. They are resting in the cañon over night, and the next day reached Washburn, where they were met by Sexton Taylor with a special train.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells, with the body of their dead child, accompanied by Mr. Mason and Mr. Robson, will leave for Chicago in the morning. They are the guests in this city of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jennings. The little one who was killed was not their only child, they have a younger one, a little boy named Walter. He was fondly attached to his sister and about the last words he said to his parents on their leaving Chicago, where he now is, was to entreat them not to take Kitty with them. But her health was so delicate that the change of air was deemed advisable. Both she and her mother, who is an invalid, had improved from the time of leaving home, and the trip up the cañon, it was hoped, would benefit them still further. There is but one sentiment, one of heartfelt sympathy and condolence, that can be felt for them in this hour of affliction.

NELLIE WHITE.

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE HEROINE.

Several hours after the release of Miss Nellie White from the Penitentiary, a representative of this paper was granted an interview with the lady, who has in the last six weeks become a person of note, admired for her heroism and fortitude under circumstances of a very trying nature. On the 22nd of last May Miss White was subpoenaed before the Grand Jury of the Third District Court, who, supposing her to be a plural wife, were desirous of obtaining information regarding her alleged husband—Bishop Rousby, of Washp. The questions put to her—which were published in the News at the time—she refused to answer, as she deemed them improper to be asked, being all or mostly of a personal character, concerning herself and her individual acts, and therefore considered by her to be impertinent.

She was asked if she knew the consequences of her refusal to answer; she replied that she did, but persisted in declining to satisfy the demands of her inquisitors. She was then taken before the District Court, where Judge Hunter read out the questions propounded to her, and on her still declining to answer, she was ordered into the custody of the U. S. Marshal, to be kept until she complied with the demand made upon her, or till the further order of the Court in her case. Since then she has been an inmate of the Penitentiary, occupying the same room in which Belle Harris was confined for a similar cause, and fed on prison fare like the common convicts of the prison-house.

Reporter:—How were you treated by the guards at the penitentiary, Miss White? Miss White:—Very respectfully. They showed me every consideration consistent with their orders, and my duty was very kind to me, and I liked her very much.

Reporter:—What kind of food did they give you? The common prison diet, meat, potatoes and bread, with coffee for breakfast and tea for supper, but as they allowed no sugar or milk with those beverages, I preferred to do without them. There was no butter, but we had good soup every other day, and once a week pork and beans. They would not permit my friends to furnish me with any little extra, except a little fruit, until the 4th of July, when all the prisoners, myself with the rest, had the privilege of receiving edibles and little comforts brought to us by our friends.

Reporter:—Has your health suffered during your imprisonment? My health has been wonderfully good, considering. The heat of the place was at times oppressive, and there was but little fresh air, but I was allowed to leave my room every day from 9 to 10 a.m. and from 3 to 4 p.m., so that I got a little change and exercise. The room in which I was held was furnished with a cot, and as I could be under the circumstances, I only suffered from the food, its sameness, I mean, and my imprisonment in general.

Reporter:—Were you allowed to receive visitors? Yes, but only in the presence of the guard, and with a strict exception of Miss Kate Field. She was left alone with me. She staid about an hour, in fact as long as she wanted to, and was not interrupted, though the specified time for callers to remain was half an hour, and my own friends were only permitted to speak to me in the presence of the guard. Miss Field questioned me very closely, but I had nothing to tell beyond what the public already knows. All my visitors expressed great sympathy for me.

Reporter:—At what hour yesterday were you released? "About 11 o'clock. The warden's wife brought me the news, which had been telephoned from the city, and my friends soon afterwards came and took me away in a carriage.

Reporter:—Were any efforts made, while you were in prison, to induce you to answer the questions put to you by the Grand Jury? None at all, and I should not have answered them if they had been. I consider them improper questions, and I do not know of any punishment which would compel me to answer them.

Another Burglary.—Sometime between midnight and daylight this morning, the residence of Mr. T. C. Armstrong, in the 15th Ward, was entered by burglars, who succeeded in going through the whole house and taking what they wanted without waking any of the inmates or leaving any trace that would lead to their capture. At a late hour of the evening when Mr. Armstrong returned from a meeting he had been attending, everything was quiet and in order; but on arising this morning he found that he was robbed of his watch, a pair of trousers, a chain, and some $47 in money, which the adroit thieves had taken from his trousers' pocket. The police are working on the case, but there is at present no clue as to the perpetrators.
