THE LIVER AND ITS FUNCTIONS.

It has become a well established fact that the larger portion of diseases to which the human family is subject arise in the first place from some derangement of the Liver. This organ is not only the largest, but at the same time one of the most important. The venous blood, on its return to the heart, passes through this organ, and in the passage the impurities, as also the secretions which are necessary for digestion as well as for a cathartic to assist in the removal of waste material, are eliminated. From this it readily follows that the Liver is liable to get out of order to a greater or less extent, and when this occurs it is impossible for the properly child its office of removing all objectionable matter from the blood, but allows it to pass through, carrying with it the poisons of which it should have been relieved.

With impure blood the whole system becomes deranged, and no organ can properly perform its functions. The blood, supplied with FUNCTIONAL DERANGEMENT of the LIVER, becomes all impure, and the whole system suffers. Do not become discouraged and say your case is incurable, for no matter how long standing, or how many remedies have been tried without success, there is every reason to believe that PRICKLY ASH BITTERS will cure you. Do not delay, but commence at once to use this great remedy, and write to us for any information you may desire. Pamphlets free. Sold by druggists. Price, $1.00 per bottle.

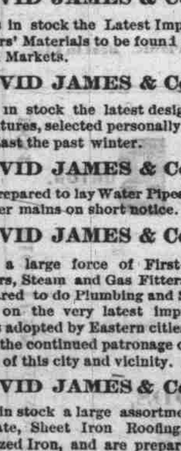
GEN. W. F. SHERMAN'S PRICKLY ASH BITTERS.



The result of years of study, experiment and medical practice of Dr. R. F. SHERMAN, its originator, and its success in every case where a trial has been made, is truly wonderful. Its action on the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels, in a mild manner, by its timely use, prevents many diseases from fastening themselves upon the system, by first expelling them from the blood. Prickly Ash Bitters acts directly on the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels, in a mild manner, by its timely use, prevents many diseases from fastening themselves upon the system, by first expelling them from the blood. EVENING NEWS.

Friday, - April 11, 1884.

A TRUE STORY OF THE STREETS.

The other morning two gentlemen were looking out of the window of a house, when they observed a cabbage roll off a market wagon that was passing. Instantly over a dozen well-dressed and apparently sane persons began yelling after the wagon as though the vegetable had been a gold watch. The driver stopped, looked back at the cabbage, yawned, and drove on.

"What an absurd fuss people in the street make over trivial occurrences," said one of the gentlemen. "Now, I'll bet a sum that I could get a crowd of five hundred persons around that cabbage inside of thirty minutes, and yet not leave this room."

"I take the bet," said his friend, pulling out his watch. "Are you ready?"

"Yes; give the word."

"It is now 11:30. Go!"

The proposer of the wager led his friend to the window, threw up the sash, and taking a cane, pointed earnestly at the mud-covered cabbage with a terrified expression.

Presently a cab driver noticed the action, and began to stare at the vegetable from the kerbstone, then a boot-black stopped, then a bill poster, a messenger boy, and a merchant.

"What's the matter?" inquired a German, approaching the innocent base of his national dish.

"Don't touch it! Look out there! Stand back!" shouted the gentleman at the window.

At his horror-stricken tones the crowd fell back precipitately, and formed a dense circle around the innocent cabbage. Hundreds came running up and the excitement increased rapidly.

"Look out there!" frantically screamed the better, waving his cane, "Take that dog away quick!"

Several stones were thrown at a cur that was sniffing around the cabbage.

"Take care!" said a cab-driver to a policeman, who was shouldering his way through the mass. "It's an infernal machine, nitro-glycerine—or something."

Meanwhile the pavement was blocked, the street became impassable, women screamed and rushed into the shops, and a shopkeeper began to tie a bucket on the end of a long pole with which to pour water on the devilish invention.

The crowd by this time numbering over a thousand, the two gentlemen moved away from the window and sat down. In a few moments there was a hurried tap at the door, and there appeared a man who had been sent as a delegate from the mass-meeting outside.

"I should like to know, gentlemen, what the facts are," he said.

"What facts?"

"Why, what there is peculiar about that cabbage out there?"

"Nothing in the world," was the soft reply, "except that it seems to be surrounded by about a thousand of the biggest fools in town. Do anything else for you?"

The man reflected a moment, said he thought not, and retired.

TO PREVENT BEES FROM SWARMING.

"How can bees be prevented from swarming?" They cannot be entirely kept from swarming, but in great part they are prevented not only by giving the queen laying room, but by the combined result of giving laying-room for the queen and room for the surplus, and having the boxes on both sides and the top, and taking off the boxes as they are finished up, thereby keeping the bees building comb all the while, and not having the top of the hive so tight as to confine the heat so closely in the hives as to cause the bees to cluster outside. If the above points are observed, not even ten per cent. of the stock will be apt to swarm. To explain more fully, I will give a modus operandi that I practice. Give your stocks only as many combs as the queen will keep well filled with eggs (six or seven Langstroth, American or Quimby frames), and as soon as the young bees begin to hatch plentifully, but not so much as to be crowding, give the stock a frame of sections (surplus honey boxes), with foundation or comb-starter in one side, and as soon as the bees begin to work in the section given them another frame on the other side of the brood combs. When they are well at work on these, give them an upper case, putting the boxes from the side into the upper case, placing a frame of fresh sections between those being worked in and a fresh frame of sections on each side of the brood, and in that way the young bees are set to work instead of being the mischief-making preparations for swarming, and if fresh sections are given as fast as the bees become numerous enough to occupy them, and take out the full ones as fast as finished, putting empty ones in their place. Next be sure that every queen has her wings clipped close off, and if they then show a disposition to swarm, take a frame of capped brood from the centre of the nest, giving one empty frame in its place. The frames thus taken from several hives can be given to a weak stock. The more swarming is prevented the more profitable the bees are.

A CADET'S FREAK.

M. Edouard Seguin, a youth of 18, belonging to a highly respectable family of Marseilles, France, was recently admitted into the military school of St. Cyr. Having taken a dislike to the career of arms, he suddenly disappeared from the school in the the month of December last. Nothing was heard of him despite the researches which were made both by the authorities of St. Cyr and his anxious relatives. A few days since, however, he returned to the school, went straight to the general in command of the pupils, and confessed the truth. It seems that on the Sunday he left he was to have accompanied his companions to Paris, but on reaching St. Cloud he quitted the train, bought a felt hat, and, entering the Bois de Boulogne, threw aside his shake, cut off the buttons of his regulation overcoat, and thus disguised took the train to Calais, on his way to London. Being possessed of only 30f, he could not proceed further than Dover, where he found himself with but 2f. in his pocket. Nothing daunted, he walked to London, where he arrived in a most exhausted condition. A policeman, who was struck by his appearance, took him before a magistrate as a vagabond, and, as he refused to give any account of himself, he was tak en to prison. He remained there for some days, until the chaplain of the jail succeeded in eliciting his story, and at once kindly advanced him the necessary means for an outfit and his expenses to Paris, without having first even satisfied himself of the truth of the youth's assertions. The Council of Discipline of the school was compelled to dismiss him, but in lieu of inflicting punishment the Minister of War has sent him into a line regiment. M. Seguin has passed a very good examination at St. Cyr as well as in the Lycee at Marseilles.

HORACE GREELEY'S BOYHOOD.

Horace Greeley's personal appearance was always a subject of remark from his boyhood. Rollin C. Mallary, a member of Congress from Vermont, who was an able champion of the American System, used to narrate a visit of his to the printing office of a country newspaper at Poultney, Vt., his place of residence. His attention was attracted to a young compositor, who was rather awkwardly "sticking types," and who, though full grown, was evidently the youngest apprentice in the office. His legs ran a good deal more than "a feet" through his pantaloons, the sleeves of his coat scarcely reached below his elbows, his hair was very white and flaxen, and he was, on the whole, in the aggregate, taken separately and together, the greenest-looking specimen of humanity we ever looked at, and this is saying a good deal, for "we keeps a looking-glass." "That boy," Mr. Mallary, "will make a remarkable man; I can't hold an argument with him on Masonry or anything else connected with politics." As Mr. M. was considered one of the ablest men in Congress, his remark caused me some surprise; and we not only "made a note of it," but took another look at the "devil" (printer's we mean), and could not but trace in the expansive forehead "a mind formed in nature's finest mould and wrought for immortality." It was years afterwards that we became aware of the fact that that boy was Horace Greeley.

WHY HE GOES IN.

In Chicago, a few days ago, a gentleman having quite a local reputation as a wise financier, met an acquaintance who was getting ready to go into business.

"Have you considered the hard times?" asked the financier.

"Well, yes."

"You know that business failures were never so numerous?"

"Yes."

"Railroads are having a hard time of it?"

"So they are."

"Factories and foundries all over the country are shutting down?"

"Yes."

"And reports are abroad showing that winter wheat is more or less injured?"

"I've read 'em."

"And in the face of all these warnings you go into business, calculating to pull through?"

"Well, that depends on what sort of a settlement I can make with my creditors in the spring. I wanted to start in time enough to fail in April and get squared up for the summer trade!"—Wall St., News,

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS and DISORDERED LIVER.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, a feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work, and are a perfect
